"BLIND HUSBANDS"

THE Editor of PHOTOPLAY, probably the foremost authority in the country on the merits of moving pictures, says that of all the pictures he has seen this year, "BLIND HUSBANDS" is one of the three best. "BLIND HUSBANDS" has fewer explanatory titles than any big picture ever made—which means that its story is so absorbing and so flawlessly acted that explanation is almost unnecessary. The plot, involving the destiny of a wife and another man, is very simple but so absolutely gripping that once you see the deadly peril into which it is leading, nothing short of a million dollars could make you take your eyes from the screen. And towards the end of this picture you'll have the biggest surprise you ever had in your life. See it now—then tell your friends. Don't let them miss it.

Col. J. W. Worden, D. S. O., Formerly of Bayswater, Kings Co., N. B., Speaks of Work in the Far East.

(Sussex Record.)
Among the passengers who returned to Canada on the S. S. Scandinavia, which docked at St. John on Saturday, was Col. J. W. Worden, D. S. O., former resident of Bayswater, Kings county, who has made his home in British Columbia for some years. Citizens of New Brunswick, particularly of Kings county, where Col. Worden was born and spent a considerable portion of his life, should feel proud of his splendid record made by him through sheer ability. He has risen from the ranks to hold a high command and to be the recipient of coveted decorations.

GEORGE B. SEITZ in "BOUND AND GAGGED" CHAPTER THREE
Refusing to give up the mysterious parchment, Archie is thrown overboard from the steamer "Cadiz." Struggling in the icy Atlantic, he is about to sink when—

Col. Worden came home last fall, but returned to England again to attend to some unfinished military business. While home last fall he was tendered a banquet at Vancouver.

The following is taken from one of the leading papers published in that city: (Vancouver Province, Oct. 27.)

Few narratives of the war are more thrilling than that which Lieut.-Col. J. W. Worden, C. B. E., D. S. O., told to some two hundred former members of the 102nd Battalion at a banquet in his honor and in celebration of the capture of Regina Trench in 1916, at the Hotel Vancouver on Saturday night. The gallant officer, whose popularity with all ranks of his former command was well evidenced by the vociferous cheering which greeted him on rising, paid a fitting tribute first of all to the men of the 102nd. To them, he said, he owed any honors that had come to him and he thanked them for their loyalty and devotion in the field.

Colonel Worden traced the story of the "hush-hush" party from the time of its first gathering in London through all its wanderings in strange lands of Asia, through Egypt, Palestine, Persia, and Mesopotamia. The original object of the force, which consisted ultimately of 6,000 whites, was the organization of half a million irregulars from the tribes of Southern Caucasasia. They consisted of 180 different tribes and races.

The desperate desert marches on their way across the pathless wastes of Mesopotamia to Bagdad, the Colonel described with detail. Their column was ten miles long, made up of every description of transport, and because of the heat they were forced to march at night, harassed as they went by hill tribes, who sniped at them by day and drank their coffee in friendly fashion at night. At Baku Col. Worden commanded 5,000 troops, mainly Armenians, for one month, "at the end of which time they all ran away and left me," added the Colonel.

East of the Caspian Sea they went through some severe fighting with Bolshevik troops, succeeding in driving them back several hundred miles. Col. Worden told of the appalling absence of medical equipment, of the lack of proper transport, and of the terrible suffering thus occasioned to the troops. Before the last men in the world in the war, you should make the finest citizens in times of peace. I am confident that every 102nd man will show that he is still a good Canadian citizen and will never do anything to bring discredit on the name of the old battalion."

Semi-ready Tailoring

Because the clothes were called "semi-ready" most folks thought it was a name coined to define or describe clothes ready to try-on, clothes ready to be finished to fit.

Semi-ready is a registered trade mark, and designates clothes made by an English corporation called the Semi-ready Company.

The Special Order Service of the Semi-ready shops is a great modern feature of wholesale custom tailoring.

Choose your cloth pattern. Select your style preference. Have your measure taken; your physique type marked on a chart. Four days after the order reaches the shops its on its way back to you. That's Service—special service.
