The Woman Question.
If women suffer all the wrongs described by Mr. Boyd last night—women are allowed to suffer such wrongs by male legislators elected by male voters—the argument for woman suffrage is, certainly, a very strong one.
If women had votes all statutes bearing against them would be speedily wiped out. Legislators would not wait for the next election, but would make haste to do justice to those who held the power to turn them out of office. It would not be necessary for one woman to vote in order that woman should get equality before the law. If the great aim of reforms, therefore, is to amend the laws that are unfair to women, the sooner the ballot is put into the hands of the woman the better. Mr. Boyd spoke of woman-suffragists and Free Love advocates in one breath. We hope he did not intend to sneer at the many noble women, in England and America, who are woman-suffragists. Some of the noble women of England—women whom Mr.
Boyd has referred to admiringly in his lectures, believe in woman having the right of suffrage. Englishwomen who have necessary property qualification, and no husbands, do, in fact, have the right of suffrage, and exercise it without commend or reproach. Women are elected to School Boards, and show that they can govern as well as teach. If the majority of women should ever demand the right of suffrage they will have to meet with some better argument than that they are uneducated and ignorant of the household. Mr. Boyd advised the girls not to take up too rapidly with a crooked stick, and deplored unwise marriages. This is the strongest possible argument in favor of allowing women to be members of the learned and unlearned professions, eligible for office, etc. They would then have something besides matrimony to look forward to for a living, and would not be so ready to take up with crooked sticks.

It would be a good thing to dissolve the House immediately, just for the purpose of getting rid of Mr. Napier. Every day he contrives to have himself set before the people in a ridiculous light, bringing disgrace and contempt on the Legislature of the Province. He should get the reporters not to mention him at all.

Mrs. Gaines has testified before the Committee, at Washington, that Judge Durell (Judge of the U. S. Court at New Orleans) authorized her lawyer (Mr.

Stone) to make proposition to her that upon the payment of $20,000, and giving him (Durell) every other lot of land in two squares of the land in New Orleans, she declines to accede to. Subsequently she met Durell at the residence of Norton, and upon asking him why he could not sit in her cases he referred her to Norton.
Shortly after she met Norton, who repeated the above proposition made by Stone, and she again refused.

Mr. Lee's Opera House has an excellent reception last evening. The Opera House was filled in all parts. The programme was varied and interesting. The great feature was the exhibition of the Fairy Sisters—the smallest children in the world. They appeared on the stage several times and were carried round the house, creating a lively interest. They are certainly very small, nothing being larger than a good sized doll. The graceful way in which they walked about the stage and threw kisses to the audience created loud applause. The performance ended in "Smoke," a laughable sketch.

Women's Rights and Wrongs—Mr. Boyd at the Institute.

At half-past seven last evening the Institute was full, and three or four hundred spectators in all. It was one of the greatest successes ever known in the building. Mr. Boyd began at the beginning, showing that God gave woman to the first created man. The happiness in Paradise, the fatal apple, the meanness with which Adam put the blame on Eve, modern Adams, Eves, apples, serpents, etc., were treated in Mr.
Boyd's best manner. Artemus Ward's experiences among Shakers, Mormons and Free Lovers were read, creating much laughter, and then the speaker earnestly exalted virtuous Christian homes, denouncing the Woodhulls, Claffins and Brigham Youngs of the present day. The woman question in Turkey was also dealt with. The lecturer then described certain kinds of husbands, specimens of each kind being known to him. Husbands who meddle with affairs in the kitchen, beat their wives, or use their earnings to buy for themselves instead of food and clothes for their families, were depicted in a manner that must have been unpleasant to any of the representatives of either species present. Mr.
Boyd gloried woman "in her proper sphere," as the angel of the household.
He then spoke of the rights of woman, as attempts should be made to redress woman's wrongs. Wives are subjected to unbearable cruelties by brutal husbands, their earnings are squandered in taverns, they are subjected to every species of maltreatment, and if they leave the brutes to whom [which] she law gives them, their children may be torn from them. The husband may not only separate them from these offspring while he lives, but, dying, may appoint an executor, bequeathing to the fond mother and her own children. These wrongs should be redressed.
The laws should protect wives from marital brutalities. Wives should not be forced to choose between a life of subjection to brutal men and separation from their babies. Women must not seek to right those wrongs by becoming ward politicians. Nothing could be more degrading than the examples that have been given of women's interference in elections—giving a kiss for a vote, etc. The lecturer also advised woman not to be in a hurry to marry, not pick up the first crooked stick that is offered, but to wait until she is offered hearts and hands worthy of acceptance.
Professed flirts were condemned as strongly as though the lecturer had been trifled with by one of them in his younger days. Masculine flirts, male and female fickleness, and the like, were treated in detail, giving by certain St. John public men for celibacy, wedding and funeral expenses, match-making manna, rejected suitors, bashful wooers and henpecked husbands, were treated in the vein of satire. Mr. Boyd's lecture was the greatest master on the lecture platform, illustrated with anecdotes, personal reminiscences, and poetical quotations.
The speaker paid an eloquent tribute to women in the hospital, engaged in providing homes for the poor orphans, teaching in the public schools, and as Sisters of Charity. These were examples of the elevation of women. The true charity should be in the home of the wife and mother, and should be their high-priest.

