

STRONG SPEECH OF SIR EDWARD GREY

Clears the Air And Pours Oil On Troubled Waters

THE GERMAN MATTER

Does Not Believe Germany Has
Aggressive Designs and Says
England's Desire is Peace—Time
For World to Get Sober and Keep So

London, Nov. 27.—Sir Edward Grey, secretary for foreign affairs, cleared the political atmosphere and poured oil on the turbulent waters of Anglo-German relations in a speech lasting one hour and a half in the house of commons this afternoon.

The foreign secretary reviewed the whole Moroccan episode from the sudden appearance of the German gunboat "Anther" in the port of Agadir in southern Morocco up to the signing of the Franco-German treaty. He unflinchingly upheld the attitude taken by the British government, but at the same time declared that its action was never antagonistic to Germany or to any settlement she was able to arrange with France, and which did not threaten the rights of Great Britain.

Fit of Political Alcoholism.

Sir Edward Grey made no secret of the fact that the situation had at one time been very tense, but though his statements today would prove a sedative to a world which had been indulging in a fit of political alcoholism and that the time had arrived for it to get and to keep cool and sober.

Great Britain had no secret treaties and both France and Russia knew perfectly well that British public opinion would not support any provocative or aggressive action against Germany. German strength was in itself a guarantee that no other country would seek a quarrel with her, but if a nation had the biggest army in the world and a very big navy and was going to build a still bigger navy then that nation must do all in its power to prevent the natural apprehensions of others lest that power should have aggressive intentions toward them.

"I do not believe that Germany has aggressive designs and all we as neighbors of Germany desire is to live with her on equal terms."

The House of Commons was crowded to hear Sir Edward Grey. Commencing at the first with the action of Herr von Kiderlin-Warthe's disclosure of their diplomatic conversation last spring he traced the successive steps of the negotiations which at one time were of a character that threatened serious results but which finally assumed a more peaceful tone until an agreement was reached with regard to the African questions which had been in dispute.

"The German Imperial Chancellor recently made two speeches," he said, "which were inspired with the hope of seeing his country strong but not aggressive. If that is the spirit of the German policy within two or three years the talk of a great European war will have gone."

James Ramsay MacDonald, Socialist and Labor member, John Dillon, Nationalist, by the government on account of the secret displayed and also because steps had not been taken on behalf of the people of Persia, Morocco and Turkey.

The prime minister defended the government against the charge of undue repression and said that Great Britain has no cause for quarrel with any of the great powers.

"British interests remain," he said, "and always must remain to secure the peace of the world, and to the attainment of that great object the government's diplomacy and policy will with single-mindedness continue."

Alluding to the policy of isolation, Sir Edward Grey thought it would be a disastrous policy for Great Britain to allow it to be understood that she would under no circumstances give her friends assistance if attacked. That he deplored the loss of all her friends in Europe and would soon be building warships against the rest of the world. If, on the other hand, England continually interfered in the international affairs of other nations as had been proposed by some members of the house of commons, the consequence would be an expenditure on armaments even greater than at present and the peace which the people desired to preserve would soon topple over.

"Let us make new friendships by all means, but not at the expense of those we have."

"I desire to improve our relations with Germany and intend to maintain our friendship unimpaired. The German Imperial Chancellor recently made two speeches which were inspired with the hope of seeing his country strong but not aggressive. If that is the spirit of German policy, then within two or three years the talk of a great European war will have gone. The effect of the Moroccan settlement must be to relax tension and to remove a great obstacle from the path of European progress. For years the question of Morocco has been a discomfort to diplomats. It has been settled without breaking the peace of Europe and the part his majesty's government has taken has contributed materially to that result."

Bonar Law, leader of the Unionists, in a speech strongly supporting Sir Edward Grey, said that the foreign secretary's statement had convinced him that every step taken was with a sole regard for British interests.

Ingratitude quickly sours the milk of human kindness.

"The Water of Eternal Youth"

(From Home Queen.)

The beauties of the Austrian court used a lotion which was so effective in keeping the face smooth and free from wrinkles, even in the early days that they named it the "water of eternal youth."

Some one has recently divulged the secret of this lovely lotion, which in her gratitude she has kindly gifted as a preserver of youth. It is a simple and easy to use. Dissolved in a half pint of water, it is used in the morning and at her drug store, put them together, and use the solution with entire safety. To bathe the face in the same brings immediate results, even in case of the deeper wrinkles and furrows. This is also effective for hanging cheeks and double chin.

BREAKING UP UNDER STRAIN

Asquith Looks to Lord Chancellorship for Rest From Toil

WHO WILL BE SUCCESSOR?

Lloyd George and Winston Churchill Becoming Worked Out and Party Men Look to Samuels or Harcourt—The Telling Burden

(Times Special Correspondence.)

