KRYPTOK EAR VISION NEAR VISION WITHOUT LINES IN THE LENS

WHY wear the unsightly old-fashioned double-vision lens when you can get Kryptok Invisible Bifocals from all opticians. . . scientifically made and guaranteed perfect? Insist on Kryptoks, as substitutes and imitations are infringements. Reliable opticians offer only Kryptoks.

THERE is just the same difference between Kryptok Bifocals and all other lenses for far and near vision—that there is between the modern electric light and the old-fashioned tallow dip. You wouldn't use candles now-a-days, so why should you use two pairs of glasses or crude makeshifts when any optician can fit you out with Kryptok Invisible Bifocals? Be modern. . . ask for Kryptoks.

MUSIC IN MODERATION.

Vancouver News Advertiser: A writer in a hygienic publication advises parents to first ascertain whether their children are physically fitted for a course of piano instruction before they allow them to begin. He says: "Doctors deplore the fact that long and systematic piano practice does more to undermine children's health than all the other ills of the flesh which fall to their lot. And not only is music under such circumstances injurious to children, but also to many young ladies, whose desire to become good pianists has led them to practice for hours at a stretch when they ought to have been indulging in more beneficial exercise. Violin playing, although not so common, is perhaps even more injurious than piano practice. It necessitates standing in a somewhat forced attitude, so to speak, with the chest and shoulder cramped up. With children especially, excessive playing in

Monarch Light Touch

This exclusive feature of the Monarch Typewriter should interest the business man because of its distinct commercial value to him; it means Monarch operators are able to produce more work in a day.

To the operator Monarch Light Touch means an even day's work and "No 3 o'clock fatigue," owing to the fact that considerably less strength is required to run a Monarch than a typewriter of heavy action.

We welcome the opportunity to demonstrate this and many other Monarch advantages and solicit correspondence from those interested.

Illustrated Literature Sent on Request
The Monarch is made in regular carriage and several wide carriage models—all shown in our literature which is gladly sent to all who write for it.

Low cost in the operating of gas ranges is the idea. To accomplish that you must select the properly constructed gas range. The cost of the range itself is about the same in most cases, but the range that consumes the most gas is more expensive in the long run. Therefore you must look well into the matter.

We are daily demonstrating at our showrooms the features and improvements to save gas, time, labor and expense, embodied in such a position is productive of the most disastrous results. Many children who have been allowed to play for too long a period without a rest have become round-shouldered or hump-backed.

The moral of all this is that, unless you desire your children to take music as a profession, they should not practice more than half-an-hour at a time, with considerable intervals in between.

THE CARE OF THE HAIR

Probably there is no more trustworthy evidence of woman's prevalent neglect of her hair than the inordinately large demand for switches, braids and hair pads. Unremitting attention is the price of good hair. The woman who would have this chief asset to beauty must earn it. Hair demands the same regular and conscientious care as the face, hands and teeth.

The various causes which operate to destroy the hair may be checked and permanently removed by which restores its life and lustre and keeps the scalp in good, healthy condition. Princess Hair Revivator is especially efficacious in restoring the natural color to faded hair, and hair medium brown to black and not more than one-half grey, and is not benefited by its use. Applied in connection with our electric scalp treatments, it works wonders in infusing new life and growth into the hair and scalp. Some of the money now spent in false hair might well be invested in a course of our treatments.

The happy, contented feeling of having clean, luxuriant and lustrous tresses of your own will make you think it is worth every cent you pay for it—and more.
