HOW TO SPEND A HOT SUNDAY

And Shake Off the Cares of Business.

JUST GO OUT TO CHURCH

And Hear a Clergyman Who Does Not Counsel Long-Facedness.

That is the Advice That Comes to The World From Hamilton—A Bright-Pictured Religion, Which Has No Fear of the Devil in Constant Pursuit, but a School Designed to Bring Up the Character to a Readiness for the Home to Come—Hamilton News.

Hamilton, June 27.—(From The World's Staff Correspondent.)—If anyone is unfortunate enough to rise on Sunday morning wearied by the struggle of the week, or depressed with the weight of the unsolvable problems of existence, let him try the panacea of attending the morning service at St. Matthew's Church. One gets out into the suburbs of the city here, quite away from all stores and their business reminders. The tiny garden plot in the heart of the city gives place to the shady lawn and flowers, and all around one is the fragrance of the woods. Furthermore, you enter a neat brick church, whose bright interior and comfortable seats know nothing of class distinction or the fever of social rivalry. No crested carriage drives its silk-attired freightage to the door, but there is the street car and good taste and colors in summer dresses that a French modiste could learn lessons from.

A very "High" Service.

St. Matthew's has the reputation of having the highest Anglican service in the city, and it sustains this reputation. Lighted candles burn on the altar, there are processions and incense burning and acolytes. The church bell is tolled during the blessing of the Eucharist and while the sacred words are being pronounced the officiating priest falls prostrate upon his face before the altar. Yet one has only to look upon the devout faces of the worshippers about one to see how real the whole thing is, and how beneficial its influence throughout the week. Rev. C. E. Whitcombe is the rector here and the gospel he preaches tones one up like a breeze from the ocean. It bids one look away from sorrow to the sunshine of life and forget the crippling cobwebs of the nineteenth century in active endeavor to help one's fellows.

The large congregation that listened this morning were bidden to regard life not as a place to save one's soul, or in constant fear of a devil in pursuit, but as the school ordained by the Heavenly Father for the bringing out of character in preparation of the home to come.

The hymns breathed the same happy strain, and the selection sung with the greatest vigor was:

"Break forth, my soul, with joy to say
What wealth has come to me to-day."

One felt truly that it was good to be here and you saw its corroboration in the smiling faces of the congregation as it streamed out into the street at the conclusion of the service.

Decorated Graves.

The Army and Navy Veterans' Association decorated the graves of dead comrades at Hamilton Cemetery this afternoon. There was a large crowd of vets present, and the Independent Fife and Drum Band played sacred music. Rev. Mr. Howitt, chaplain of the society, conducted the services.

A Smarty's Foolishness.

J. B. Nelles of Grimsby, a bicyclist, came to grief this morning by running into the Macdonald Monument while holding his hands off the bars. His face was badly cut, and it took two books of court plaster to get him into shape.

General News Notes.

The Hamilton Collegiate Institute Ball Team defeated the Dundas Stars in a well contested game by a score of 13 to 8. Batteries—Burns and Ballard; Benton and Wardell.

Herkimer-street Baptist Church reopened this morning after a closing of a little more than two weeks. The structure has been renovated throughout and five stained windows have been added. Chancellor Wallace of McMaster preached at this morning's service, and Rev. J. S. Gilmour this evening.

Well-attended anniversary services were held at St. Joseph's to-day. A special feature was the singing by the choir of Lamblotti's mass. Rev. Father Hinchey delivered an admirable address.

Philip Silversmith, an Indian from Caledonia, got too much firewater on board last night and was arrested. As a slung-shot was found on his person he will have to face a charge of carrying an unlawful weapon.

Strict Observance Lodge, A.F.&A.M., celebrated its jubilee to-day by holding a Masonic service at Christ Church Cathedral this afternoon. Over 500 Masons turned out. C. R. Smith was master of ceremonies, and among those present were District Deputy Liddal of Brantford and P.D.D. W. Gibson, M.P., of Beamsville. Canon Bland preached.

Smith's grocery and liquor store, Bold and Caroline-streets, was broken into this afternoon and a quantity of liquor and cigars stolen.

The Mission Church at the Beach was opened this evening for the season, a large congregation, composed of the best citizens of the city, heard Rev. Dr. Burns preach on "Serving the Lord with Gladness." Miss Powis presided at the organ, and the choir rendered good music.

CHARGED WITH PERJURY

Three Liberals of Prominence at Battleford Will Have to Answer Charges Laid by the Postmaster.

Winnipeg, June 27.—(Special.)—A lad named Cudmore, living near Moosejaw, was yesterday trampled to death by a bronco he was leading from the stable.

The election to fill the vacancy in the constituency of Dennis, made vacant by the death of Mr. Crosby, will take place on July 10.