London, Nov. 18.—If, as revealed by the resignation of Arthur Balfour and the subsequent compromise on Bonar Law as his successor, all is not well within the Unionist party, it is equally true that the Liberal party leaders are not passing easy nights at present. Whether or not Mr. Balfour really is suffering from ill-health, it cannot be doubted that several of the most prominent men in the government are on the verge of physical breakdown.

Persistent rumor has it that Mr. Asquith will retire from the post of prime minister in the near future. It is understood that he wishes to guide the Liberal party through the uncharted and dangerous waters of social reform which it is now navigating, but, that done, he has no wish to retain the high position he now occupies. He has picked the wool-sack upon which to rest his office-weary bones.

The present lord chancellor, Lord Loreburn, has gained the intense dislike of the bulk of the Liberal party by his habit of selecting Unionists instead of Liberals as magistrates and there are constant and powerful demands for his official scalp.

Asquith is not a rich man and he would not regret the change from the £25,000 a year he now draws as prime minister to the £45,000 which is the salary of the lord chancellor.

Paying the Price

Asquith is rapidly paying the price the premiership demands of those who would climb to its heights. The job killed the late Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman and it has silvered the hair and lined the face of Asquith, his successor. The present government is made up of fundamentally discordant elements and the work of holding them together without a sacrifice of the principles of Liberalism, which has been Asquith's, is a task that only a man in the most robust health can continue for any length of time.

But what is interesting official and political London is not the future of Asquith, but the question of who will succeed him. A year ago ninety-nine persons in every hundred would have told you that it would be the close race between Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty. The formidable Max Baerish, cleverest of English caricaturists, had on exhibition in London a picture which hit off conditions that existed at that time. George and Churchill are standing together in the street, outside the residence of the prime minister and the former says: "Let's lose for it, Winnie."

"Yes, Dave," answers Winston, "but would either of us as lost abide by the result?"

But the last twelve months have completely altered the course taken by the government on account of the secret displayed and also because steps had not been taken on behalf of the people of Persia, Morocco and Turkey.

The prime minister defended the government against the charge of undue repression and said that Great Britain has no cause for quarrel with any of the great powers.

"British interests remain," he said, "and always must remain to secure the peace of the world, and to the attainment of that great object the government's diplomacy and policy will with single-mindedness continue."

Alluding to the policy of isolation, Sir Edward Grey thought it would be a disastrous policy for Great Britain to allow it to be understood that she would under no circumstances give her friends assistance if attacked. That he deplored the loss of all her friends in Europe and would soon be building warships against the rest of the world. If, on the other hand, England continually interfered in the international affairs of other nations as had been proposed by some members of the house of commons, the consequence would be an expenditure on armaments even greater than at present and the peace which the people desired to preserve would soon topple over.

"Let us make new friendships by all means, but not at the expense of those we have."

"I desire to improve our relations with Germany and intend to maintain our friendship unimpaired. The German Imperial Chancellor recently made two speeches which were inspired with the hope of seeing his country strong but not aggressive. If that is the spirit of German policy, then within two or three years the talk of a great European war will have gone. The effect of the Moroccan settlement must be to relax tension and to remove a great obstacle from the path of European progress. For years the question of Morocco has been a discomfort to diplomats. It has been settled without breaking the peace of Europe and the part his majesty's government has taken has contributed materially to that result."

Bonar Law, leader of the Unionists, in a speech strongly supporting Sir Edward Grey, said that the foreign secretary's statement had convinced him that every step taken was with a sole regard for British interests.

Ingratitude quickly sours the milk of human kindness.

EDMONTON

Article No. 2

A LITTLE OUTPOST TOWN, on the northwestern frontier, had grown to a thriving, prosperous city of thirty thousand, and the city is EDMONTON. As one looks at this picturesque and truly wonderful little city, from across the magnificent gorge of the Saskatchewan, the picture is only to be likened to some romantic town of the old world, which people will journey across oceans and continents to behold. But there is a difference. These beautiful old world towns are places of traditions, Edmonton is a city of prophecy. For all around it is a magnificent prairie with a soil of unrivaled richness. Away to the north is that land of mystic charm, the Peace River Valley, with its broad prairies, curious and bewitching traditions, beautiful rivers and a climate that benignly contradicts its latitude. And then further north is the magnificent Mackenzie Valley and the land of the Midnight Sun. An Empire is in the making here; eight hundred miles to the west and Prince Rupert, the Pacific Gateway; and eight hundred miles again to the north and the Mackenzie River and another ocean highway to the Arctic;—and Edmonton is the gateway to this coming Empire of the Northwest.

It was from here that two young men journeyed west to find their fortunes, and it is in Edmonton that was organized, only a few months ago, the first of Western Canada's Great Industrials. But before telling the story of this great institution, it is worth while telling the story of its making.

