It is reported that there are 75,000 Chinese troops in the vicinity of Foo Chow. According to reports received at Sontay 80,000 Chinese troops have invaded Tonquin, and had an engagement with the French, in which it is asserted the French were annihilated and several and Chinese killed. PARIS, Aug. 28. The official report of the bombardment of Foo Chow on Saturday, received from Admiral Courbet, is as follows: "Foo Chow, Sunday morning.—

A good beginning has been made. We opened fire yesterday, and in four hours nine Chinese men-of-war and twelve junks were sunk. and a Krupp battery commandarsenal silenced. Our loss was six ing the arsenal silenced. Our loss was six killed and twenty-seven wounded. The fleet suffered no serious damage except that the boiler of a torpedo boat burst. The Chinese losses were heavy. During the night the fleet was beset by burning wrecks and logs. Torpedo cutters will clear all bombard the arsenal. We shall not leave the river before the 29th or 30th. Officers and men are animated with the greatest ardour. One of our torpedo boats sank a large Chinese cruiser. The vessels which took part in the action were the Volta, which hoisted my flag, the Duguay, Trouin, Triomphantx, Villars, Distaing, Aspic, Lynx and Vepere, with two topedo boats."

CALGUTTA, Aug. 27.—The War between France and China has had little, if any, effect on the Indian trade or the money market. It is believed to be only a slight China's Tributaries. The bombardment of Foo-Chew inaugu rates the third war that has taken place between China and European powers. In 1841 she fought England because she objected to the opium trade and disliked to see her population drunken and besotted. She got a sound thrashing.

In 1858 she fought England and France because she objected to see smuggling and pirates openly trade under the English and French flags. Again she was well whipped.

The present war arises out of the position of Tonquin as tributary of the Celes-tial kingdom. China ranks all the states of Eastern Asia as her tributaries, with the exception of Japan. Siam discontinued sending tribute during the troubles of 20 years ago, and when a threat was made in years ago, and when a threat was made in 1881 to enforce the claim the government of Bangkok replied with scarcely concealed defiance. In 1879 the Japanese seized the Loo-Choo islands and deposed the ruling prince, who had always cought investiture at the hands of the Chinese emperor. Nothing whatever has been done toward recovering the lost position and by the recovering the lost position, and by the time that China bestirs itself in this matter the other powers will have become accustomed to regard Loo-Choo as a Japanese possession that any attempt to redress the original wrong would be re with regard to Burmah and Corea, both of which present the character of tribute bearers, the relations of the former may be said to be purely complimentary while those of the latter have by an ex press act, whether politic or not time alone can tell, of Li Hung Chang lately assumed a character of independence that is distinctly incompatible with the original significance of those pretensions. In the cases of Kashgar, Ili and Thibet, the rights of China possess a more definite character.

In all of those provinces there were and are Chinese garrisons and administrators. The first named states were conquered or recovered on the express ground that they were an integral portion of the empire, and also because a large number of Chinese subjects had sacrificed their lives in endeavoring to defend them. In Thibet, which has been several times assailed both from the north and from the south, their authority has never been absolutely subverted since it never been absolutely subverted since it wolseley starts for Egypt on Sunday. never been absolutely subverted since it acquired a precise meaning in the reign of Kanghi, although it has on more than one occasion had to be vindicated by the presence of a large army. There can be no doubt, therefore, that all the conditions doubt, therefore, that all the conditions exist in the case of Thibet which would lead the Chinese to defend their rights there at all cost. But Nepaul also is in name a tributary of Pekin, and if the Khatmandu Dunbar should attempt to obtain by force the indemnity which English opinion in India, none too favorable toward China, and particularly with regard to Thibet, considers exorbitant, there will be the spectacle of two vassals of the emperor Kwangsu engaged in a more than the spectacle of two vassals of the spectacle of two vassals Thibet, considers exorbitant, there will be the spectacle of two vassals of the emperor Kwangsu engaged in a mortal struggle. Te Chinese will, of course, support the Thibetans, but they will have to be more rapid in their movements than they usually are if they wish to anticipate the will present (from the course). they usually are if they wish to anticipate the well-piepared Goorkhas. Tonquin may be considered as on almost the same footing with regard to Coina er Corea, Both of these are tributary states connected with Pekin by the lesser ties of tribute and investiture. But in position and rescurees they are felt by all wise

Chinese ministers to be of greater importance than the provinces of Central Asia and even of Thibet.

The principal effect of the first two wars and subsequent treatles was that they placed the relations of foreign governments with the Chinese government on a footing which made a friendly understanding possible. The celestials so far the bombardment of Foo Chow was 7 killed and 14 wounded. The Chinese loss is estimated at 1000 killed and 3000 wounded. The Chinese bos
