"SPECULATIVE BUILDING" OR QUANTITY PRODUCTION?

Opinions Differ in Plans Made By Housing Commission.

"Speculative building" or "quantity production." Which of these two terms can be most fairly applied to the housing commission's plan to erect thirty-six houses at once and sell them when completed? Chairman J. G. Richter terms it "speculative building," and declares that no house should be built unless the commission has an application for it, and has resigned in protest against the plan. E. R. Dennis, R. H. Hessel and J. W. Cunliffe of the commission, term it "quantity production," and claim that it is the only way in which workmen will be able to buy houses. The case for "quantity production" was presented to the city council last night by Mr. Dennis, and was approved. Mr. Richter will be asked to reconsider his resignation. Somerville thinks that Mr. Richter is not so much opposed to the immediate building of thirty-six houses as to the general principle of building a house without an owner being first assured. As the commission did not at present intend to erect more than thirty-six houses he might consent to act again.

The letter read to the council by Mr. Dennis declared that the method favored by Mr. Richter imposes on the applicant the selection or preparation of an individual plan for his house and the purchase of a lot by him before submitting his application. He must furnish the commission with three sets of plans, three sets of specifications, and a block plan showing the site on which his lot is situated. The applicant is then forwarded to the department at Toronto for approval, or amendment, and after being finally approved, the commission consents to make the loan and the workman engaged his contractor (if the contractor is still agreeable to proceed). "This piecemeal, circuitous method has proven a failure in alleviating the acute shortage of houses in London," Mr. Dennis declared. "The average workman, who is busily engaged during the day, has neither time nor the experience to attend to all this detail. Applicants report that they find it an impossibility to get contractors to tender on a single low price house."

To Avoid Monotony in the east and sufficient to erect thirty-six houses. Four or five different styles of houses will be built to avoid monotony and meet varying requirements and purchasers' means. These houses will be sold to citizens who can meet all requirements. They will, without doubt, be contracted for before completion. When the work of the commission can erect a further group of houses to be built on the commission's land to be contracted for by bona fide applicants. Four assessment department have been able to secure options on sites at prices considerably less than individuals can purchase single lots. The commission proposes to build the houses by day labor, employing an experienced superintendent, and purchasing all materials wholesale. Deposits will be taken from the applicants as soon as the operations commence, and the houses will be turned over to them at cost on completion.

"Quantity production and scientific management are the answer to the problems presented by the present high labor costs. This method of quantity production will give the houses standing there in the least possible time, at minimum cost."

FALL PLOWING GOES ON RAPIDLY; LARGE AREA IS PROBABLE

Late Rains Have Helped the Potatoes and Roots.

The Ontario department of agriculture in its report of farm conditions issued September 2 says: "The plowing is being pushed along vigorously, and a larger acreage than usual will probably be turned under. Many farmers are using tractors. The land has worked well as a result of the recent rains."

An acre of fall wheat will likely be sown this year. Some have been got in already. The late rains still remain to be cut. Some of this crop has required the mowing, owing to the short straw.

The threshing of spring grains is proceeding actively, but in many cases the result is disappointing. Potatoes so far have given comparatively light yields, taking the province over. The rains of the last two or three days, however, have done good to the late varieties. Roots also are picking up well from the same cause. Corn has revived with the rains, but is a more or less uneven crop, returns varying greatly as to its condition. On the whole, however, it will approach a fair general yield. The wonderful improvement of pastures during the last two weeks has been most encouraging to owners of cattle, some of whom were letting their feeders go to market owing to poor grass and the light yields of spring grains. The decrease in the yield of milk has been stayed, and in many instances the flow has been improved. Feed states that alfalfa has yielded well, and that some farmers have sold their seed at $25 a bushel. Duffin reports that the threshing of sweet clover for seed has turned out satisfactorily. Live stock are in normal condition with comparatively little marketing. Grenville states that a large number of helters are being shipped from Brockville to the United States, to be reshipped to Belgium.

Peaches, which are light in yield this season owing to the heavy August rains, will be marketed a week or two earlier than usual. Lincoln states that grapes are selling at from $60 to $75 a ton, and plums at 6 cents a pound. Huron reports large shipments of plums from that county during the week.

DOCTORS' OPINIONS DIFFER ON INFLUENZA RECURRENCE

Some Expect Another Outbreak in October, Others Anticipate Gradual Elimination.

A prominent New York physician, who has made an extensive study of panemics, particularly influenza, states that there will be another outbreak of the dreaded disease this year, most likely around October, when people will start to live inside their homes more, but in all likelihood those who were attacked last year will be immune from an attack of the disease this year.

Physicians in this city have different views on the matter. Dr. H. A. Stevenson has about the same view as the American physician, but believes that the influenza germ is a permanent disease in the history of Canada, and that everyone will get it sooner or later. To prove it, he said, are the American insurance companies increasing their rates. Why would this be done if another epidemic were not expected?

Dr. H. A. McCallum has a brighter view on the subject, and says that Spanish influenza will gradually pass out of the country as all other large epidemics have done in the past. He states that there are a few cases in the city at the present time, and it will take some years for the disease to pass out altogether. There is not enough Spanish influenza in this city to warrant any worrying.

ADMITS ASSAULT AND PAYS $35.30 IN FINE AND COSTS

Hyland Oke, concession 6, London Township, paid $35.30 into Squire W. H. Chittick's court at the courthouse this morning, after he had pleaded guilty to two charges of common assault, one laid by Mrs. Matthew Eggett of the same township and the other by her daughter, Lillian Eggett. On Sunday, it was said, the accused came to the Matthews farm, which he had purchased, and engaged in an altercation which ended in blows, and as a result was arrested by County Constable Arthur Corsair, and brought to London.

