

AFTER LIFE'S PITIFUL FEVER!

HONORABLE BURIAL OF MR. H. E. CLARKE, M.P.

Generous Tributes by Mr. Mowat and Mr. Meredith. The Colleagues of the Late Member And The City Council Attend - In Memoriam References - Tokens of General Esteem.

In the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon fitting tributes were paid to the memory of the late H. E. Clarke. Mr. Mowat rose, and in a low voice stated that as the funeral of the late member was fixed for 3.30 o'clock he wished to move the adjournment of the House. He was specially desired that this mark of respect should be paid to the memory of the late Mr. Clarke, owing to the circumstances of his death. The honorable gentleman had been called away while giving his views on a very important point.

As leader of the Government, Mr. Mowat said he had not the opportunity to know Mr. Clarke as well as the members of the Opposition, but he did know him well enough to be able to say that he had always found him an exceptionally genial man, with very many friends and acquaintances. He had certainly been respected very highly by the moving spirits of his party, for he had been given the place in the Opposition ranks, and to him was entrusted the management of that body in the absence of the leader. Mr. Clarke was a man of high position, and one who loved the right. It had been a satisfaction to him to see Mr. Clarke at all times when Mr. Clarke expressed an opinion not in accordance with his own, it had been his candid and straightforward belief.

Continuing, Mr. Mowat said Mr. Clarke was a stout speaker and always manifested deep reasoning, extensive reading and excellent common sense. He died after a life of business success at the post of duty. There surely could not be a better ending to a life. His departure was sudden and not unexpected. He died while in the full exercise of his abilities, and yet he was prepared.

His Leader's Voluntary Tribute. Mr. Meredith seconded the motion to adjourn and attempted to make some mention of the virtues of his late colleague. But he was unable to do so, as the House adjourned at the end of half-past twelve.

The Speaker declared the House adjourned, and probably the most solemn sitting of the Ontario Legislature for many a year came to an end.

The members present were Messrs. Mowat, Hardy, Meredith, Blagden, Balfour, Fairbairn, Allan, Chisholm, Gilmore, Moore, Dryden, Harkness, Blagden, Watters, Marler, Lockhart, Campbell, Godwin, Monk, Rourke, Wiloughby, Hudson, McLeary, Neasham, McLaughlin, Smith, Peck, Kerr, McKee, McKee (Oxford), McKay (Victoria), Hagan, Paton, Reid, E. F. Nordheimer, Fidd, Tolby, Preston, Ferguson. They took up after the adjournment and visited the residence of the late member and followed his remains to the cemetery.

The House of Mourning. The streets outside the house of the late Mr. Henry E. Clarke was crowded yesterday afternoon for two long hours. Old and young, rich and poor, were assembled to pay the last and tribute of respect to one who had won the esteem and admiration of his colleagues in Parliament, of his friends in business life, and of his employees in the factory and the shop. The number of persons in the funeral cortege was estimated at 1,000. The funeral was a most impressive feature of the day. At 3 p.m., some time before the services began, and before the throng of mourners was as dense as it afterwards was, a crowd of the people's late employee, who were in the drawing room and around the casket, and took their last look at the remains.

The casket in which the remains were deposited was of red cedar, trimmed with black silk plush and heavily mounted in silver. It bore the following simple inscription:

HENRY E. CLARKE,
BORN 1824, DIED 1892,
AGED 68 YEARS.

The Floral Tributes. Besides private tributes there was an exquisite pillow of roses, lilies and hyacinths from his colleagues of the Opposition in the Legislature, another from the employees of the Langmuir Manufacturing Company, a large bouquet from the Langmuir Manufacturing Company, a pillow from the employees of the store, and a floral anchor from The Empire.

