Landing of the Prince.

H. R. H. Prince Albert, who is a cadet on H. M. S. Cumberland, will land at 1 p.m. on Saturday, the 25th, at the King's Wharf, and will drive along Water St., Queen St., up Theatre Hill and thence by Queen's Road, Military Road to Government House.

Notes and Comments.

Rev. James Wilson, of Flat Islands, Placentia Bay, was elected yesterday President of the Methodist Conference in immediate succession to the Rev. Charles Leach. Mr. Wilson was ordained thirty years ago at Carbonear. Those who took part then were these: Rev. Dr. Dove, the President of the Conference, ex-President Peach, Rev. John Godison, Rev. Dr. Milligan, who have all passed away, and the Rev. George J. Bond, who was elected Secretary at that Conference, and who is now in Canada. We congratulate the reverend gentleman on the honour conferred on him by the Methodist Conference.

The Daily News this morning commends to the attention of its readers an article republished in its columns from "Colonial Life." The commendation arises apparently from the fact that it is eulogistic of Sir Edward Morris and the Reid Deal. It also contains some surprising information on the effects of that contract and the agricultural efforts of the Morris Government.

We learn that the Reid development of mineral, agricultural and timber land and other industries have been wonderful. Before the Reid Deal, we are told, farming was in its infancy and mining had scarcely been attempted. We would like to know what farming has been attempted in consequence of the Reid Deal, and what mining has come out of that contract. We learn too that many prosperous little towns have come into existence since 1898 and that St. John's has several rivals. We wonder where the many towns are. We know of only two, and neither came into existence as a result of the contract of 1898. Whatever effect the railway had on the opening up of these two towns, Grand Falls and Bishop's Falls, was due to its building, not to the sell-out of 1898. Moreover, these towns have their own railway and their own seaport. To the old miners of the north it will be singular intelligence that mining had scarcely been attempted at the time of the Reid Deal, and the miners of Bell Island will wonder what the Reid Deal had to do with the mining that has been enterprised largely since 1898.

After the surprising information about the development of agricultural lands by the Reid contractor, it is hardly surprising to learn of the efforts of the Morris Government "to persuade farmers to adopt scientific methods in agriculture." We are told that agricultural knowledge is being spread in various ways, chiefly through the newspapers. The foundation for this was the attempt some four years ago to induce newspapers to take some agricultural stuff compiled by the Downey-Devereaux commission. It was a failure and the newspapers dropped the stuff. The most extraordinary statement of all is the following:

"Teachers are sent to agricultural colleges in Canada and farming institutes are being formed by competent instructors, who will do everything possible to persuade farmers to adopt scientific methods in agriculture."

This might have been done, but was not done. The foundations of a system of teaching farming practically and scientifically were laid by the Bond Government, but these foundations were destroyed and a commission was instituted which had the effect of providing jobs for three Morris party men in the House of Assembly. The scientific system was destroyed to make three annual pensioners of three members of the Assembly, and yet we have this travesty of a policy disguised and distorted into a system of scientific education and commended to those it has outraged.

Oldest Woman in England Celebrates Her Birthday—Old Age Recipe: Work Hard, Eat Well, Early to Bed.

Mrs. Rebecca Clark, of High Road, Wood Green, who is believed to be the oldest woman in England, celebrated her 109th birthday yesterday. A fine looking old lady, with sight and hearing unimpaired, she still preserves in marked degree many of the attributes of youth.

Congratulations from all parts of the country poured in yesterday to Mrs. Clark, who has been looking forward with almost girlish joy to her birthday. A great event this year has been the gift of a Parisian bonnet, for to the soft impeachment of decorous feminine vanity Mrs. Clark cheerfully pleads guilty. Indeed, her unerring judgment in matters affecting the intricacies of fashionable adornment and her immediate detection of imitations have gained for her the very wholesome respect of milliners and modistes.

Despite an attack of bronchitis during the winter, which only her magnificent constitution enabled her to withstand, Mrs. Clark is still the perfect centenarian. The recipe for a bright and ripe old age, which she gave to a press representative on her birthday, was: "Work hard and eat well; go to bed early, and get out by times."

