FEARS FOR THEIR SON CONFIRMED

Letter From Adjutant Relative to Pte. Percy A. Colin of West St. John

A letter received from the adjutant of the battalion with which he was serving confirms the fears aroused by a message received in October that Private Percy A. Colin of West St. John, was wounded and missing. An inquiry from his family brought the answer that he had been seen lying wounded but that when the stretcher bearers arrived they were able to find no trace of him. It is believed that a shell had killed him in the meantime.

Private Colin, who was twenty-two years of age had been working in Buffalo with a dredging company when war was declared and crossed to Hamilton where he enlisted in one of the early battalions. He fought through many of the fiercest engagements and in his last act of the war his family will have the sincere sympathy of their friends.

The letter from overseas is as follows: "On the 28th of September 28, 1918, just before the battalion started to go through the wire at Hendercourt, your son No. 3106, 111, Pte. Percy A. Colin, was seen lying wounded; when the stretcher bearers came along afterwards to dress and carry out the wounded, there was no trace of your son, and it is thought in the section to which he belonged that a shell must have landed near by where he lay. I am very sorry indeed not to be able to give you any further particulars, but should any information come to hand, you will hear from the Canadian Record Office. Please accept my deepest sympathy in your loss."

C. DAVIDSON,
Lieut. a-Adjt.
8th Canadian battalion."

CHILDREN GROWING UP IN IGNORANCE

There are five children of school age on Navy Island who are not attending school. In other words, on a tiny island St. John harbor, and in the city limits, with school houses on all sides, there are five children growing up in utter ignorance. The Children's Aid Society through its agent directed attention to this matter last year, and had done so previously. It is extremely difficult to get children from the island at some times of tide so that they could regularly attend school, and nothing has been done for them. Apparently their parents are quite content to allow them to grow up in ignorance, and there the matter rests.

ICE CHAMPIONSHIPS.
The Y. M. C. I. have received word from the Maritime Province Amateur Athletic Association that they have been given permission to hold the skating championships here in the near future. Mr. McNamara has started receiving entries for the feature event.

There Are Distinctive Advantages in Buying Rugs at Everett's

The selection of the floor coverings is one of the most important responsibilities that devolves upon the home furnisher. The entire effectiveness of all the other effort to beautify may be lost or enhanced in the choice of the Rugs.

Certain it is that no transient influence should be permitted to deter the thought from idealism—from securing the floor covering that will add most in beauty, in harmony and in real satisfaction and service through the many years to come.

There is a distinct advantage in buying Rugs at this store, because every single Rug in our entire ample stocks represents individual, critical, personal care in selection. The commonplace, the ordinary or the doubtful find absolutely no place here.

And buying, as we always do in the great open market, from reputable manufacturers only, and for the lowest prices that spot cash can command, you may rest assured that nowhere, under any conditions, can you excel the values that are available to you every day here.

Our offerings include practically every type of Rug that is desirable for the furnishing of the home. Let us suggest the advisability of a comparison of offerings and of values before you select any Floor Coverings. You will be welcome here to look, whether you buy or not.
