LIFE'S COMPANION.

When I set sail on Life's young voyage,
'Twas upon a stormy sea;
But to cheer me night and day,
Through the perils of the way,
With me went companions three—
Three companions kind and faithful,
Dearer far than friend or bride;
Heedless of the stormy weather,
Hand to hand they came together,
Ever smiling at my side.

One was Health, my lusty comrade,
Cherry-cheek'd and stout of limb;
Though my board was scant with cheer,
And my drink but water clear,
I was thankful bless'd with him.
One was mild-eyed Peace of spirit,
Who, though storms the welkin swept,
Walking gave me calm reliance,
And though tempest show'd defiance,
Smooth'd my pillow when I slept.

One was Hope, my dearest comrade,
Never absent from my breast,
Brightest in the darkest days,
Kindest in the roughest ways,
Dearer far than all the rest.
And though Wealth, nor Fame, nor Station,
Journey'd with me o'er the sea,
Stout of heart all danger scorning,
Nought cared I in Life's young morning,
For their lordly company.

But, alas! ere night is darkened,
I have lost companions twain;
And the third, with tearful eyes,
Worn and wasted, often flies,
But as oft returns again.
And instead of those departed;
Spectres twin around me flit:
Pointing each with shadowy fingers,
Nightly at my cough they winter!
Daily at my board they sit.

Oh, that I so blindly follow'd
In the hot pursuit of wealth!
Though I've gained the prize of gold,
Eyes are dim, and blood is cold—
I have lost my comrade, Health.
Care instead, the withered beldame,
Steals th' enjoyment from my cup;
Hugs me that I cannot quit her;
Makes my choicest morsels bitter;
Seals the founts of pleasure up.

Woe is me that Fame allured me—
She so false, and I so blind!
Sweet her smiles, but in the chase
I have lost the happy face
Of my comrades peace of mind;
And instead, Remorse, pale phantom
Tracks my feet where'er I go;
All the day I see her scowling,
In my sleep I hear her howling,
Wildly flitting to and fro.

Last of all my dear companions,
Hope, sweet Hope, befriend me yet,
Do not from my side depart,
Do not leave my lonely heart,
All to darkness and regret.
Short and sad is now my voyage
O'er this gloom encompassed sea,
But not cheerless altogether,
Whatso'er the wind and weather,
Will it seem if blessed with thee.

Dim thine eyes are, turning earthwards,
Shadowy pale and thin thy form:—
Turn'd to Heaven thine eyes grow bright,
All thy form expands in light,
Soft and beautiful and warm, [ward!
Look them upwards! lead me then heaven
Guide me o'er this darkening sea!
Pale Remorse shall fade before me
And the gloom shall brighten o'er me,
If I have a friend in Thee.

NORBURY, the greatest tyrant judge of the age, was remarkable, after passing the sentence of death on a criminal, to offer up a very impressive prayer for the repose of his soul. On one occasion, in Dublin, after passing the sentence on a blacksmith named Sullivan, he was going on with the usual prayer, when Sullivan looked him sternly in the face and said;—'My lord, I thank you; but I never knew a man to have a day's luck after you prayed for him.' Norbury, who was not only fond of wit, but highly appreciated it, recommended Sullivan to mercy, and the penality was changed to transportation.

There is great distress among the alphabet, if we may judge from the following advertisement which lately appeared in the Times;—"C. and I. are very unhappy. B. D. is most anxiously requested to write to them as soon as possible."

EXTENSIVE MILL PROPERTY
To be sold by Private Bargain.

ALL that large and extensive MILL PROPERTY, situated about a mile and a half from the mouth of the Nashwaak, nearly opposite Fredericton and consisting of one MILL, containing six saws in single Gates; with a GRIST MILL, in good order, driving two pair of stones.

The Saw Mills are capable of containing as many Gangs as there are now single Saws, which could be substituted at little cost; they are in perfect order, and some of the Gangs could be driven throughout the entire year, as there are always several of the Saws kept going during the entire Winter; and the Grist Mill has the same advantage. The Draw is perfect and complete order, having been completed at very great expence, and runs entirely across the river Nashwaak, thus securing the whole waters of the river for the driving of the Mills.