In the industrial development of the Northwest, Edmonton stands for a principle, and that principle is ORGANIZATION. In this Countersign of Twentieth Century Progress is found the secret of Industrial Success. It is all in the word—Organization. And that word is written boldly across the chart of commercial activity in Edmonton. Someone said here: "We must build right or build twice." And the answer was spontaneous: "We will build right that we need not build twice."

And when the business men of Edmonton saw themselves face to face with the first great industrial institution of the northwest, their first step was to create an institution, the like of which is not to be found on the American continent. It was an institution carefully and scientifically created for the purpose of Organizing, Financing, Building and Operating the mills and factories that are making the new Empire of the Northwest.

This institution was created for the specific and deliberate purpose of organizing industrial concerns, so that they will pay dividends to their shareholders. At its head is a business man who possesses the genius of organization. There are seven departments, each of which is under the direction of a competent manager of thorough training and successful experience. These departments are:

- Accounting
- Office System
- Engineering
- Factory Organization
- Law
- General Sales
- Mail Sales

Expert for these departments were recruited from the great industrial and commercial centers of the United States and Canada. And what this institution has meant already to Edmonton may be illustrated by its history.

ALLAN HAYNES, Limited, Edmonton, Alberta

of "Lulu" Harcourt, the present Colonial Secretary. Four years ago it was said by an influential Liberal that Harcourt was a good man, but he was not to be trusted. If the strain of high office has been severe on Mr. Asquith it has not spared Lloyd George and Churchill. Today, the former is almost a wreck. His Celtic spirit and enthusiasm have cooled him beyond his physical powers. Trips to the south of France, vacations in the south of England and enforced absence from the House of Commons have failed to restore him to health. His voice has almost entirely gone and rumors that refuse to down in the face of repeated denials, have it that there is something serious the matter with his throat.

Winston Churchill is no better off. Men who have been in daily touch with the brilliant young minister have been shocked of late by the alarming change in his appearance. His face is fat and puffy; bags are settling under the protruding Churchillian eyes and dark rings tell the tale of ill-health. Formerly complete master of himself, in hot debate of late he has shown signs of irritability and loss of self-control at critical moments in the House of Commons. If he is gradually going to pieces at his early age, he is not the man to fill the shoes of Asquith.

A MARVEL OF HEALING

Salt Rheum of Ten Years' Standing
Healed as if by Magic—Hands Cracked, so Could Not Work—Cures Effected by
Dr. Chase's Ointment

It does not take long for Dr. Chase's Ointment to prove its unique healing power. A single night is often sufficient to produce the most remarkable results. Internal treatment for skin diseases is nearly always disappointing. By applying Dr. Chase's Ointment to the diseased parts relief is obtained almost immediately, and gradually the scales fall up and disappear. Here are two letters which will interest you:

Mrs. Chas. Gilbert, Heston, Placentia Bay, Nfld., writes: "I was a sufferer from Salt Rheum for ten years, and had about despaired of ever being cured, so many treatments had failed. Reading of the wonderful cures effected by Dr. Chase's Ointment, I commenced using it, and was entirely cured by eight boxes. I want to express my gratitude for Dr. Chase's Ointment, and to recommend it to all sufferers."

Mr. Stanley Merrill, Delaware, Ohio, writes: "For years I was troubled with my hands cracking, often becoming so sore that I could hardly do any work. I got some of Dr. Chase's Ointment and happily find that one or two applications of same to the affected parts make them well. I have had no trouble since using the ointment for sore hands."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60c. a box, at all dealers, or Edmundson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

men who, in the days of his father's leadership, followed him loyally. Harcourt is looked upon by a strong section of the Liberal party as their leader, and is said to have been forced into the cabinet by men who were opposed to any return of the Rosebery influence.

Burn Candle at Both Ends

An English writer once said that, "the triumphs of politics are usually won in blood and tears." But is the breakdown of British politicians really due to the worry and work of political life? The truth is that most of the public men in this country of necessity lead "double lives."

They spend their days in the House of Commons and their nights at balls, dinners, social functions of other kinds, royal courts, public meetings, or theatrical first nights. And in the case of men like Mr. Asquith, who are not born to wealth and position but who have to make their living, hours are crowded hours in the early morning or late night which are spent in further toil. No, it is not parliamentary life that ruins the health of the public men in this country. It is the burning of the candle at both ends, and in some cases in the middle also.

THIS IS BUILDING WORK SURELY

(New York World)

Builders in the entire metropolitan district will close the year with a record $220,000,000 of outlay.

Records of the year to date and estimates of work during the remaining six weeks show that the Greater City has put $182,000,000 into the year's constructions, while the suburban sections of Westchester, New Jersey, Nassau and Suffolk have increased the outlay by over $35,000,000.

