

WHEN TO KILL WEEDS

Weeds are most readily killed while they are young and before seeds have matured. A single pigweed may form 100,000 seeds; some weeds have been known to mature over a million seeds plant. A seedling weed is easy to the world"-one month. kill, a mature weed is hard to kill, while several thousand weeds allowed to mature and foul the land may cause many years of labor.

One of the best places to kill young weeds is in the seed bed. In grain fields through that fascinating factory of history three months. out of the young grain by the use of a spike-tooth or drag harrow, or with a weeder. Surface cultivation of the soil right home by the fire—under one year after harvest will cause the germination or over ten. of a multitude of weed seeds and the seedlings can be grazed off or will be killed by frost. It is a mistake to allow weeds to mature seeds; for instance, it is frequently profitable to cut a weedy grain crop ried-a couple of weeks. before the weeds mature seeds and use the crop for hay. Likewise, a weedy 18 hores, and arrive at the club house hay crop should be cut early.

The value of preventing weeds from

MY OWN TOWN

Breathes there a man with soul s ead, that never to himself hath said This is my own, my native town? It suits my inner feelin's fine, to think along this sort of line, and no fresh guy can call me down can call me down . . . I've allers knew that civic pride should fill the village dweller's hide, and leave no space fer slacker stuff. I'll sight ye to our City Hall, our Churches, Schools, our streets, an' all,—which shows that we keep up to snuff! I hate to see a bailiwick all littered up with boards an' brick, a-cryin' out in vain fer paint. It hurts to see the wimmen-folks a-peelin' spuds or artichokes,—pretendin' somethin' that they ain't. . . . The village corperation lends a smart distinction to its friends, who allers hold some sheers of stock. . . You'll notice public sperit here, from up about our Mayor's cheer, to the husky babies in our block! You might select our well-groomed streets, as fittin' place to spread the eats, if you should like to dine in town . . but gosh,—of course you wouldn't dare—the wheels of progress, rollin' there, would spill yer drinks an' knock ye down!
