Derby Day Incident.

Romantic Incidents of England's Premier Racing Event.

People who never bet and who usually take no interest whatever in racehorses yet find themselves reading the sporting intelligence in the newspapers when Derby Day comes round, says Spare Moments. Even bishops have been known to enquire the name of the winner. This year the excitement was unusually great, as it was the first Derby Day since racing was banned in the early days of the war.

A volume could be filled with anecdotes about the Derby and Derby winners.

The Derby of 1867 was perhaps one of the most sensational and romantic on record. It was won by Mr. Chaplin's Hermit, a horse reported to be lame. The race was actually run in a snowstorm, and the winner started at the long odds of 66 to 1. The plumping Marquis of Hastings lost a fabulous sum in bets over this race, and was ruined.

The pliancy of the situation was increased by the fact that, some years previously, Mr. Chaplin and the Marquis of Hastings had been rivals in love, the marquis carrying off the lady.

The Derby was one of the greatest gambling Derbies ever known, a well-known duke losing in a single bet £180,000. Hermit's progeny won nearly £350,000 in stakes. Mr. Chaplin, who purchased him as a yearling for the modest sum of one thousand guineas, presented his skeleton when he died in 1890 to the Royal Veterinary College.

Two Derby winners have died at sea. Blue Gown, the hero of '68, was sold to a wealthy American for £4,000, and died on the voyage across the herring pond. As the horse was not insured, the Yankee lost heavily over the transaction. A similar fate was that of Kingcraft. By a strange fluke he won the Derby in 1870, but in nineteen succeeding races did not once get past the post first. He was sold for £530 in 1884, and also succumbed to the stormy seas on his voyage to the States.

Amato was another famous Derby winner. His year was 1838. Belonging to Sir G. Heathcote, the squire of Epsom, he only ran upon one occasion—that on which he won the Derby.

He is buried in the beautiful grounds of the Durdans, Lord Rosebery's charming country seat.

The grave is surrounded by iron railings, and the stone slab gives full particulars as to the horse's age, and so on. It is beautifully situated within a few hundred yards of the Derby winning post, and here surrounded by beautiful trees, daffodils and magnolias in full bloom, the classic hero's bones rest peacefully.

A well-known public house in Epsom is named after Amato.

In front of the inn is a well. From time immemorial someone—no one has yet discovered who—has chalked a tip for the Derby on the cover of the well. Racegoers are notoriously superstitious and ready to follow the slightest tips.

A few years ago a one-time wealthy man was on the verge of ruin through his unfortunate gambling propensities. He had about £500 left, and made up his mind, so the story runs, to risk his all upon whatever horse the well "gave" for the Derby. This decision proved particularly fortunate, as the horse selected won at long odds against, and the lucky winner resolved never to back a horse again—a resolution he kept.

DISEASED GUMS AND TEETH.

Of all the poison taken into the blood, the germs and pus contributed by the diseased gums and teeth are the most destructive to the human system. If every red blood cell is forced to fight against numbers of germs to the cell, the blood cannot attend to the building up of the body, and it allowed to continue the system is bound to break down and eventually you are an invalid. Kidney, stomach, heart trouble, rheumatism and many other diseases are brought on by diseased gums and teeth.

Welcome Home.

Lieut. Gerald Coughlan, of the Victoria Rifles, is now visiting this city with his parents. Mr. Coughlan is one of five soldier brothers who donned the khaki in response to the call. He enlisted at Montreal as a private in the 148th Battalion, and won his commission by distinguished conduct on the field. He took part in the storming of Vimy Ridge and the fierce battles in the Arras section, was twice wounded, and was gassed during the hurricane advance of the Canadians in far-famed Mons just before the armistice was signed. The young soldier has been decorated with the Military Medal, Cross and Bar. We trust Lieut. Coughlan's stay will be pleasant and that his native air will quickly restore his usual good health, which has been somewhat impaired from the effects of gas poisoning.

Demise of Mr. John O'Neill.

Bay-de-Verde to-day mourns the loss of one of her oldest and best citizens in the person of Mr. John O'Neill, Sr., who passed away this morning at the age of 76 years, after an illness of several weeks. Deceased was well known in the city and conducted business here for many years. He was a man of sterling honesty and the Bowring, the Jobs and many other St. John's firms always regarded the name of John O'Neill as a man of strictest integrity, whose word was his bond. His charity was well known to all and his attention to his church most edifying. Few men had a larger circle of friends whose sympathy goes out to the family in their sad bereavement. He leaves three sons, M. J., J. F., and D. O'Neill, of this place, and one daughter, Mrs. Capt. Kennedy, St. John's.—R.I.P.

Bay-de-Verde, Aug. 19, 1919.

Collection for Widow.

A further collection was taken up yesterday at the Regatta for the widow and children of Mr. Peters who lost his life in the Regatta of last week. In the little time at their disposal the sum of $150.00 was collected. This will be given to Mrs. Peters by the Regatta Committee to-day.
