

Caught Off Montreal Island

The guide under whose directions these muscavongs were caught in Lake St. Louis, about two and a half miles from St. Anne, claims that there are no finer muscavong fishing grounds in the Province. He makes a specialty of this kind of fishing and guarantees one fish per day or no pay. There is also good fishing for small mouth bass, pickerel and pike and in the fall, Lake St. Louis is visited by flights of duck southward bound. Mr. Plon, the guide, conducts parties for duck shooting also, in season, from St. Anne. Perhaps the reason for the plentiful supply of large fish is that St. Anne is too close to Montreal, the sportsmen preferring to go further a field, but whatever the reason is, there they are.

CAT PERFORMS HOUDINI TRICK

Six Kittens, Locked Up to Await Execution in River. Mysteriously Vanish and Mother Stalks About Deftly.

New York, July 13.—Minerva is a wise cat, as her name implies, and she has outwitted the police of the East. Twenty-second street station in a manner not to their liking. The breath of life still is within the six kittens that she exhibited so proudly Monday at the station house. It was the intention of the guardians of the law to drown them in the East River, or exterminate them in some other fashion. But they did not know how resourceful was Minerva, the cat of canny motherhood.

When Minerva showed up with her family the babies were thrust into a locker and the key was hidden. Captain Hubert Callahan, Lieutenant Jerome Foley and other officers consulted with one another and decided the kittens were not to be taken into their own hands. Instead, they opened the locker to bring out the kittens, who were on point.

The locker door was closed again and another consultation was held. It was decided yesterday that a second attempt would be made to remove the kitten family from their retreat. But just then Minerva came striding along minus her offspring and an examination of the locker disclosed the astonishing fact that it was still locked. But the kittens had vanished.

Minerva was trailed all day, but she hid her kittens well, and although she doubtless made several trips to their habitat she did not take any policemen into her confidence.

What is worrying Captain Callahan is that he has on his property books the following item: "One cat, six kittens." He is in a quandary as to what to do if ordered by Commissioner Enright to produce them.

Now Minerva stalks about the station house in a triumphant way, turning up her nose at her superiors, and if she had any human accomplices she hasn't told on them.

4 UNCOVERED ANKLES—REALLY SHOCK BROADWAY.

Their off! No, not ponies. Stockings! Broadway, New York, for all its bustle and its many theatres, has a hidden side. It is a side that is not to be desired as a wife.

The Shans in their dances disguised themselves as men and women. They wore masks and costumes. They were not to be taken for what they were. A small dog which happened to stray into the arena was so frightened by the sight of the legs that he hid his tail between his legs and awaited in terror the end of the show.

The Shans states, right in agricultural and mineral products, are in the north-eastern part of Burma.

Animal Dance Held Under Torchlight by Natives in Burma

Entertainment Given Takes Place in Specially Built Arena with 5,000 Spectators in Attendance.

Taunggyi, Burma, May 22.—(Associated Press.)—By invitation of the Burmese government, a series of animal dances were given in a specially built arena with 5,000 spectators in attendance. The dances were given in a specially built arena with 5,000 spectators in attendance. The dances were given in a specially built arena with 5,000 spectators in attendance.

In the opening parade, some of the torches were as much as fifty feet in height and required fifty or sixty men to carry them. Each torch was followed by several musicians who beat tom-toms and played other weird instruments.

Of the tribal dances those of the Padungs proved the most popular. The Padungs are noted for the enormous rings they wear. The brass rings were about the neck, arms and legs of the dancers. They weighed fifty pounds. Those of the neck, amounting to about fifteen pounds, were considered the most frightful. The girl stirs wearing such rings from the neck to the ankles.

BIG SHARE TO SYNDICATE

Story of Rum Runners Who Operate Tiny Boats on River at Detroit.

Detroit, July 12.—(Associated Press.)—Certain powerful interests control the available supply of beer and liquor on the Canadian side and the money is made there, according to the rum runners who operate the tiny boats which cross the river.

Thus, say these runners, the huge profits in the rum running business across the Detroit river are a thing of the past. Large profits, they maintain, are being taken in the liquor smuggling traffic, but the business has progressed and been systematized until only those who control the traffic and crack the whip over the rum running fleets reap the golden harvest.

