

WORSHIP.

Our dream-gods wane, and strange gods come ;
We bend, where gods may once have dwelt,
Our puzzled knee, and find them dumb.
Enough !—We know that we have knelt.