HARTLAND'S GROWTH IS STEADY

Many New Buildings This Year and
Signs of Industrial Activity

Two years ago, after a long period of rather slow growth, Hartland experienced what seemed to be a building "boom" which has since settled into a period of steady growth. No village between Edmundston and St. John is growing so steadily and swiftly as Hartland, and all because people are discovering it is a nice place to live. Its people are a friendly class and its atmosphere and surroundings seem conducive to health, for a serious outbreak of disease has never been known here. There has not been a single case of typhoid originate here since the water system was completed 23 years ago. Perhaps no other town in Canada can show an equal record in this regard.

Among houses built this season are two on Hillcrest avenue—a very pretty concrete building by Harry Barter, and a very pretty two story cottage by Allen Barter. On the hill near the John Bradley property three new houses are under construction, one by Benj. Irving, which he has been occupying for some time, and others by Perley Clarke and Stanley McLellan.

On the Burtt property the new Anglican church makes a beautiful showing and nearby Roy Letson has a house up, while J. W. Montgomery is laying the foundation for the construction next year of a handsome bungalow.

On Main street, south end, N. E. Constantine has completed a neat two story cottage, William McPherson has built a handsome little bungalow, and the remodeling of the McMullin house has created a delightful old colonial villa.

In the village A. F. Campbell rebuilt after the fire that partially destroyed his home in March, and he now has a very attractive home in a fine setting, he having purchased and added to his grounds an adjoining lot. Across the street S. S. Miller has made extensive additions to his house, which will render it one of the handsomest in town when completed.

In the business section the J. Clark & Son building will add to the appearance of general prosperity, and alterations and additions to the woodworking property indicate that industrially Hartland is going ahead.

C. A. Craig has been appointed vendor of game licenses.

ANOTHER APPEAL

For Christmas Stockings for the Wounded Soldiers

The Red Cross Society of Hartland has again been asked to contribute Christmas stockings for the brave men who will have to spend Christmas in a military hospital. This year New Brunswick is asked to provide 3500 stockings—more than double the number required last year. We shall again provide red stockings, and anyone who will make and fill one or more, can obtain it from Miss Annie Davis.

It is especially asked that the stockings should not be too weighty nor contain too many or too valuable gifts, and the total cost of each stocking should not on any account exceed $2.

In order that every man should receive gifts approximately of the same value it is suggested that each stocking should contain one gift out of each of the following classes.

1. Pocket mirror cheap stylo, pocket pencil, pocket knife, pipe or match box.
 2. Writing pad and envelopes, fancy post cards.
 3. Candies (chocolates preferred), chewing gum, (candy must be put in a box, not in paper bags or parcels).
 4. Handkerchiefs, neckties, socks.
 5. Game, book, puzzle, mouth organ.
 6. Toilet requisites such as soap, toilet powder, tooth paste, tooth brush, pin cushion.
 7. Packages of raisins, dates or figs, nuts. (Please do not send any peanuts as they do not keep fresh).
- In packing a stocking, remember that it must travel many miles, and please see that its contents are such that they will not break or spoil in transit. Do not put in sticky candy or flimsy packets of insect powder, nor matches.

The stockings filled must be returned to the Armoury on Sept. 24 with a list of the dutiable articles, such as candy, soap, etc., as in sending over shipments we have to comply with the regulations in this respect, marking on the outside of each case, value of dutiable articles contained in it.

We would ask that these directions be carefully followed; that great care be taken in filling them, remembering that they are for our wounded men in hospital and that they represent our thought for their joy and comfort, and telling them they are not forgotten on the day which is so dear to us all.

On behalf of the Red Cross.

CARLETON CO. BOYS FOUGHT AUG. 15

Sig. H. A. Sipprell Writes The Observer About It

Perhaps you will be interested to know, as well as many readers of The Observer, how the khaki lads from your home town and near vicinity fared during the drive of Aug. 15. The fight was a hard one but again our splendid troops proved themselves equal to the task. Although the Hun counter-attacked repeatedly he was unable to regain any of the lost ground.

After being relieved and returning to our billeting quarters it was very touching to note the interest manifested in behalf of pal looking up pal, or inquiring if he was safe. Many found his pal, while others never came back. The following who are well known to Hartland and vicinity did their bit in the recent fighting and came out free of battle scars: Frank Dickinson, W. B. Nixon, C. Thornton, K. Havens, Fred Wallace, Bart Wallace, H. Margison, Jas. Manzer, Jas. Pratt, Frank Goodwin and others that I have forgotten to mention.

Just recently Joe Wallace of another Battalion very unexpectedly dropped in upon us and we were all very glad to see him. Joe is a cheerful chap and always has a good word and pleasant smile for everybody. It does one good to meet such a splendid fellow.

I would like to impress upon the general public, and those who have sons and relatives serving on the Western Front, of the importance of remembering them often by letters and parcels from the home-folks and others who appreciate their services and suffering for them. Some get mail on nearly every boat, while others rarely are ever remembered by a letter or parcel.

Just recently I was touched by the remark of one of our fellows after the mail had been called and he had been omitted: "My folks don't know that I am over here in France." I felt sorry for the chap and were you to see a case of this kind and note the contrast with the other fellow who sits on his bunk reading his home letter you would say that ten minutes or possibly a half hour would be well spent in remembering a relative or friend who is serving for you as well as himself at the battle-front.

I admit that the soldier on Active Service is often delinquent about writing home; but he has good reasons when compared to yours. When he is in action there is too much excitement as a rule to settle down to writing. Then when he comes out of the line he has to clean up and he unintentionally neglects to write. I trust that this brief note will inspire many to remember the khaki lads who are serving "Somewhere in France" by remembering them by letters or parcels or both. They appreciate being remembered and it will add cheer to many an otherwise dreary hour in the trenches or out of them, and thus increase their fighting capacity.

Our Signalling Section had good success and rendered good service in the recent engagement and we came out with one casualty which is considered good.

Wishing you good success with The Observer

I am yours truly,
Sig. H. A. Sipprell, 26th Batt.