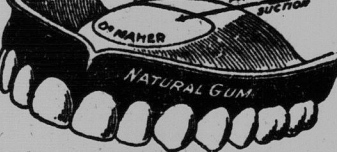

The free and easy ways of the days shortly after prohibition became effective, say the runners, are gone. System has come in, until now it is impossible to keep up a free lance runner to obtain supplies on the Canadian side unless he buys them from what amounts virtually to a closed syndicate, according to these operatives.

The runners cite instances. They say that Canadian beer, when bought from the syndicate, costs 40 cents a bottle and costs to 85 a case, although its actual brewery price is much lower. The runner gets 60 cents a case for transporting it across the river and it is laid down in River Rouge, Wyandotte or Ecorse or some other place for $5.50. If it is delivered to the retailer he can truck it to his place of business and sell it for 90 cents a bottle and make a comfortable profit.

But, the runners say, it often goes through the hands of an American middleman, and reaches the retailer at a cost of about 38 cents a bottle. He has to keep up his overhead expenses and run his risk and still sell it at 50 cents a bottle.

The same situation obtains in whiskey smuggling, these runners say. They declare it is virtually impossible to get whiskey to smuggle on their own account.

BOY OF 9 SAVES ANOTHER FROM A 40-FOOT FALL

Acts Promptly When He Hears Loud Cry to Mother for Aid

London, June 21.—(By Mail.)—The prompt action of Charles Blackledge, aged about 9, son of a police constable, hearing cries of "Mother, I am falling," saved a nine-year-old boy, George Taylor, from a 40-foot fall on to a stone courtyard.

While playing on the roof of the police building, New Street, Birmingham, E. C. Taylor tried to climb over the gate at the head of the steps leading to a lower roof and slipped and fell. As he was falling over the slanting roof he caught hold of a gutter-spout and clung to it, suspended over the court.

Blackledge, a member of the local "Wolf Cub" section of the Boy Scouts, rushed to the rescue.

ed up to the roof, slid down the stairs, and, with one hand clutching the iron rails of the staircase, reached out with the other hand and caught hold of one of Taylor's wrists.

For five minutes Blackledge hung on to Taylor's wrist. Police Sergeants Humphries and Boyles heard the boys shouting and rushed to their rescue, where a mattress and bedding were slung on the ground below where Taylor was hanging.

The two police officers clutched Taylor by the shoulders and dragged him out of danger.

HUNGARIAN CROWD CELLARS WITH WINES WITHOUT MARKET

Budapest, June 14.—(By Mail.)—There is promise of a bumper wine crop in Hungary, as a result of satisfactory weather conditions. But frontiers on the Czechoslovakian and Serbian sides, and the low purchasing power of the Austrians crown make it highly improbable that much Hungarian wine, including the costly Tokay, will find its way to the market.

FEAR OF FRENCH MAY HALT WORK ON U. S. ZEPPELIN

German Believes Pretext Will be Found to Hold up Aircraft

Constantine, Germany, June 9.—(By Mail.)—Unrest exists all around Lake Constantine lest the French extend their occupation in Germany east to Lake Constantine, and interfere with the Zepplin which is under construction here for the United States government.

Little has been said about the machine which is to attempt flight to America. It is taking form in the great sheds of the Zepplin company, at Friedrichshafen, and no definite predictions have been made by the builders as to when it will be ready.

Sun Maid Bread

Standing orders for the Saturday loaf of Robinson's Sun Maid Bread pay the loaf of more Raisins more compliant than anything else. For that means it has become the regular Sunday treat, just like a cake.

Only Robinson's Sun Maid Bread costs far less than cake and does even better, for it keeps longer. That's because of the recipe and the redoubled measure of Raisins. Half as many Raisins as Flour in very loaf.

Robinson's Sun Maid Bread

highly esteemed by connoisseurs, will even find its way out of the well-stocked cellars of Budapest.

The Hungarian wine industry is practically ruined by the new political conditions. Czechoslovakia and Serbia will not admit Hungarian wines, because they are wine-producing countries themselves. Austria cannot buy them, because she is too poor, although she was formerly Hungary's chief customer.

Hungarian wine producers have been having a huge surplus on their hands for four years, and they see no way open to them except to crowd their cellars. But even that is impossible, as the cellars are already crowded.
