If he had preached Land League doctrines in Tyrone two years ago he would not have escaped alive. The League had spent no money on the election. He advised the tenant farmer to observe an attitude of reserve, and not be demoralized by the Land Act. The executive Committee of the Lesgue would submit a programme to the coming national con-vention. The movement was never in better position. Several leading London newspapers claim that Parnell was dis-comfited in the Tyrone election.

C. M. B. A. NOTES.

A special meeting of Branch No. 3 Amherstburg, was held at the Branch Hall on Thursday evening, September 8th, 1881, to arrange for the funeral of Bro. John G. Maloney, late Recording Secretary of the Branch.

There was a very full attendance of members; and after appointing commit-tees to attend to details, the Committee on Resolutions made the following re-on Resolutions made the following re-port, which was unanimously adopted. Resolved, that the members of Branch No. 3, C. M. B. A., mourn the loss of a valuable officer and member by the death of Bro. John G. Maloney. Resolved, That the Branch will re-member with cratitude the services of member with gratitude the services of Bro. Maloney, in the offices of Financial and Recording Secretary, in both of which he has successively acquitted himself with honor and fidelity. That his intercourse with his brother members has been always genial and courteous, and his official acts administered with care and impartiality. That this Branch condoles with the bereaved wife, and now fatherless children, and pledges itself through its members, and in virtue of the obligation each member takes at his initiation, to provide in every way as Brothers should for a Brother's family when deprived of their natural protector.

Resolved, that the Branch will attend the funeral in a body; that the hall be properly draped with mourning emblems for the space of the next thirty days. That a requiem Mass be said at the expense of the Branch for the repose of his soul, and that public prayers for the same purpose be writed as each machine of the Branch A great number of French troops have been ordered to prepare to go to Africa and reinforce the French army there. Mr. Parnell, speaking yesterday at Castlereagh, county Tyrone, in support of the candidature of the Rev. Mr. Rylett, the candidature of the Kev. Mr. Kylett, Land League candidate for the representa-tion of the county, said: I have come to Tyrone to your county after an eight months' struggle in London with the enemies of Ireland to carry on that struggle on the soil of our country (cheers). I ask you, the electors and people of Tyrone to-day, to decide between us, who represent truly the people of Ireland, and the Government which has forged letters of coercion for the noblest of Irelands' children (cheers). In a few days you will be afforded a practical opportunity of saying whether you are on the side of coer-cion or freedom. An election is shortly to be held, and I have come to ask you to choose as your representative a man who has stood fearlessly beside the people in their hour of trial (a Voice : Rylett for their hour of trial (a Voice : Rylett for ever.") Mr. Rylett has, at my request, and at the request of many influential electors of the county of Tvrone, came forward to contest this seat in the cause of the Irish National Land League and the lard for the people (cheers) He is confronted by two other candidates—the one, Mr. Knox, who, I believe, was a supporter of Lord Beaconstield's Government-(groans) —which we succeeded in getting rid of at

they would not assume the responsionity of opposing Mr. Dickson, it was thought that Davitt's prison doors would have been opened, and that the Government would have released the patriot priest, Father Sheehy—(cheers)—but the answer to that universal demand from the Irish people has been to double-lock the cell by Gaoler Forster. I suppose we shall be told that we should be grateful for the release of John Dillon. When John Dillon was arrested I told the Government that his arrest and imprison-ment would be death and may work here ment would be death, and my words have come true. The Government only released him when they saw that continued imprisonment would have prevented him walking out of his cell; and that a coroner's inquest would have brought in a ver-dict of wilful murder against the English Government. So we do not thank them that they have allowed the noble John Dillon to draw the few remaining breaths that were left in him in free air. John Dillon is not, and cannot, be long for this world. In no case could his life have been spared to Ireland for more than a year or two; but the brutality which he has received from the present Government, who gave him six feet by twelve of a prison cell to live in (groans), accelerated his death, and now we can only hope for John Dillon in the land of the living during a very few short months, and it is in face of Wheat, Spring... Such a measure would give to landlords a rental of one or two millions sterling only in-stead of seventeen millions. The tenant farmers of Ireland had paid four hundred millions since the union for the right to millions since the union for the right to live on their own land.

OBITUARY.

John G. Maloney, who died Thursday forenoon, was born in what is now the town of Amherstburg, in the year 1844, and was the eldest son of the late Michael Maloney. He was brought up on his father's farm in Malden, and was for three father's farm in Malden, and was for three years assessor, and two years collector of that township. In April, 1877, he pur-chased the American Hotel property on the corner of Apsley and Richmond Streets in this town. Deceased was Re-cording Secretary of the Amherstburg Branch No. 3, of the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association, and his family will now receive $2,000 from that Society. February, 1869, he was married to Miss Esther Deneau, daughter of the late J. B. Esther Deneau, daughter of the late J. B. Deneau, of Malden, and she and six children-three sons and three daughters, the eldest 12 years of age-survive him. When deceased was first confined to the him. house about three weeks ago, it developed into a severe case of typhoid. A large circle of warm personal friends, by whom he was much respected, will hear of his death with feelings of deep sorrow. The funeral took place on Friday afternoon at
