LORDS OF THE NORTH

By A. C. LAUT.

Paper, 75c.; Cloth, $1.25

The Brooklyn Eagle, reviewing "Lords of the North," after expressing disappointment that Gilbert Parker had forsaken the Canadian Northwest for other fields, declares that this story "may fairly be regarded as the embodiment of all his admirers would have been glad to welcome as his crowning effort." In further comment the review proceeds: "'Lords of the North' is not only a strong novel, worthy to take high place among the literary offerings of the year, and to claim one of the highest places among those recent works of fiction which have been written around historical events, but its strength is thrown into relief by the charming delicacy of sentiment and of expression which shows on every page. The philosophy of the book is clothed in imagery which is as convincing as it is chaste. The dialogue is vividly natural; the principal characters introduced by the author are distinctly and satisfyingly real."

MOOSWA

And Others of the Boundaries. By W. A. FRASER.
With Illustrations by Arthur Heming. Cloth, gilt top, net $1.50

"If W. A. Fraser can continue the success he has achieved in his brilliant animal story, he will be entitled to rank high among the fable writers who find their inspiration in nature. The book is a delightful picture of the woodland life of the vast stretches that flank the Rockies toward the Arctic circle. The boy who reads the story for the story's sake will be sure to be delighted and will absorb a considerable amount of natural history. One hardly knows which to commend the most, the originality of the plan on which the book is constructed, or the cleverness which marks its construction."—The Brooklyn Eagle.