At first the charge was a more serious one, that of assault occasioning bodily harm, but this was later changed to the charge to which he pleaded guilty. This change prevented the defendant from being sent for trial.

Of the $35.30 which Oke was assessed, $25.30 was costs. W. C. E. Burton appeared for the defendant and Crown Attorney J. B. McKillop for the crown.

Builds and Binds a Nation.

Truly national in character is the exhibit of the Canadian National Railways in the Railway Building at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto. The ensemble is most striking, and the electric lighting of the dome, combined with most artistic draperies, lends a spacious character to the whole exhibit, while the arrangement of the display is of general permits of freedom of movement to view the various exhibits in detail.

The frieze decorations show typical landscape views of the nine provinces, with the coat-of-arms of each, the connecting link bearing the highly significant reminder that this is an exhibit of "a line that builds and binds a nation."

Three sides of the octagonal building are occupied by a huge topographical map of the Dominion, on which are shown in brilliant illumination the names of the principal points reached by the Canadian National Railways. "The great steel strand that threads the land" being indicated by a broad band of red.

No better or more comprehensive plan could have been adopted to demonstrate that 14,000 miles of railway are now under Canadian National management, and that the Canadian Northern, the Intercolonial and Transcontinental Railways have been amalgamated into one vast system. To further demonstrate the fact that the system traverses every province of the Dominion and reaches every provincial capital, the observer by an ingenious arrangement of flashing lights, is taken in fancy right across the continent from Halifax to Vancouver and Victoria, stopping momentarily at the principal points en route, and then brought back again. The map should prove of much educational value in telling just what the Canadian National Railways are and the territory they reach.

Beautiful Transparencies.

A rustic centrepiece and several rustic lanterns contain some really beautiful photographic transparencies which do not fail to call attention to Canada's innumerable scenic gems, while the hunter's log cabin with its sporting trophies is also utilized for the projection of scenic and sporting and industrial life. Forestry, pulp and paper, minerals, Indian trophies and agricultural features complete an exhibit on which there has evidently been much careful preparation and considerable forethought. Nor has the royal visit been forgotten, for on top of the pyramid devoted to a beautiful display of British Columbia stands the Prince of Wales' crest, the three feathers worked in grain with the motto, "Ich Dien." Altogether it is an exhibit which every visitor should see if he would learn of Canada's national system of transportation.

CITIZEN OF U.S.A. SO CHARGE FAILS

W. H. Lightfoot Not Defaulter Here.

William Henry Lightfoot, 22, son of John Lightfoot, 694 Dundas street, and well known in this city as an athlete, established his United States citizenship in police court today and was dismissed on a charge of failing to register for military service under the M. S. A. last year. Lightfoot wore the uniform of a sergeant in the United States army, from which he was discharged recently.

He escaped from a Canadian military escort in Michigan on May 10, 1918, while being brought from Grand Rapids to this country, charged, according to John Wilson of the dominion police, as a defaulter.

According to Lightfoot and his father and brother, he had been a resident of the United States since the spring of 1913, and had visited this city several times during the war, but had never been employed in Canada.

When P. C. Tomlin and P. C. Monahan visited Lightfoot's former home at 694 Dundas street, while the accused was visiting here, he was found to be out. His father testified in court today that he knew when the police came to his home that they were looking for his son.

Lightfoot went to school here, but had worked in various occupations, mostly in Grand Rapids, since the spring of 1913. He enlisted in the United States army, he said, in May, when he was "up against it."

He surrendered himself to the dominion police here recently to have the charge against him cleared, he said.

The Legacy of War

Canada's Dead and Missing 63,038
Canada's Wounded 149,709
Canada's National Debt... $1,670,263,691
Soldiers' Annual Pensions. $35,000,000

THE world to-day is staggering with debt. Some of the leading countries are verging on bankruptcy. The British pound shrunk from $4.86 to as low as $4.12 in New York and the Canadian dollar to 95 cents.

Five years ago Canada had never dreamed of the financial burden she carries to-day.

Canada entered the Great war with a national debt of $337,000,000 or $42 per head of population. Canada emerges with a national debt to date of $1,670,263,691, which is expected to approximate $2,000,000,000 by the end of the fiscal year—or about $250 for every man, woman and child in the country.

Interest charges alone will eat up nearly one-half our present national revenue and soldiers' pensions will have to be provided as well.

Can Ontario Afford $36,000,000 a Year on Drink?

TO Canada's effort Ontario contributed one-third of the men and nearly one-half the money. And she will bear a chief share of Canada's burden of annual charges. If efficiency was necessary to win the war, it is necessary to reconstruct for peace.

"I say without hesitation," declared Premier Hearst, "that I do not know of one act or measure in this province that increases the efficiency of our people, conserved our national strength, aided thrift and generally contributed to our fighting power to a greater extent than the Ontario Temperance Act."

Previous to the Ontario Temperance Act the drink bill of the province approximated $36,000,000 per year, an amount about equal to Ontario's share of the annual interest on our national debt. In the face of our financial responsibilities alone is this the time to repeal the Ontario Temperance Act or relax a single one of its restrictions upon waste of money and man power? To every question on the Referendum Ballot vote—

"No!"—Four Times—"No!"

No Repeal; No Government Beer Shops; No Intoxicating Beers in Standard Hotel Bars; No Government Beer and Whiskey Shops

THE Referendum will put four questions squarely up to every man and woman in the province qualified to vote. Be sure you answer every question. Be sure you mark your ballot with an X after each question under the column headed "NO" or your vote will be lost to Temperance.