Nearly $20,000,000 of the total has been involved in alterations, the Greater City taking $18,000,000 for such operations.

Millions of dollars for new structures will reach $20,000,000. In the Bronx the total will exceed $21,000,000; in Brooklyn, $22,000,000; in Queens, $21,000,000. Queens shows a gain of 25 per cent. over the 1910 outlay, but Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx all show small losses.

DEPENDS ON WHERE HE IS

"How old would you say she is?"

"To her face or behind her back?"

Mr. Hobart to Paris

Phillips Hobart, the sculptor, accompanied by Mrs. Hobart, left for Paris last week for Paris, where he will remain for the next two years. The Misses Yvonne and Pauline and Adrian Hobart accompanied their parents. The son will study painting.

APPOINTMENTS.

An Ottawa despatch says that C. McE. Stevens, assistant engineer in St. John's, has been appointed engineer in charge of the new wharf contract on West Side. The Misses Yvonne and Pauline and Adrian Hobart accompanied their parents. The son will study painting.

Stops a Cough Quickly

—Even Whooping Cough

Sixteen Ounces of the Quickest, Surest Cough Remedy for 50c—Money Refunded if It Fails.

If you have an obstinate, deep-seated cough which refuses to be cured, get a 50-cent bottle of Pinex, mix it with home-made sugar syrup and start taking it. Inside of 24 hours your cough will be gone, or very nearly so. Even whooping cough is quickly conquered in this way.

25-cent bottle of Pinex, when mixed with home-made sugar syrup, gives you 16 ounces—a family supply—of the finest cough remedy that money could buy, at a clear saving of $1.00 very easy to prepare—full directions in package.

Pinex soothes and heals the inflamed membrane, with remarkable rapidity. It stimulates the appetite, is slightly laxative, and has a pleasant taste—children take it willingly. Suffering from croup, asthma, bronchitis, throat tickle, chest pains, etc., and a thoroughly successful remedy for incipient lung troubles.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of Norway White Pine extract, rich in quinine and other healing pine elements. It has often been imitated, though never successfully, for none will produce the same results. Simply mix with sugar syrup or any other liquid, in a 16-ounce bottle, and it is ready for use.

Anyone who tries Pinex will quickly understand why it is used in more homes in the U. S. and Canada than any other cough remedy. The genuine is guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. Certificate of guarantee is wrapped in each package. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

"ENEMIES OF THE REPUBLIC" MAKE THINGS SERIOUS

Disorders in Lisbon Result in Deaths, Many Being Injured and Sixty-six Arrested--Attack on Hospital.

Canadian Press

Lisbon, Nov. 27.—The disorders which occurred here last night owing to the expulsion of the Chinese women for the illegal exercise of a "cure" for blindness at one time attained serious proportions. All the streets in the centre of the city were occupied by the cavalry, who charged continuously in all directions. The populace, which was armed, offered a firm resistance to the troops and shots were freely exchanged. Suddenly a great explosion was heard on the Plaza Dom Pedro. The cavalry galloped up unslinging their carbines and poured volley after volley through the windows of a cafe in which a great mob had taken refuge and a large number wounded on the floor of the cafe.

A similar scene occurred at another store where some of the republicans' leaders had taken refuge from the furious populace. The rioters, unable to cope with the military, fled into taverns and other places, from which they looted and fired upon the passing soldiers until the latter entered and expelled them.

After the explosion of the bomb the mob invaded the hospital of Sao Jose, as the buildings of the former Jesuit College of Santa Anta built in 1757, whence they tried to carry off the wounded but were repulsed by the soldiers.

The disorders lasted until 3 o'clock this morning, but later everything became quiet. An official statement issued late in the morning stated that 200 persons were killed and 600 arrested. The statement attributes the disorders to "enemies of the republic."

Attorney—"Why do you wish a divorce from your wife?"

Mr. Sage—"Uh—kaze I'm mar'd to her, o'cou'se, sah!"—Judge.

THOUGHT COLD WOULD TURN INTO CONSUMPTION

LEFT LUNG GOT VERY SORE, HEART DID NOT FEEL
ANY TOO GOOD.

Mr. Robert McLarnon, Shawville, Que., writes:—"I am writing to tell you an experience I had with a bad cold and a bottle of your valuable medicine. I was up in the lumber camps teaming horses, and I caught a very bad cold. I thought it was going to turn into consumption, for my left lung got very sore and my heart did not feel any too good. I came home and tried some different remedies but they did me no good. A friend told me about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, so I tried it, and when I had taken two bottles my cold was gone. I think it is a great remedy, and will advise any one who is cold to use it. I can't praise it enough."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup contains all the lung healing virtues of the Norway pine tree, which combined with Wild Cherry bark and other pectoral remedies, makes it one of the greatest known preparations for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, and all Throat and Lung Troubles.

Put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25 cents. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.