The primary object of the Baptist the education of young people in the distinct principles of the Baptist denomination as found in the word of God, which is the only true guide to God and heaven; that we may in love purity and fidelity obey from the heart that form of doctrine which was de livered us. Indeed the B. Y. P. U. might take for its motto the words of Solomon, viz.: Get wisdom, get under-standing, forget it not. Forsake it not and she shall preserve thee; love her and whe shall keep thee. Wisdom is the principal thing, therefore get wis dom; and with all thy getting get understanding. The Baptist Young People's Union, being purely Baptist, is founded on a basis which enables the members to carefully consider and study every truth which the Bible contains. Just here this organization differs from the Society of Christian Endeavor, which has undoubtedly been the means of much good, but, being non-sectarian excludes the right to bring into its meetings for teaching and study the truths which every truth-loving Baptist holds so dear.

We, as accountable beings to God, eed to be rooted downward and established in the truth, that we may bear fruit upward to the glory of God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. Steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord. Using with power the swerd of the Spirit, which is the word of God. How this study unfolds the mind, enobles the heart and life, casts out the unloving resentful thoughts, substituting love out of a pure heart, enabling us obey the new commandment given by our Master. This, said he, is my con mandment, that ye love one another as I have loved you. Do we ever see student of the Bible on the retr grade? No. As he studies, not simply but studies the one real Godbook he is led to make its pure and holy principles the ground-work and guide of his life. Then do we see him increasing in the knowledge and like ness of his Creator-a preparation for that time when he shall be like God, for he shall see Him as He is. may sometime stumble and fall, but he shall rise again, for the principles of truth and uprightness are there.

The second object of the Baptist Young People's Union of America, as a natural outgrowth of the first, is by a united effort to spread abroad these truths found in, and upheld by, the Scattere they burn very feebly, and perhaps eventually they go out in darkness ere they are half consumed. But carefully draw the dving embers together, and soon we have a clear and beautiful flame—a flame that throws out light and warmth to all in the roomflame that would even rival the one described by Charles Dickens and pierce far out into the darkness of the night. So, dear young Christians, have we not felt the influence of the Christian lives that sometimes touch our Have not our hearts burned within us as we have listened to and talked with our brothers and sisters in Christ by the way? And this today is what the Baptist Young People's Union is trying to do. Draw the young people together in a united effort to educate them and prepare them to spread the light and warmth and love of Christ-likeness over the land.

How Can the Young People Best Help the Pastor?

We have gathered here tonight as young brothers and sisters in the cause of Christ, and as the young in the home must first know their duty to their parent before they can perform it, so we, the young people of the church, must first know the way in which we can aid most before we can, in reality, be a help to our pastor, and not only to him but to the whole church, and even to our heavenly Father. As a pastor is placed over the church to help and guide it nearer the great Pastor of all, is it not our place, as members of the same body, the church, to do all we possibly can to elp him in his work?

Some of us may think that because we are the young people it is not our place to try to do much in this way. We think it all devolves upon the oldmembers, and so we get in the way of either leaving it all for them, or waiting until they have done the greater, part. Now it seems to me this should not be so, especially in the prayer meetings. It is our place as much as it is that of those who have been longer on the Christian journey to seize the first opportunity we may receive for telling about our loving Saviour who is their Saviour too. If we each did this, and did it promptly, struction of Fort Dufferin and Red I am sure there is no pastor but would be helped by seeing the younger mem- British consul.) MOTHERS OF BOYS.