The lecture was an hour and three-quarters in delivery, and pleased every one of the thirteen hundred who listened to it.

The Green Eyed Monster.
A few individuals who were wending their way from King street to the Post Office at about half past eight, last evening, were considerably amused by the enactment of a little comedy in which the green eyed monster—jealousy, was the moving spirit. The scene was set in a room, with a young and blooming damsel on his arm, was interrupted by another and probably discarded charmer, who seems bent on prosecuting a prior claim on the gay creature. The two, impatient gestures and gentle pleas, failed to rid the loving couple of their unwelcome follower. Her persistence presently brought the weight of the man's stick over her back, yet she would not desert from her attention.
Finally the Post Office was reached, into which the persecuted man fled, leaving the fair but frail rival to tend their way up Princess street, without his gallant escort.

N. 45 miles; at 3.49 a. m. the next day it proved to be a large vessel, apparently laden with petroleum, and further service behalf down to the water. At 5.29 a. m. the steamer Titan, of London, from Galveston for Liverpool, was in sight. Both steamers waited until daylight, and not seeing any remains, or any signs of the crew or boats, and no further service being required, at 7.10 a. m. both steamers bore away for Liverpool.

Sleighing Parties.
Yesterday afternoon and evening there was a large number of sleighing parties out on the road. Many were anxious to take advantage of the fast-moving snow. The large sleighs were in demand and some of them were crowded with women and children. The scholars of one of the Sunday Schools were treated to a drive by a merchant of the city. A party of ladies (married ladies) were also seen in one large sleigh enjoying a drive, without a man to bother them, except the driver. They had a good notion to drive themselves, but afterwards decided that men being their servants they might as well make use of one of the sex. The party took tea at the Claremont House. They kept excellent hours, returning to the city between eight and nine o'clock, delighted with their drive and tea. A series of resolutions are said to have been passed, but the ladies declare that they can and will keep them a secret. The husbands of the ladies will probably go out for a drive, but will not likely return quite so early. Last evening a party left the city for McGowan's, and from the amount of white muslin and flowers carried it was evident that a dance was contemplated. They enjoyed the evening very much, and returned at a late hour this morning. The snow, under the genial rays of the sun, is fast melting from the roads, and sleighing will soon be used up.

held last evening. Coun. Jordan in the chair. A communication was read from improvements were made. The subject was referred to Ward 4 road committee.

A bill in relation to levying taxes was read and ordered to be sent to the Legislature. Coun. Gilbert brought up the subject of the proposed Park Company which the Legislature is asked incorporate. After some discussion Mr. Gilbert gave notice that he would move to have the matter discussed. He said the Sessions would petition against the Bill.
The Council will meet next Monday evening.

Institute Dinner.
Gilbert Murdoch, Esq., President of the Mechanics' Institute, entertained the Directors of the Institute, and about thirty other gentlemen, at the Victoria last evening, after the lecture. The host presided, and the Vice chairs were occupied by W. P. Dole, Esq., and H. L.
Sturdee, Esq. The speakers, in response to the various toasts, were John Boyd, Gilbert Murdoch, W. P. Dole, H. L.
Sturdee, Rev. James Bennet, J. L.
Lanegan, J. V. Ellis, Wm. Elder, J. W.
Stewart, J. A. S. Mott, J. W. Lawrence, W. F. Smith, Dr. Allan M. Ring, Captain Flood, Rev. A. M. Stavelay, Rev.
Dr. Waters, George Stewart, Jr., and Jas. Milligan. The speeches were brief and pointed, and the best of feeling prevailed. Personal allusions were freely made to each other by the speakers, the impression being that all present were gentlemen, and that the pleasantness would not be reported and distorted for the purpose of attempting to injure any of those who indulged in them. It is never safe, however, to joke before the foolish or the mischievous. The manner in which some men attempt to reproduce the pleasantness of the dining-room, wedding breakfast table, etc., in the press, is disgusting, and only to be excused by charitably supposing that the wise is responsible. At private dinners among gentlemen things are said that would not be spoken at public dinners, and the man who publishes them violates every law that is supposed to be binding on gentlemen. In the course of the speeches the fact came out that Mr. Boyd's readings and lectures have realized $28,225; every cent of which, together with a great deal more, Mr.
Boyd has given to charitable purposes.
The good work done by the Institute in bringing out men of talent from the ranks of our own people, and in moulding and developing the literary tastes of St. John, was dwelt on, and the sentiment generally expressed that there could be no going back from the advanced position taken up by the Directors in reference to paying for the services of the gentlemen who occupy the platform.
Some of the speakers intimated that an effort would be made to make each branch of the Institute—lectures, reading-room, musical, etc.—support itself, instead of being supported out of a common fund.
Mr. Murdoch's Presidency will be memorable to all the coming generations of Institute goers, for two innovations—paying lecturers for their services and closing the course with a dinner at the President's expense. Some of the coming Presidents may not thank President Murdoch for the latter precedent, but all the lecturers will bless him for the former.
