SWIMMING.

WAS IT A HOAT?

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Three "Oxonians" wrote to the Times concerning the alleged feat of Davis Dalton, the American swimmer, who claims to here swam across the English Channel on his back. They assert they watched the fe-boat which was to pilot Dalton, for fear hours from Boulogne and never saw Dalton in the water. Moreover they defare that the "dingey," which was supposed to attend the life-boat.

back he stood there as calmly a if he felt no pain. "Two," cited the depuy warden, and the cat came down with grater force than before, cutting the skin, and on the poor unfortunate's back stood out large drops of blood. He stood there, however, unmoved, with his teeth set and es closed. When the tenth lash had falle he raised his head and waited impatient for his freedom. The straps were looserd, and as he cast a lingering, degged loik at the guard, passed sullenly up to his cll.

Frederick Sheedy was the last victim to be placed on the rack—a his young fellow, 25 years of age, abouting feet eight inches in height, with breath and and blue eyes. His face as h walled showly toward the whipping out was ghastly pale, and he appeared so weak and nervous that he could harry stand. When the first lash fell upon Sheq's back he shrieked, "Oh! my God," and opt like a child. The strokes fell rapidly, t deputy warden and guard being apparent sick of their task. The prisoner's back we purple and many deep furrows could be sen, but there was no blood drawn.

The Prison Commission recommenced their inquiries at 9:30 c'olock. The first witness called was Jailer Nokson Moore, of Eigin County Jail. He testified that the jail staff consisted of jailer, two turnkeys, a matron and jail surgeon. There were sixteen cells and four wards, and also a dungeon cell. The highest number of prisoners confined at one time was 21. It was very frequently necessary to drop all attempts at classification. To insure proper classification it would be necessary to have as many more wards as were in the jail at present.

To Chairman Langmuir—I have known a prisoner to instruct a boy in crime. He was trying to get the boy to steal for him.

Chairman Langmuir—Do you think that the mixing of prisoners is the cause of a great deal of crime?

Witness—I think that indiscriminate as sociation of prisoners is the cause of a great deal of crime, and to remedy this it would be necessary to have larger jails and prevent petty offenders from being mixed with professional criminals.

Chairman Langmuir—Do you not think that 23 drunks is a pretty good record if they were all got in jail.

Commissioner Drury—Do your policemearrest peaceable drunks?

Witness—Yes; that would be a pretty good record if they were all got in jail.

Commissioner Drury—Do your policemearrest peaceable drunks?

Witness—Yes; they do. I have seen men arrested for being drunk and taken to my jail that were much more sober than the policeman.

Chairman Langmuir—What would you suggest as the proper treatment of drunkards?

Witness—They should be sent to the asylum after their second and third offense.

Work should be supplied them and in this way they could help to support their families.

Chairman Langmuir—What class of men constitute the drunkard? What causes way they could help to support the support way they could help to support the families.

Chairman Langmuir—What class of ment constitute the drunkard? What causes can you give for their drinking?

Witness—They are mostly married men. I think their fall is occasioned by improper marriages. I know several cases where their wives were as much to blame as the drunkards.

To Chairman Langmuir—I am not favor their wives were as much to blame as the drunkards.

To Chairman Langmuir—If you want to cure drunker men you must build up the physical part of the man, must you not? Witness—By strengthening the body the mid is strengthenic, and this helps the patient to resist the disease.

Dr. Rosebrugh—Have you seen any of these imported waifs that are sent from England?

Witness—Yes; a great many of them in the jail here.

marriages. I know several cases where their wives were as much to blame as the drunkards.

To Chairman Langmuir—I am not favorable to solitary confinement as a treatment for untried prisoners.

To Dr. Rosebrugh—It would be much better to keep a boy in a ward by himself until he was tried than to allow him to associate with hardened criminals.

Chairman Langmuir—Would you recommend a poorhouse as a means of taking care of old vagrants.

Witness—Yes; it greatly aids in the proper management of the jails. It keeps them from being crowded with vagrants.

Dr. Rosebrugh—Have you any means of classifying female prisoners?

Witness—No; I had a very distressing case once. A young girl of respectable parents was committed on a technicality and sent to jail for stealing a spoon from a neighbor. There were three prostitutes in the jail at the time, and this girl had to be locked up in the same ward with them until I got a special order to allow her to occupy my family quarters. I am convinced that it was a put-up job on the part of some parties to get the girl into the jail with the prostitutes. The girl since married and saved herself, but if it had not been that she was taken away from them she would have been lost.

Dr. Rosebrugh—Have you known cases expensive to establish a poorhouse for those few who are worthy, but something should be done towards helping those unfortunate old people who are committed to jail as vagrants. I would be willing to have the Government control the jail if they paid the bills. The Government could have the honor of management. I am in favor of the establishment of an industrial school and think that boys should have everychance of reformation before they are confined to jail along with the hardened criminals.

Dr. Rosebrugh—What class of children

Dr. Rosebrugh—What class of childrenare they?

Witness—More than half of them are of small stature; not deformed, but far from being well developed children, showing that their parents were very young. The waifs are diseased and weakly, afflicted with skin diseases and weakness of the cyes. They are not fitted for the country, and the importation of them should be restricted.

them from being crowded with vagrants.

Dr. Robrugh—Have you any means of classifying female prisoners?

Witness—No; I had a very distressing case once. A young girl of respectable parents was committed on a technicality and sent to juil for stealing a spoon from a neighbor. There were three prostitutes in the jail at the time, and this girl had to be locked up in the same ward with them until I got a special order to allow her to occupy my family quarters. The girl since married and saved herself, but if it had not been that she was taken away from them she would have been lost.

Dr. Rosebrugh—Have you known cases where girls have been corrupted by evil associations in the jail?

Witness—I have no doubt about it. I have known a number of young girls, good girls, who have been locked up with prostitutes and could not help being corrupted by their associations.

Chairman Langmuir—Would you favor the scheme of the Government taking over control of the jails?

Witness—Sys. It would be much more conomical and give better satislaction all around. On one occasion when about $2 \text{ worth of repairs were required to be done at the control of the pails?

Mr. Job Scales, of Toronto, writes: A

Chairman Langmuir—Would you favor the scheme of the Government taking over control of the jails?

Witness—Yes; It would be much more economical and give better satisfaction all around. On one occasion when about $2 worth of repairs were required to be done at my jail there was an inconvenient delay, and after calling a meeting of the jail committee at the cost of $15 the $2 job was ordered to be done.

To Chairman Langmuir—I think idleness, intemperance and ignorance are the three great cause of crime.

To Commissioner Drury—I think that criminals begin their downward career in early lite. I am convinced that men who come in for petty offenses should be looked after better, because they are willing to do better if they had a chance. I think that temperance societies do very well with the youthful offenders, but with hardened criminals they have not much influence.

Commissioner Jury—Among the boys that you have had to deal with were any of them sent out by the Barnardo McPhearson, and these English societies?

Witness—I can't say anything about boys, but I have had charge of some of their girls and they are very bad characters drawn from the slums of Old London.
