

9TH BATTERY HELD SPORTS YESTERDAY

Partridge Island Scene of Athletic Meet—Forestry Unit to Open Office at Fredericton.

HONOR ROLL.

Charles H. Cooper, Ontario Machine Gun Draft.

The Machine Gun Draft was the only local unit to sign on a recruit yesterday.

To Hold Inquiry. An investigation will be commenced in the city today regarding the charge that the 57th Battalion was stoned by residents of the province of Quebec.

Sports on Island. The boys of No. 9 Siege Battery and the Composite Battery united in a grand field day celebration yesterday.

The officers' relay race furnished considerable interest. The teams competing were the 57th Battalion, Composite Battery and the regimental staff.

Will Leave for Capital. Lieut. C. D. Smith of the Forestry unit, who has been in the city in the interest of the unit for the past month, will leave this morning for Fredericton to open a recruiting office.

Pte. R. John Grant Killed. Pte. Russell John Grant has been officially reported killed in action on April 9, according to official information received by his wife at her home, 209 Brussels street, yesterday morning.

W. L. Craft Wounded. William Craft of 73 Harrison street received a telegram yesterday notifying him that his son, Pte. William Livingston Craft, was reported wounded on April 26. No particulars were given.

Gunner Machum's Wound. Mrs. Alice Machum of this city received word yesterday to the effect that her son, Gunner J. Ralph Machum, a member of a local siege battery, had been slightly wounded in the left leg by gunshot, and had been ad-

FRESH FRAGRANT FLAVORFUL

You'll Like the Flavor

HON. JAMES A. MURRAY PUTS CAREER-FOSTER GOVT. ENTIRELY ON THE DEFENSIVE

(Continued from page 1) The Official Report. Fredericton, May 11.—The House met at 3 o'clock today. Hon. Mr. Foster presented the report of the nominating committee. Mr. Burchill asked to be relieved from the committee on law practice and procedure and the report was amended accordingly.

Hon. Mr. Murray (Kings) presented a petition from the mayor and aldermen of the town of Sussex in favor of a bill to amend the Towns Incorporation Act in so far as it related to the town of Sussex.

Hon. Mr. Fenlon presented the petition of the town of Bathurst in favor of a bill to authorize the alteration of certain roads of the town and also to permit of the issue of Sussex in favor of the town of Sussex.

Hon. Mr. Murray (Northumberland) introduced a bill to amend Cap. 51, C. S., 1903, respecting the education of the blind.

Hon. Mr. Smith (Westmorland) laid on the table the fifty-sixth annual report of the Crown Land Department.

Hon. Mr. Tweeddale laid on the table the annual report of the Department of Agriculture.

Truro Girls' Home. Hon. Mr. Byrne introduced a bill to amend the Children's Protection Act, to increase the grant to the Maritime Home for Girls at Truro.

Hon. Mr. Murray (Northumberland) brought down the annual report of the auditor general on public accounts, also the annual report on schools.

Hon. J. A. Murray. Hon. Mr. Murray (Kings) continued the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne in the legislature today. He reminded the hon. gentlemen that it was the first time since he had been a member of the house that he had been called upon to speak from that side while and the occasion called to mind some remarks made by his hon. friend from the city of Moncton who spoke under somewhat similar circumstances from the seat which he (Murray) then occupied in 1908 on which occasion he declared himself somewhat embarrassed at finding himself speaking from the strange part of the house. Since they last met in that chamber the personnel of the legislature had materially changed, not only as the result of the recent election but also he regretted to say by the removal from these earthly scenes of some of the most valued members of the house.

That his son, Sergt. Frederick McHarg, had been admitted to Brock War Hospital in Woolwich, England, on May 3, suffering from concussion in the back, was the message contained in a telegram received by George McHarg of 94 Portland street yesterday morning. This is the second time that Sergt. McHarg was wounded.

Harold J. Gaynes. Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Gaynes of 6 Frederic street have given three sons to the colors, two have been killed and the third is still fighting in France. Yesterday official word came to the family that their second son, Pte. Harold Joseph Gaynes, eighteen years of age, had died of wounds at No. 5 Field Ambulance on May 1. Pte. Gaynes was a bright young man and readily made friends. His brother, Pte. William, was officially reported killed in action last September.

Clarke, by whose death he (Murray) and a very large number of the members of the house had lost a close and valued personal friend, the province had lost one of its best citizens and the government one of its most efficient members. The late Hon. Mr. Clarke was a man of outstanding industry and high ideals and he tried to conduct public affairs honestly, fairly and impartially and he desired to pay tribute to his memory. Since the election took place death had removed another valued member of the house in the person of Mr. G. L. White of Carleton, with whom he (Murray) had had twenty-five years personal friendship and acquaintance. Mr. White, too, was a gentleman of high ideals and the utmost integrity and gave the best that was in him to the public interests which he was called upon to serve.