Escott Inspector Begin, J.P., of Battleford, N.W.T., Saturday, James M. Skelton, president, Thomas Dewan, vice-president, and Charles Dana, ex-secretary of the Liberal Association there, were committed for trial on charges of perjury. The charge was laid by the postmaster, against whom the above parties made a statutory declaration accusing him of keeping the voters' list in the Conservative committee rooms immediately preceding the last general election. This is the same Dana who is now an Indian agent, whose name was brought prominently forward last session by Mr. Davin. Dewan was recently awarded the mail contract between Saskatoon and Battleford.

AN IRISHMAN'S WILD TALK.

Will Perhaps Call Upon the Irish in America to Liberate Prisoners.

Dublin, June 27.—A meeting convened to bring further pressure to bear upon the British Government to grant amnesty to the Irish political prisoners now at Maryborough jail, was held in Phoenix Park to-day. Considerable surprise was expressed that the Jubilee week had passed without the release which had been expected.

Mr. William Field, Parnellite member for the St. Patrick's division of Dublin, in the course of a fiery speech, said: "It is useless to look further to the English Government. We will call upon the voices, and perhaps the arms, of our countrymen in America."

Captured a Large Moose.

Gretna, Man., June 27.—A large moose was captured by some farmers at Rosenfeldt last Sunday. It came from Morris and was about exhausted. The farmers with difficulty drove the animal into Buffalo Lake, and the bottom being soft the animal was mired. By the use of a boat they fastened ropes about its horns and got it safely ashore. It has become quite docile, taking food and water from men, and seems to take kindly to confinement.

NOTES FROM OTTAWA.

Canada's Reply to the Queen's Message Was First In—The Greatest Political Warrior—Personal Items.

Ottawa, June 27.—(Special.)—His Excellency has been informed that Canada's reply to the Queen's gracious message was the first to reach Buckingham Palace.

The Government has decided to present only three sets of Jubilee stamps. One goes to the Duke of York, a famous philatelist; another to the Duke of Nortolk, the British Postmaster-General, and the third to the Countess of Aberdeen. Mr. Mulock had them bound up in a beautiful album form, with suitable inscriptions.

A group of members were watching a game of king pedro in the smoking room of the House of Commons last night. The question of election contests cropped up, and it transpired that Mr. "Tignish" Perry, member for West Prince, takes the prize, he having gone through 22 elections in his public career, 16 of which were victories and 6 defeats. His first contest was back in 1854, when he ran for the Local Legislature. It is doubtful whether any man in Canada can beat Mr. Perry's record.

Mr. George C. Sikes of The Chicago Record is in the city. His mission is to investicate the operation of the postal savings bank system in Canada and report to his paper.

The Countess of Aberdeen sailed for England yesterday.

Mgr. Merry del Val returned to Ottawa to-day.

Mr. Sifton will be home to-morrow.

SMASH ON THE WABASH.

St. Louis Express Plunged Through a Trestle and Nine are Known to Have Been Killed—Twenty Wounded.

Kansas City, June 26.—The St. Louis express on the Wabash Railway, which left here at 6.20 this evening, plunged through a trestle at Missouri City, Mo., at five minutes to 7 o'clock, carrying down the entire train, with the exception of the rear car, a Pullman.

The number of dead is estimated at from 9 to 25. The known dead number nine. They are: Charles C. Copeland, conductor; Edward Greidrod, express and baggage master; C. M. Smith, postal clerk; Frank W. Brink, postal clerk; Saul Winters, newsboy; W. S. Mills, postal clerk; Gus Smith, postal clerk; C. P. Greasley, brakeman, all of St. Louis, and the train boy, name unknown. The injured number 20.

Later—Conductor G. C. Copeland, who was reported last night among the dead, is still alive. He was removed this morning to the Railroad Hospital at Moberly. With a fractured skull and several broken ribs he lingers between life and death, but the surgeons express a hope that he will recover. Of the nineteen injured not one is in a critical condition. Among them all there is not one broken limb, though many of them were thrown three-quarters of the length of the coaches in which they were riding. Last night it was supposed that more bodies were in the stream, but a careful search to-day proved that the fatalities are limited to those already named.

Athens, June 27.—The Turkish army in Epirus, having occupied several positions overlooking Agrapha, thus threatening the Greek retreat in the event of a resumption of hostilities, the Greek Government has decided to occupy Karpenisi with a strong force.

Mussulmans Made a Sortie.

Canea, June 27.—An armed force of 1200 Mussulmans made a sortie from Canea last night, crossed the military cordon, and surprised the insurgents at Kanlikastelli, three hours distant. A desperate combat ensued, in which 112 Mussulmans were killed and 32 wounded. The Christian inhabitants of the district are preparing to make reprisals by land and sea.