The crowd increased until the capacious house was filled, and Jarvis-street was choked off for traffic for a whole block. In the house were to be seen the following gentlemen: The Mayor, Ald. D. Gault, Crawford, Orr, Julliffe, Stewart, Lamb, Bell, Small, Scott, Atkinson, Verral, Bailey, Saunders, Graham and Hallam, Treasurer Coady, Assistant Treasurer Patterson, Mr. Commissioner Coady, City Clerk Blivins, The Public School Board attended in a body. Present also were Mr. Montgomery, T. A. Anderson, Emerson Coady, Mr. P. S. Nordheimer, J. M. Shober, B. B. Hume, James H. Hume, Rev. Dr. Young, Rev. Dr. Sutherland, E. Samuel, T. H. Bull, John Leach, Rev. Dr. Hume, Stuart of Woodville, Dr. Barrick, E. H. Westman, Rev. G. M. Milligan, Rev. J. J. McKelvey, Richard Clarke, Richard Harper, The Empire staff, Thomas Thompson, George Kelly, John Leach, Mr. John D. Leach, Mr. Robert Carr, John Carr, John Carr, Dr. King, W. G. Williams, Mr. Johnston, Mr. Leach, Mr. Williams, Mulock, M.P., and a host of city men were there.

A Solemn Scene. At 3.30 a short religious service took place in the drawing room. It was an impressive function. The solemn tones of the clergy men were heard distinctly in the hushed room, while the warbling of a choir in an adjoining room fell strongly on one ear in the intervals of speaking.

Rev. J. V. Smith of the Metropolitan Methodist Church, the late Mr. Clarke's pastor, opened the service by reading the hymn "O God, our Help in Ages Past." Rev. Dr. Briggs then read a portion of I Cor. 15, following up the Scripture with a brief but touching reference to the life and estimable qualities of the deceased. He described Mr. Clarke as righteous as an employer, upright and honorable as a business man, honest as a politician, tender and faithful as a father and husband. Rev. Dr. Briggs followed, dwelling upon the lesson to be gained from the sad event.

Rev. Dr. Sutherland next spoke, noticing Mr. Clarke's enviable death at the post where duty called him. Rev. Dr. Young led in prayer, offering an especially fervent petition for the bereaved widow and family—a prayer which was fervently echoed by all.

The casket was then borne out, the following gentlemen acting as pallbearers: Mr. W. R. Meredith, Hon. J. M. Gibson, Mr. John A. Whitson, Mr. H. A. Mason, Mr. W. H. Langmuir, Mr. W. H. Pearson, Mr. William Edwards, Mr. George Kelly. The interment was in Mount Pleasant Cemetery, where the late member awaited the arrival of the imposing cortege.

The others were James Beatty, James E. Smith and S. H. Harman. Service of Song and Readings. The service of song and readings in Carlton-street Methodist Church on Thursday evening next will be the closing one of the season. The choir will be assisted by Miss Laura McGillicuddy, Mr. H. I. Clarke, cornetist; Mrs. Benjamin Massie, soprano; Mrs. D. E. Cannon, alto; Mr. Sime Richards and Mr. W. W. Chaston, baritone; Master Eddie Leach, tenor; and others. There will be the usual service of song and readings.

OUR CONDITION DEMANDS ATTENTION.

What We Should Do.

At this season we daily hear our friends complaining about their health; they talk of having the blues; they feel inactive; some are weak, weary and look worn out. Many are grievously afflicted with nervousness, headaches, dyspepsia, nausea and biliousness. All are anxiously concerned about their condition and are sighing and wishing for better days. Let us remind these individuals that the great life strain—the blood—which is the source of life, is now sluggish and very impure. It requires cleansing—filtering—to enable it to course freely, so that it may supply every tissue with power and life. All drugs and impurities must be removed at once if perfect health and strength is desired. The great nervous organism must be reinforced and strengthened, flesh must be built and the whole system fortified for the most change of weather.

"How can I do this?" "What agent is necessary to give me the health that I so eagerly look for?" To the man or woman who asks these questions, we would simply say, "one that our best doctors would recommend." The great remedy for your case is certainly Pease's Colery Compound, as its results in past seasons have amply proved.

No other remedy dare honestly approach our people in this regard. The Pease Compound is a true and reliable agent. The proprietors of other medicines often publish lengthy letters of testimony, but these letters have no genuine authors—most of them are false and misleading.

Pease's Colery Compound is founded on the rock of truth and honesty. It has no object but to gain by making false representations and publishing letters of testimony. If you are not in a healthy condition, read, if you are, we strongly advise you to use a bottle, and see for yourself what virtues there are in this compound. We think when physicians prescribe it, you cannot err much in using it. It cures every time.
