ROMANOFF ESTATE PASSES TO RUSSIA

Ex-Czar Loses Revenue From Seven Hundred Million Dollar Property.

FAMILY TRUST FUNDS

Deposed Emperor Has Thirty-Five Million Dollars in England.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Petrograd, May 31.—Property valued at $700,000,000, from which Nicholas Romanoff, formerly Emperor of Russia, enjoyed the revenues for life only, have been taken from him by the provisional government. A special commission of the government has been discussing whether land, palaces and other property owned by Nicholas and estimated to be worth $48,000,000, shall be sequestered by the state. The commission also considered whether the property of the grand dukes and duchesses worth about $10,000,000 should be seized for the benefit of the public. The value of all the property owned by the former emperor or members of the former royal house of Russia is estimated at $958,000,000.

In addition, the professor asserts, Nicholas still has on deposit in the Bank of England $35,000,000, placed there years ago in provision for the rainy day which now has come. The late Grand Duke Alexis, uncle to the former Emperor Nicholas, left $10,000,000 on deposit in the Bank of France.

There are also two Romanoff family trust funds. One was founded by Alexander III, when on his death-bed in Livadia, which now amounts to $7,500,000, is invested in Russia and is within reach of the revolutionary government. Another, amounting to $3,000,000, was devised by Alexander II, when he liberated 4,000,000 serfs for $6 each in 1861.

Chief among the properties taken from the former emperor are the so-called "Cabinet Lands." These constituted one of the largest private estates in the world and included vast forests, gold, silver, platinum and copper mines, 100 factories for making paper, textiles, glass or porcelain and 1600 flour mills. Nicholas derived $32,000,000 a year in profits from the rental of these properties to peasants or others.

The former Emperor Nicholas' annual income when he was deposed, is estimated by Professor Okuneff at $65,000,000. The duma allowed him $8,500,000 a year to pay the expenses of the imperial court, but because of extravagance, mismanagement and pilfering the annual cost amounted to $20,000,000, according to the statement of Zubatcheff, councillor of the empire.

Expropriation of all the "appanage lands" from which the grand dukes and duchesses enjoyed a life income, was demanded by the council of workmen and soldiers' deputies. These lands are estimated to be worth $140,000,000. The members of the former royal house offered to surrender them to the government if the nation demanded it. The grand dukes and duchesses owned, as private individuals, more than 200 palaces or villas estimated to be worth $70,000,000. Some of these include the richest lands in the Crimea and the Caucasus. These estates were taken by the Romanoffs after the conquest of the Crimea and the Caucasus and in most cases no compensation was paid to the former owners.

AMERICAN FARMERS CAN HELP GREATLY

British Minister of Agriculture Speaks on Food Supply Problem.

London, June 26.—"Discontent of the stomach is more to be feared than discontent of the brain—that is why we value the co-operation of American farmers." This statement was made by R. E. Prothero, minister of agriculture, to the Associated Press today. "The outcome of the war," he said, "may ultimately hang on the question of food supplies, and the American farmer is allotted the essential part to play in the great struggle for freedom. The need of food for man and beast is great whether peace is won or war prolonged."

Asked what the United Kingdom is doing in the way of food production, Mr. Prothero said that fully one-third of labor—usually employed on land has been taken for war work. "Short handed, harassed by a hundred new difficulties, the farmers are doggedly struggling to increase grain production by half," he continued. "Upwards of 120,000 women in England and Wales, old and young, drawn from every section of the country, are toiling on land, tilling hard and continuously. We have quadrupled our garden plots. After a hard day's work men return to their homes to labor with their wives."

Brewing at Minimum. "There has been no complaint concerning breadstuffs substituted for wheat loaf. The situation has been accepted and everywhere there is determination to eat within tether, however hard it may be. Brewing has been reduced to the minimum. This is a serious deprivation to men working at furnaces, in foundries and harvest fields. For generations they have been accustomed to the use of beer and believe in the aid it gives them. We are further contemplating a drastic reduction of our livestock so more grain may be available for human food. These privations will have to be endured, but we do not fear such shortage as would mean starvation."

"There is risk that the shortage of food may strain endurance to the breaking point. There is as yet no indication that we even have distantly approached that point, but endurance might snap if, for instance, the milk supply failed thru inability to feed the dairy herd, because then lives of little children would be endangered. For this reason it is a welcome relief to us to know that the farmers of the United States are co-operating with the allies."

GERMANS GRANT TRUCE TO FETCH IN WOUNDED

Foe Extends Unusual Courtesy for Sake of Maimed Highlander.

Behind the British Lines in France, June 26.—In a section of the line where there has been some pretty severe fighting this week, the British and German front trenches are only thirty yards apart. A Scotch soldier left badly wounded in this narrow stretch of No Man's Land moaned so piteously that the British front line officer could scarcely restrain his men from certain death in attempting to bring him in. While the officer was trying hard to think of some plan for rescuing the wounded man, his eye fell on a stray dog, which had been fraternizing for several days with soldiers in both German and English lines, finding friends in each.

He quickly wrote a note, "Will you allow us to bring our man in?" and tied it around the dog's neck, sending him across to the German lines with the message. In a few minutes the dog returned with the reply, "Will give you five minutes." The officer and two men took a stretcher and went over the top, returning in safety four minutes later. Men on both sides joined in a cheer before they settled down again to the business of war.

DUTCH BULB FIELDS BURST INTO BLOSSOM

Hollanders Find Solace From War in Growing Flowers.

Haarlem, Netherlands, May 31.—Fully five or six weeks late, owing to the prolonged cold spell, the flowers of the Dutch bulb fields once more unfold themselves to the delighted eye of nature lovers, and the famous bulb country, between Haarlem and Leyden, is ablaze with daffodils and narcissi, while hyacinths, in their variegated shades, have again woven "nature's own pet." The tulips are yet to come.

Rarely has the advent of these spring flowers been welcomed with genuine enthusiasm. The people of Holland, nerve-strained as they are, owing to the constantly imminent war peril by which their little country is from all sides menaced, find some measure of solace in the reflection that as surely as the spring flowers have come again, the blessings of peace will once more descend upon this disturbed world.

The usual invasion of week-end visitors from the neighboring big cities has set in, and crowds wander thru the scented fields garnering the blossoms. The evening trains discharge their thousands all laden with the day's spoils, and give the grim railroad stations an unwelcome air of gaiety. The roads are alive with hordes of cyclists carrying big baskets on their handlebars, and chains of flowers slung across their shoulders.

Figures just published show that exports to the United States and Canada rose from $100,000 tons in 1915 to $1,014 last year. American gardeners have, in these years of war, been more and more drawing on the product of the long line of famous bulb-fields that lie just behind the sand dunes, skirting the coast of the provinces of north and south Holland. Last year's exports to America and Canada were more than double the total of 1915, the year immediately preceding the outbreak of war, and constituted nearly half of Holland's entire exports of 25,855 tons.