Golden Rule.
She still abides by these golden rules. Yesterday morning she was down to breakfast shortly after ten, and made a hearty meal, consisting of eggs, bread and butter, and several cups of tea, and for her midday meal she had cold meat and salad, new potatoes, stewed fruit and custard, with tea and bread.

Mrs. Clark expresses contempt for coffee and cocoa. "Give me the good old English fare," she says, "and to marines with your modern concoctions. She retired to rest at eight o'clock last evening."

On Saturday last the approaching birthday was celebrated with a gathering at which five generations were represented, the youngest member of the party, which included a daughter of seventy-six, being Mrs. Clark's great-grandchild, aged five.

Mrs. Clark still sings a little song, but despite the earnest entreaties of her friends she declined to sing a birthday song. The old lady has never been in a motor-car, and only once in a tram-car, but she enjoys an occasional trip by motor-car.—London, June 10.

Kyle's Report.

At 9.45 p.m. yesterday the Reid Nfd. Company had a wireless from the Kyle via Grady and Pogo. It read as follows:

"Arrived at Emily Harbour on the 25th, at 9.30 a.m.; prevailing winds N. W. to N. E., weather clear; called at all ports north of here; jam of ice right on land, no water visible, impossible to get further north. Returning south, left Smokey at 3.40 p.m. same day."

Methodist Conference at Carbonear.

Carbonear, June 25.—The thirtieth session of the Newfoundland Conference of the Methodist Church, opened to-day in historic Carbonear. The Rev. James Wilson, after thirty-five years in the ministry, was elected President. Rev. F. R. Matthews, B. A., was re-elected Secretary, and the Rev. C. A. Whitmarsh, M.A., B.D., Statistical Secretary. The attendance both of ministers and laymen, was large. Thomas Pitcher and W. H. Stanley Williams will be ordained and E. Mercer, of Bay Roberts, received into the ministry.

The Conference Friday Meeting opened at 11.30, after which the first draft of the stations was read. The statistics show an increase in membership for Carbonear, Bonaville and Burin districts, the net increase for the island being 272. Finances are well up, all round, mission finances being up over $400.

In the discussion on the State of the Work, Sunday Labour at Grand Falls and elsewhere was strongly represented, as militating against religious life.

Last night the Rev. H. P. Cowperthwaite, M.A., D.D., addressed the Conference on "Fifty Years in the Ministry." The lecture was reminiscent and graphic.—Daily News.

Successful Pupils.

The closing exercises of Mount St. Vincent Academy took place on Thursday last, June 19th, and was a gala day in the history of this splendid educational institution. Amongst the successful pupils we note with pleasure the names of Misses Emily and Minnie Mare, L. Kennedy, Madeline O'Dea, F. O'Dea, Silvia St. John and Margaret Doyle. All are known to our readers being young ladies of this city, the Misses O'Dea being daughters of Mr. J. V. O'Dea, Miss St. John a daughter of Mr. J. J. St. John and Miss Doyle a niece of Hon. John Harris and Mr. Thomas Harris, of Hearst & Co., while the Misses Mare are daughters of the late R. L. Mare. All did splendidly in the exams, particularly Miss Doyle who beat all competitors in her grade in French, English, Algebra, History, Latin, and passed and had honours in several other subjects. To these young ladies and their parents and friends we extend our congratulations on their several successes.

BROKE THE WINDOWS.—Recently Mr. C. L. March discovered on coming into his store, Water Street West, that some windows had been broken in the place. It is believed the intention was to steal some goods but the bars across them prevented this. Boys were seen prowling around there and the police are after them.

NOT WANTED.

Some amusing stories are given in an article on "The Little Stranger," by Dr. Norman Porritt, in the Strand Magazine for June. The new arrival may fill the hearts of the parents with joy, but it often happens that its reception wants the warmth of welcome from its little brothers—

"A bright little chap when shown the latest arrival exclaimed:—
"Why, father, it's got no hair!"
"No, it hasn't grown."
"And it's got no teeth."
"They haven't come yet."
"Can it walk?"
"Not yet."
"But it can talk, can't it?"
"No."
"Don't have it, father. It's a poor one. You've been done."
And again:—
"What do you think?" one little boy asked a playmate. "The doctor's brought a baby to our house. Isn't it horrid?"
"Rotten. Can't you get him to take it back?"
"No; it's too late. We've used it four days."
