Mr. Speaker: Shall the remaining questions stand?

Mr. David Lewis (York South): Mr. Speaker, on December 10 I filed question No. 1,008 relating to the establishment by the Prime Minister (Mr. Trudeau) of regional desks, the appointment of personnel, and volunteer advisers. It is now well over two months since the question was put on the order paper. The information must surely be easily available to the staff of the Prime Minister's office or of the Privy Council office, particularly in view of the Prime Minister's increased staff, and I am wondering why I could not have an answer by now.

Right Hon. P. E. Trudeau (Prime Minister): If I may give a word of explanation, Mr. Speaker, the question has not been answered because the regional desk system is not completed yet. We are reorganizing it; we are even adding to it, and I think it might be better if I could answer the hon. member once and for all when the thing is established, rather than answer him now and have him put supplementary questions later. I can assure the hon. member that it will not be very many more weeks until the system is completed and fully in operation.

Mr. Speaker: Shall the remaining questions stand?

Some hon. Members: Agreed.
