CHAS. BROWER ASKS FOR HAZARDOUS JOB

Would Carry Mails in the Most Northern District.

[Canadian Press.]

Washington, Oct. 31.—A bid for carrying the mails 2,000 miles in the depth of an Arctic winter, over the mountains of Northern Alaska, when snow lies so deep there scarcely is a postoffice, was received today by the postoffice department. The bid came from Chas. D. Brower, of Point Barrow, Alaska, the most northern postoffice on the continent, and a close rival for northern honors with any in the world. Brower wants to carry the mail from Point Barrow to Kotzebue Sound, 500 miles southward. The man who gets the contract must make three round trips each winter when the seas are frozen and transportation by dogs and sled overland alone is possible in that region. His bid was sent to Commandant Barchoia, of the revenue cutter service, whom he knew in the Arctic, and by him forwarded to the postoffice department.

Brower's letter was more than two months in getting to Washington from Point Barrow. Brower has lived in the Arctic thirty years, and is the only white man who inhabits that far northern community. He is employed by a fur company.

First Wreck Picture of the World's Hugest Ship of the Air, "L 2," in Germany

First photograph showing the wreck of the newest and largest of the Zeppelin dirigible airships, "L 2," at Johannisthal, Germany, on Oct. 17. The dirigible, 500 feet long, exploded while passing 900 feet above the city, and carried to death 28 military men, many of them high officers of the Kaiser's army.

will give new life to Liberalism throughout the whole Dominion. The Herald (Conservative) says: There was the same vicious racial appeal in South Bruce that Hon. Mackenzie King, in the campaign of September, 1911, made to the German-Canadian electors of Berlin, but with disastrous results to himself. But such a campaign shows the unscrupulous extremes to which the Laurier Opposition were ready to go in this by-election fight.

GERMANS WERE AROUSED.

[Canadian Press.]
Montreal, Oct. 31.—The Star (Independent) says: The election of the Liberal candidate in South Bruce was not unexpected. Local conditions, and the industry and popularity of the opposition candidate had much to do with it. We are told that a large section of the local electorate is of German origin and that the Borden naval policy was painted for them as a deliberate encouragement to the "Jingoes" of Britain to attack the fatherland. Of course, it is nothing of the sort. The uttermost purpose of the Borden naval policy is to protect the motherland.

"If a willingness to accept the united testimony of the statesmen who are guiding the destinies of the Empire, as to the trend of European politics is to cost supporters of the Borden policy constituencies in which there is a vote of German origin played upon unscrupulous politicians, we can only say that it is our opinion that the Government can better afford to lose such seats than the opposition can afford to win them by the sort of tactics which Mackenzie King essayed—frankly, two years ago in Waterloo, and which report declares were repeated in South Bruce."

SCORED BIG VICTORY.

[Canadian Press.]
Toronto, Oct. 31.—The News says: The truth is that in a very keen contest in a very doubtful constituency the Opposition scored a victory. It was known to the Government from the first that the seat was in danger. Perhaps it was unwise to create a vacancy. But there is no law that a Government shall carry every election, and the Borden Government is strong enough in the House of Commons. It may be that a small percentage of Liberals who opposed the trade agreement with Washington have renewed their old political connections. Even this is not clear, while it is certain that the Government's naval proposals have not been condemned.

HELPS FIGHTING SPIRIT.

Ottawa, Oct. 31.—The Ottawa Evening Journal (Independent-Conservative) says: The result of the by-election in South Bruce was not altogether unexpected. The constituency is about one-third German. Mr. Truax, the Liberal candidate, is of German stock, and in the election the utmost possible capital was made by some Liberal speakers of the idea that the $25,000,000 proposed by the Borden Government for the building of the Imperial naval defence was practically to be used against Germany. Particularly effective use seems to have been made in these townships of a recent saying by the London has been a natural increase of 21, there being that many more births recorded than deaths. For the month the natural increase has been 5.

The ten month totals for both this year and last show that there has been a decrease of seven in the number of marriage ceremonies registered with the city clerk. The total increase in births has been 180, in deaths 159, making the 21 of a natural increase. A comparative statement of the ten months' records follows:

	1913.	1912.
Births	1,055	876
Marriages	531	544
Deaths	783	624

BLENHEIM.
Blenheim, Oct. 31.—R. W. Knight is setting up his seed store as an auto show-room. He has secured the agency for Blenheim and this district. T. Phillips has purchased the Pardo mill property, and expects to erect dwellings on it. He has also purchased a lot from Mr. Pickering, on Talbot street.

A GOOD REASON.

Mother: "Johnny, you said you'd been to Sunday school."
Johnny (with a far-away look): "Yes, mamma."
Mother: "How does it happen that your hands smell of fish?"
Johnny: "I carried home the Sunday school magazine, and the outside page is all about Jonah and the whale."

A SHOW WITHOUT A CHORUS MAN! OH, JOY!

"Newlyweds" One of Prettiest and Funniest Little Shows o Season.

"The Newlyweds and Their Baby" a refreshing farce with a musical setting—was one of those delightful surprises that makes everyone wish his friends had come along. Not exactly an artistic treat, but clean and funny, purely funny.

And—but on the praise pedal—it was a show without a chorus man. The theatre-going public in every city should pass a resolution of thanks for this. There was not a single one of the sweet, painted, thin-throated dears in the company, and nobody went out because he missed them.

