THE REPUBLIC'S GRIEF.

PREPARATIONS FOR REMOVING THE REMAINS TO CLEVELAND.

Arthur's Proclamation for a Day of National Mourning and Humiliation—Queen Victoria's Tribute—Expressions of Sympathy—Boynton Dismissed with the Army.

Preparations are going on at Washington for removing the remains of the late President Arthur to Cleveland this afternoon.

Arthur has issued a proclamation calling on all American citizens to observe Monday as a day of national mourning.

HONORING THE DEAD.

Crowds at the Capital—Queen Victoria's Tribute.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. During the afternoon there were signs of the body of Garfield commencing to decompose, and it being understood that in such event the wish of Mrs. Garfield that the features of her husband should be free from public gaze, the lid of the casket was closed by order of Mr. Blaine at 6:30 this evening. The funeral services will take place to-morrow at 3 p. m. in the rotunda, where the body will remain until taken to the train. At the conclusion of the services the remains will be borne to the harbor and thence to the Baltimore and Potomac railway, where the same train which brought them to this city will convey them to Cleveland.

It is estimated that since seven this morning 80,000 people visited the capital, and at a late hour there was no marked diminution.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S TRIBUTE.

Queen Victoria called yesterday morning to the British legation, where she presented in her name. It is a very large and exquisite specimen of the artist's art, composed of white roses, smilax and sphacelated. It is accompanied by a large mourning card bearing the inscription: "Queen Victoria, in sympathy with the late President Garfield, and with expressions of her sorrow and sympathy with Mrs. Garfield and the American nation. Sept. 22, 1881."

CONGRESS REPRESENTATIVES.

A meeting of senators, Sherman presiding, appointed the following committee to accompany the remains of the late president to Cleveland: Sherman, Bayard, Edmund Anthony and Chandler. A meeting of members of the house, Randall presiding, appointed Randall, Kasson and Townsend (Ohio).

ARTHUR'S PROCLAMATION.

Monday Sept. 20, a Day of Humiliation and Mourning.

The following has been issued by the president of the United States:

PROCLAMATION. Whereas in his inscrutable wisdom it has pleased God to remove from us the illustrious and patriotic James A. Garfield, late president of the United States; and whereas it is fitting that the deep grief which fills the hearts of the people should be manifested in our official and that sanctification of our loss which is able and willing to withhold, I do hereby appoint Monday next the 20th day of September, on which day our honored and beloved president died, to be observed throughout the United States as a day of humiliation and mourning; and I hereby direct that in all the public buildings on that day in their respective places of divine worship, there to render alike their tribute of grief and devotion to the will of Almighty God, and of reverence and love for the memory and character of our late chief magistrate, and to unite upon Garfield's grave, and send their sympathy across the ocean. A resolution of condolence was then passed.

The mayor of Liverpool, in transmitting to the American consul the resolutions passed at Wednesday's meeting, says: "I can assure you I have never known deeper feeling below by all classes in Liverpool."

THE FEELING IN ENGLAND.

Sir Michael Hicks Beach, speaking at Winchester, said that Garfield's death had caused a thrill of grief throughout the country, and was a national calamity. He said that he had received a letter from Sir Richard Assheton Cross, speaking at Warrington, alluded to the fact that Garfield's death had caused a thrill of grief throughout the country, and was a national calamity. IS ARTHUR A CANADIAN?

THE NOMADIC LIFE OF THE PRESIDENT'S FAMILY.

His Mother a Canadian—Between Vermont and Quebec—The Old Man's Career—A Boy "Spiritual Away"—Considerable Doubt Sustained.

The New York Commercial's Washington special says Dr. Boynton is not satisfied with the official report of the autopsy, declaring it full of gross errors and false statements. It is said he charges the attending surgeons with having suppressed many important facts and not having made the autopsy complete. It is not probable that Boynton will have anything to say at present, but at a later date it is understood he will make public a detailed account of the autopsy and how it was conducted. He thinks it unwise that the persons who treated the president should have conducted the autopsy, and believes that eminent surgeons of Philadelphia and New York should have made it.

THE RIVAL SPOTS.

The county of Missisquoi in Quebec is on one side of the national boundary line, and the county of St. Armand is on the other. The border township in Missisquoi is St. Armand, and in that of St. Armand is the township of St. Armand. The township of St. Armand is in one of the townships, fifteen miles from the line, that the opponents of Arthur say he was born. His father says his birthplace is in Fairville township, Franklin county, Vermont. It appears that Arthur's father was school-teacher and Baptist preacher, and moved between the places, and thus led to the different contentions.