Later advices show that many Christians were killed, as well as many Turks, in engagements that preceded the principal fighting. The whole district is greatly excited. The trouble arose from the encroachments of Mussulman refugees, who attempted to pasture their cattle within the limits of the neutral zone.

THE GLORY OF ENGLAND.

Virtue of Loyalty to Their Country is What Has Placed the British Empire in the Forefront.

New York, June 26.—The leading editorial in to-day's Sun is headed: "The Glory of England." The article is, in part, as follows: "The most striking feature of the celebration of Queen Victoria's Jubilee was the demonstration of the steadfast, passionate and universal loyalty of the English people to England. In the whole history of mankind there never has been such another display of patriotic pride and devotion as that which was made in London last Tuesday, and throughout the world wherever an Englishman might be. It was a revelation of the secret of British power and domination over a worldwide Empire, and proved that the English people have succeeded to the spirit which made Rome the master of the world when Britain had not yet risen from barbarism.

"This virtue of loyalty to their country, which all Englishmen gloried in exhibiting last Tuesday, must characterize always a people capable of building up and holding together a great Empire. Honoring their own country and believing in its superiority means that they respect themselves and believe in their own prowess; and that is half of life's battle. Faint heart ne'er won fair lady, or anything else. The heart must be strong with confidence, aggressive, determined, and a country which is to be masterful must be masterful in its feeling, not doubtful, self-disparing, self-critical, or fearful of outside opinions, and secretly worshipful of some other country. It must have independence of will, and an absolute belief in its own destiny of greatness.

"This ability of England as a nation to make itself felt as a dominating power in the world is due to the loyalty which leads her people to stand together resolutely, ardently, on the side of their own country, though all the world be against it. They are not ashamed to declare the faith that is in them, under whatever circumstances; and it is absolute and unconquerable faith in England, a faith to which every sentiment in an Englishman offers its contribution; his love, his pride, his deepest devotion, his very religion. He carries it with him wherever he pushes his way, and by its impulse the British flag has been borne to every part of the earth, and flies in the remotest regions kept aloft by undoubting and unquenchable devotion to the fame of England.

"Hence, when Queen Victoria, the titular embodiment of English power and greatness, celebrated the 60 years of her nominal reign, all England, all Englishmen, joined with one accord in offering to her, an dthrough her to their country, the homage of their affectionate, passionate and boundless loyalty. The glory of this day was not hers; it was England's; and the steady and great development of English rule in commerce, in letters, and in society during the long period of her reign received its impetus from the burning national sentiment of which that occasion provided the jubilant expression."

The Tribune's Pleasant Words.

New York, June 27.—Commenting editorially on the statement recently made by The London Standard, that "As far as the Americans are concerned, we believe they are almost as pleased and proud as though the Jubilee were their own," The Tribune to-day says: "That is a strong saying, but not an injudicious one. It may well be believed to be entirely true. Popular interest in the Jubilee in the United States had been unprecedented. It has prevailed in all parts of the country and among all sorts and conditions of men. It has been so uniformly and unequivocally friendly that such few exceptions as there have been have served merely to emphasize its general character. For this no special merit is to be claimed. It is entirely natural. Nor is it a fact contrasting with the British attitude toward America. For obvious and sufficient reasons, British affection toward America is not so strong as American toward Great Britain. Yet it is strong and has often been made manifest in a most gratifying manner; and we doubt not that to-day, if the conditions were reversed, the British would, to paraphrase The Standard's words, be almost as pleased and proud over our Jubilee as though it were their own. For these two great branches of the Anglo-Saxon, or English-speaking race, are bound together by ties no man nor any vicissitudes of human experience can sever. It is easy to talk of George III. and the wrongs his Government inflicted upon the thirteen colonies. Those things belong to history. But history does not shape present life, nor control living hearts. The story of Waterloo does not hold Great Britain and France apart, nor that of the Crimea unite them. Sadowa and Venetia did not prevent the Triple Alliance.

"Yes; Americans are pleased and proud at the Jubilee of the Queen, who has always been their friend—who, just twenty years ago last week, received their great general and ex-President at Windsor with a cordiality kings and emperors might vainly covet—and of the great Empire of which their own republic is an offshoot. In that they are guilty of no lack of patriotism, no failure of republicanism or true Americanism. He would be a narrow-minded Briton who, seeing the greatness of America, did not feel a thrill of pride in saying: 'That is the nation which we Britons planted.' Equally narrow and ungracious would be the American, who, surveying the splendors of the Victorian realm, should feel no answering thrill of pride in saying: 'That is the Empire, that the stock from which we Yankees sprang.' So far as this Jubilee commemorates the personal achievements of the Queen and the individual attainments of the British Empire, Americans regard it with the pleasurable sympathy due to a friendly sovereign and a friendly power. So far as it sets forth the might and majesty and foreshadows the auspicious and resplendent destiny of the common race, they rejoice and exult in it as though it were—as, indeed, in that commanding sense it is—their own.

