Democratic Leaders in American House Reject Extra Session Plans-Refuse to Confine Action to Reciprocity Agreement A Bitter Fight in Prospect.

NEW YOLK, March 24 .- The Washington correspondent of The Tribune writes: Plans for arranging for "working agreement," acceptable to both the senate and the house, by which a definite program may be made out for the forthcoming session of congress, have been brought to a hait, for the present at least, by the uncompromising attitude of the house Democrats, who are apparently averse to any understanding which will put a check on their legislative activities.