Connected with the Mills there is a fine large Store, well adapted for the business of the country, also a Blacksmith's Shop, and a good Cottage and Garden attached, well suited for the manager of the Mills besides a number of Houses suitable for the Workmen at the Mills.

There is also a tract of Land on the Eastern side of the river, containing 500 acres, and about 200 acres on the western side, the latter embracing the Holybrooke Farm, and the whole highly capable of cultivation, and precluding any interference by other establishments on the river. These valuable Properties will be sold along with the Mills, and reasonable accommodation will be given to the purchaser. There can scarcely be found within this Province such a valuable Water privilege, and it is therefore well deserving the attention of any party wishing to embark in Lumber trade; the whole can be seen at any time, and full particulars given on application to W. J. Bedell and Co. Fredericton, Charles Perley, Esquires, Woodstock, or to the subscribers at St. John.

PRINCIPALLY DESIGNED FOR USE IN COLONIAL SCHOOLS.
COMPILED BY
James Paterson, L. L. D.

AS an elementary work very great care has been taken to avoid two very common evils—that of extreme brevity on the one hand, and of too great prolixity on the other. As a Class Book for British Colonial Schools it is certainly unequalled, being the only one ever got up expressly for their use. It is printed on good paper, from a clear and distinct type, and substantially bound, for the astonishing low price of Five Shillings.

TRIUMPHANT SUCCESS OF
Buchan's Hungarian Balsam of Life,
THE GREAT ENGLISH REMEDY FOR
Colds, Coughs, Asthma, and Consumption.

THE most celebrated and infallible remedy for Colds, Coughs, Asthma, and every form of Pulmonary Consumption, is the HUNGARIAN BALSAM OF LIFE, discovered by that eminent medical chemist, Dr. Buchan, of London, England, and extensively known as the 'Great English Remedy.'
It has been tested for upwards of seven years in Great Britain and on the continent of Europe, where it is universally considered the great and only remedy for this awful malady, and is now introduced to the public under the immediate superintendence of the inventor. Within three years it has been distributed from Maine to Florida, and from Canada to Wisconsin, and its effects are every where alike ASTONISHING AND TRIUMPHANT.
As a preventive medicine, and an antidote to the consumptive tendencies of the climate, it is invaluable. As a remedy for severe and obstinate coughs, Inflammation of the Lungs, Croup, &c. it is unrivaled. But the Proprietor is so confident of the merit of this great remedy, in the worst forms of consumption, that he prefers to have it used by the DYING INVALID, rather than by personsafflicted with some simple and less dangerous disorder of the throat and lungs:—this may seem strong language, but it is the result of experience in thousands of cases, sustained by the most intelligent and unimpeachable testimony. It is not pronounced an infallible remedy in all cases, but it is THE MOST INFALLIBLE remedy known to the civilized world. It is the best preventive of hereditary consumption—it is the best defender against the influences of climate—it is the best remedy for incipient consumption—and it is the great and only remedy for that fearful softening of the lungs—inflammation of the membrane, and tuberculous decay, which are the last effects of that dreadful scourge, and which are erroneously supposed to be beyond the reach of medical aid:—the agents or proprietors of other medicines dare not claim for their preparations a power like this: they know that in no case have such effects been produced:—the grand object and purpose of the common 'remedies' is simply to give relief—not to cure: this is easily done by an intelligent Physician or Druggist; but while dallying with these delusive compounds, the patient rapidly declines, and every day places him farther and farther beyond the reach of hope.
Such is not the case with the Hungarian Balsam: it is always salutary in its effects—never injurious. It is not an opiate—it is not a tonic—it is not a mere expectorant. It is not intended to lull the invalid into a fatal security. It is a great remedy—a grand healing and curative compound; the great and only remedy which medical science and skill has yet produced for the treatment of this hitherto unconquerable malady. It is in fact the best remedy in the world!

[From the John Bull, newspaper, London.]

There is certainly some mysterious and occult virtue in the famous "Hungarian Balsam of Life," which the medical faculty are unable to discover, or Dr. Buchan would not be permitted for so many years to enjoy the magnificent monopoly of the treatment and cure of Consumption in Great Britain. No satisfactory analysis of this famous compound has ever, to our knowledge, been offered to the public.