FIRE ON THE CITY OF ROME.

The Anchor Line Steamship Had a Very Exciting Time Previous to Her Arrival at New York.

New York, June 27.—The Anchor Line steamer City of Rome, Capt. Hugh Young, arrived to-day from Glasgow and Moville, after a fight with fire on board ship, which fortunately was quickly got under control by the ship's fire crew. Capt. Young reports that the City of Rome sailed from Glasgow and Moville on June 19 with 56 saloon, 90 second cabin and 150 steerage passengers, and a cargo of general merchandise. Fine weather was experienced during the entire passage. On Saturday, while the City of Rome was steaming along rapidly toward the American coast, the captain detected smoke issuing from No. 4 hold, immediately forward of the bridge. The chief officer was quickly sent forward to investigate and the captain's worst fears were verified, as dense volumes of smoke began to ascend from the hold. The fire alarm was sounded and the ship's crew beat to quarters. Meanwhile an officer was detailed to notify the passengers, who were sitting or promenading the decks. The ship's fire crew promptly responded to the captain's call, and in a few minutes hose was stretched along the deck from the engine room to the hold, where the fire was then raging. Steam and water were turned into the burning compartment, and two hours and a half afterward the fire was under control. Precautions were then taken to prevent the possible outbreak and spread of the fire to adjoining compartments. Another detachment of the crew was ordered to stand by in case of emergency and streams of water were constantly pouring into the burning compartment and on the main deck in the vicinity of the fire. The cargo in the burning hold consisted chiefly of jute goods and other general cargo, and will probably be a total loss.

Capt. Young is unable to assign any reason for the fire, but it is supposed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion. The City of Rome proceeded at once to her dock, after a brief inspection at quarantine. The exact nature, or the amount of damage, cannot be ascertained until the steamer's hatches are taken off and the cargo discharged.

When the fire was discovered preparations were made for abandoning the ship, says E. S. Bender of Albany, one of the passengers. The flurried passengers assembled in the main saloon with hand baggage and life belts. Capt. Young addressed them briefly, giving them the option of remaining on the steamer or being transferred to a brigantine and a schooner which were going in opposite directions. Mr. Bender put the motion to remain on the steamer and it was carried almost unanimously.

The Police Patrol Boat.

Editor World: The combined fire, life and police patrol boat advocated by the Municipal Committee of the Trades and Labor Council in their report of last Thursday evening is well worth the consideration of the press and people of Toronto. The committee believe such a boat would soon repay its first cost, and would certainly more than earn the annual grant for its maintenance. But to do this, it should be speedy, powerful and thoroughly equipped. To commission a slow, weak and poorly-equipped vessel would be but to court failure and disappointment. The public ambulance is a public convenience, but persons using it are charged for its use, and so help defray the cost of its maintenance. So it should be with the patrol boat in some respects. In addition to its primary three-fold purpose it should be able to do duty as a tug; not to interfere with private towing business, but to render assistance to vessels when private tugs are not available. As a fire vessel it would be able to render effective assistance with its powerful steam pump to leaking, waterlogged and distressed vessels seeking the shelter of our harbor, and such services would be charged against the property benefited. Of course, its raison d'etre is its fire and life-saving service. The value of your space prevents the committee from entering even partially into an enunciation of items of this incidental usefulness.

Its crew of say four men should be good swimmers, boatmen and firemen. The boat should be under the control of the city fire department; its central station say at the foot of Bay-street, and in direct connection with the city's electric fire alarm and police system.

The Municipal Committee believe this proposal should and will receive the hearty endorsation not only of the fire and police authorities and property-owners along the city waterfront, but of the citizens at large.

Thanking The World for the uniformly fair manner in which it has reported the proceedings of the Trades and Labor Council.

In consequence of the late secretary's books not being there, it was decided to leave the appointment of a new secretary until next Saturday.

The Pastor's Farewell.

Rev. G. K. Adams, pastor of Gerrard-street Methodist Church, preached his farewell sermon to an overflowing congregation last night, from Corinthians, 13, 11, "Finally, brethren, farewell." The congregation seemed visibly affected by the reverend gentleman's departing words, which were couched in warm and tender expressions for the future welfare of the church. During the three years Mr. Adams has been pastor of Gerrard-street Methodist Church it has been entirely cleared of debt and he leaves it in a very prosperous condition. He goes to Gore Church, Hamilton.