OLD MAN ARTHUR.

The president's father was William Arthur, born in county Antrim, Ireland, in 1798. He graduated from Belfast college when 18 years old, and shortly afterwards left for the new world. It is disputed whether he landed at New York or in Canada. The probability is that it was at Three Rivers. It is remembered at Stanbridge that about 1827 Wm. Arthur came to that place. Some say that they remember having heard from him that when he came to the new world he landed at Trois Rivières, Canada, and after remaining there but a short time went to Sorel, going thence to Stanbridge. There he taught school for a little more than a year, and then he moved to Stanbridge, where he became a clerk. He went from Stanbridge to Dunham, where he taught school about two years, and married Miss Malvina Stone, a Canadian. After leaving Dunham he crossed over the line into the States, where he remained a number of years before he again returned to Canada in 1830. It is certain that some of Elder Arthur's (for such he was called by the Baptists) children were born in Canada. But for some time before 1828, it is alleged, he had returned to Fairfield, in Vermont, and while there Chester was born in 1829, on Oct. 5th. The Sun's commissioner found a good many persons to confirm the story of his birth in Canada, and no one in Vermont or in Canada who could be found.

THE CANADIAN STORY.

Those who maintain that the president was born in Canada base their theory on the supposition that the child born in Fairfield was named Chester Abell Arthur. They say that this boy died in Burlington, and that the body was given to the father to physicians to be dissected for scientific purposes. Then William Arthur is said to have come to Canada, and to have been in the school at East Stanbridge for eighteen months, while his family lived with his father-in-law at Meggs' Corner. During his wife's sojourn there, it is maintained, she gave birth to the boy who is now president of the United States, namely, Chester Allan Arthur.

AT ALL EVENTS.

This is certain: that the president had a Canadian mother; that he was an Irish-Canadian; that he was a school-teacher and a Baptist preacher; and that he was a Canadian by birth.

BEING MADE PRESIDENT.

Swore into office at the Capital—A Controversial Address—No Cabinet Changes Probable.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—President Arthur has taken the oath of office in the marble room of the capital in the presence of members of the cabinet, the justice of the supreme court, a number of senators and members of the house, Generals Sherman, Grant, Adams, Nicol, Hannibal Hamlin, and a few others, making forty in all. This step was taken after a conference held between Arthur, Blaine, and the attorney-general. Shortly before noon Chief Justice Waite, in full robes of office, accompanied by the associate justices, proceeded from the supreme court room to the marble room. The doors were immediately closed, and without formality Arthur rose, and standing on one side of the centre table and Waite on the other, took the oath. The president's manner was calm, composed, and his response "So help me God" was firm and without tremor.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The president then read from manuscript the following address: "For the fourth time in the history of the republic the chief magistrate has been removed by death. All hearts are filled with grief and horror at the hideous crime which has darkened our country, and the memory of the murdered president, his protracted sufferings, his untimely death, the example and achievements which will forever illumine the pages of our history. For the fourth time an officer elected by the people, and ordained by the constitution, has a vacancy so created, is called to assume the executive chair. The wisdom of our fathers, foreseeing even the most dire possibilities, made sure the government should never be impelled because of the uncertainty of human life. Men may die, but the fabric of our free institutions remain unshaken. No higher or more assuring proof could exist of the strength and permanence of popular government than the fact that though the chosen of the people be struck down, his constitutionally-successor is peacefully installed without shock or stain except the sorrow which mourns the bereavement. All the noble aspirations of my lamented pre-addresses of sympathy on the occasion of the death of Garfield.

THE AUTOPSY.

Dr. Boynton Dismissed With It, and Declared It Full of Gross Errors.

deceases, which found expression in his life, the measure devised and suggested during his brief administration to correct abuses and enforce economy; to advance property and promote the general welfare, to ensure domestic security and maintain friendly and honorable relations with the nations of the earth will be gathered in the hearts of the people, and it will be my earnest endeavor to profit, by his example and experience. Prosperity blesses our country. Our fiscal policy is fixed by law, is well grounded and generally approved. No threatening signs mark our foreign intercourse, and the wisdom, integrity and thrift of our people may be trusted to continue unshaken. I assume the present session of congress, no adequate occasion is apparent for an unusual session of congress. The constitution defines the functions and powers of the executive as clearly as those of either of the other two departments of the government, and he must answer for the just exercise of discretion, it permits and the performance of the duties it imposes. I am honored to these high duties and responsibilities, and profoundly conscious of the magnitude and gravity, I assume the trust imposed by the country, relying for aid on Divine guidance, and the virtue, patriotism and intelligence of the American people.