The piece is based upon George McManus' famous series of cartoons, Harold West, as the baby, and Major Knott Much, made a double appeal to the audience. He portrayed the infant to the life, and took an adult part with a smoothness that belied his years, or his else at any rate, for they do not call him "Master Harold" on the programs, although he can register a part down to a few months and a milk bottle.

Leo Hayes did the Mr. Newlywed character justice in make-up and in humorous catagory. Heattie Evans, as Mrs. Newlywed, was bewitching. If her voice is not strong, it is sweet and clear as a bell.

Daniel L. Murphy is an Irishman, and he does not fond of caricaturing the Dutch. He did it to perfection as Adolph Nickel. He was the principal comedy part, and he had a nice restraint on the inevitable horse play.

The play was full of pretty musical bits; there were no suggestive words or dances. It was merely a big success, and it produced chorus effects that showed all stage longevity is not down.

A second night would have assured this great little show a bumper house.

SEEKING OFFICES IN NEW WAY AT COURT BUILDING

Place Looks as if Cyclone Had Gone Through and Come Back Again.

TWO MONTHS LONGER

Contractor and Jack Frost Had Race To Put New Skin on Building.

These are the days of office-seeking at the local courthouse. Not in the sense that that absorbing sport is followed at the Parliament Buildings, Ottawa, however, the effort on the part of the local hunters being merely to find the offices of the various officials who since the beginning of repairs to the interior of the courthouse, have developed migratory habits. They have of necessity become office-seekers, too. No sooner does a corps of painters, carpenters, etc., appear at one door of their hitherto peaceful haunts than they "fold up their tents like the Arabs and as silently steal away" out the other, in quest of temporary quarters.

Finished in Two Months. It has been a season of trial for all concerned, especially as the business of legal offices requires convenient access to numberless documents. However, the end is in sight, at least if the vista of two long months is not considered too distant. Inside of that period it is hoped to have the repairs completed, according to Architect H. C. McBride, who has had the supervision of the work this year.

The outside work has been practically completed, and the historic towers are now safely incased in fresh plaster, with a special granite finish designed to resist the action of the elements. It was a race between the contractor Mr. George S. Gould, and one Jack Frost, and Mr. Gould won out, having the work completed before the frost had a chance to get at the plaster in its plastic state.

In New Offices. Mr. Weld, clerk of the county court, has moved into his new quarters at the front of the building, to the left of the main entrance. They are handsomely appointed and a great improvement on the old.

The room in which Mr. J. H. Flock, dean of London barristers, was wont to wrestle with the unruly wills of men, getting them ready for probate, is also vacated, and Mr. Flock is now located in an office adjoining that of Mr. Weld.

Sheriff Cameron is in the midst of the transitory stage. His former office is being dismantled, and he and Deputy Sheriff Watterworth have taken refuge in the quarters formerly occupied by Mr. Weld, where they now conduct business somewhat under difficulties, with the telephone perched gaily on a chair, having no permanent place of abode at present.

Judges Without Chambers. The judges of the county court have had no certain dwelling-place for some time, but have been using a room in the county buildings as a judge's chambers. About the only room in the building that hasn't yet been overhauled is the law library. A room has been fitted up as its new quarters, but the shelving has not yet been put in, and until that is done the books will be left where they are.

Cyclonic Chat. The courthouse itself too, as though a cyclone had gone through it, and then turned around and come back again. The only clear space to be seen is the ceiling, and on this the painters are at work.

Very little in the way of alterations will be done in this room, however, and it will simply be a case of "cleaning up" so that it will not take long to finish.

"You know, there's more in this world than money." "I don't know. If there is my wife hasn't thought of it." —Detroit Free Press.

FIERCE GALES

Lifeboats Were Swept From Decks of Steamer Merion.

[Canadian Press.]

Queenstown, Oct. 31.—Fierce gales and fog were encountered by the American Line steamship Merion on her voyage from Philadelphia, whence she departed on Oct. 13 for Liverpool by way of this port. Her twelve days passage was a very trying one. On Monday great seas swept the ship, carrying away three of her lifeboats. Some wreckage was carried by the sea over the bridge, injuring the head of the officer on watch.

SEAFORTH.

Seaforth, Oct. 31.—Mr. Ferdinand Burcard, who has spent the past two years in the West, has returned home, having been engaged by Messrs. Kruse Bros. for their new pottery works.

Mrs. J. H. Broadfoot, and Miss May have returned from Hamilton, where they had spent three weeks with friends.

Mr. Duncan Campbell has sold his residence in Egmontville to Mr. Henry McIvor, of Hibbert Township, and has taken the flat in Beattie Bros' block.

Robert Willis suffered a paralytic stroke on Wednesday evening, and his little hopes are held out for his recovery.

ALTERED.

The youth had got himself in such a variety of scrapes that his people thought it would be better to expatriate him to Canada, so as to get him away from old and doubtful associations. He agreed to do so, provided those interested in his departure secured him some testimonials. Half-a-dozen were got for him. They sang his praise in unstrained terms, spoke of his geniality, of his good address and exceptional capability, and all the other virtues that few men have but many get the credit for.

When the young man read the testimonials he turned to his father and exclaimed: "Well, I'm hanged! I had no idea people thought so much of me. And now that I know how much they like me I'm blowed if I'll go away at all."