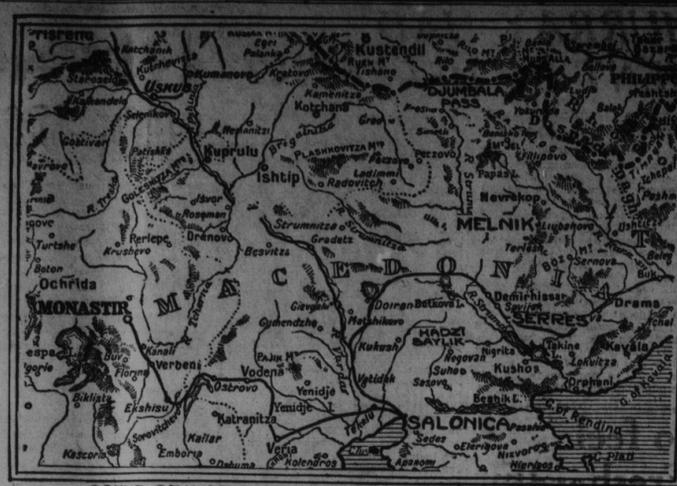

While expressing his regret at the loss of their friends by death and also as a consequence of the late election he was very pleased to welcome back again many old faces who had previously been seen in the house. This expression of pleasure was not confined to his own side of the house but applied equally to both.

During the year he had been a member of the house he had been the recipient of many expressions of good will from those who politically disagreed with him as well as those who sat in his company, and speaking for himself and his own party he could say that they extended the hand of good fellowship gladly to those who differed with them politically and expressed the hope that all would work together to promote the best interests of the province and people. Although he was aware that many old friends were back in the house again it was somewhat difficult to locate some of them. Two of them in particular who prior to the election of 1908 had occupied the front seat and took prominent parts in the debates of the house were now missing from their accustomed places and were ultimately to be found located on back stools.

He referred to his friends Messrs. Sweeney and Leger. However, he was glad to see them back in the house even if they were relegated to back seats. He desired also to congratulate Mr. Speaker upon his elevation to the honorable position which he then occupied and he congratulated him more particularly upon the successful outcome of his struggles to obtain it. It had been generally expected that the position would be occupied by Mr. Burchill, an old and valued member of the house who had previous experience as Speaker. At the same time he (Murray) and his party felt that they would be dealt with as they deserved. He desired also to congratulate the mover and seconder of the address who performed their respective tasks with great credit to themselves. To the premier also he wished to add his congratulations on attaining the position which he now occupied. He desired to say that he made his first attempt to enter the legislature and though unsuccessful he did not despair. He tried again in 1907 with no better results but friends (Continued on page 3)

Loss of Appetite. Most Successfully Treated by Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. Loss of appetite is accompanied by loss of vitality, which is serious. It is common in the spring because at this time the blood is impure and impoverished and fails to give the digestive organs what is absolutely necessary for the proper performance of their functions. Hood's Sarsaparilla, the old reliable all-the-year-round medicine, is especially useful in the spring. Get it from your druggist or by purifying and enriching the blood and giving vitality, vigor and tone, it is wonderfully successful in the treatment of all ailments prevalent at this time. It is not simply a spring medicine—it is much more than that—but it is the best spring medicine that exists. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the rich, red blood the digestive organs need.

Opposition Inquiries in Local House. At named points, or I.O.S. at point of purchase. From what firms were quotations asked for seeds purchased in the province? To whom were seeds sold, where delivered, and at what prices? If not for cash, on what terms were they sold? Notice of Inquiry No. 2. For Tuesday, May 15th, 1917. By Mr. Young: 1. Did Mr. Walter E. Foster, of the City of Saint John, issue instructions to Acting Secretary Hughes, of the Public Works Department, on or before the third day of April last, to dismiss Mr. A. C. Fleming, Supt. of Carpenters and Overseer of Public Buildings and Government Plant if so, what constitutional right had the

SCENE OF WAR OPERATIONS IN MACEDONIA

THE SERBIANS WIN. Saloniki, via London, May 11.—Advices from the neighborhood of Dobropolya, on the Macedonian front, have been captured by the Serbians. A Serbian official statement issued today, reporting this success reads: "In several localities our infantry carried off our successful surprise at-front, have been captured by the Serbians. A Serbian official statement issued today, reporting this success reads: "In several localities our infantry carried off our successful surprise at-

Had Violent Coughing Fits

Looked Like Consumptive

Mrs. Mary Whetton, North Forks, N. S., writes: "Having taken five bottles of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, during the past few weeks, to relieve a chronic cough and general throat trouble, allow me to express my unbounded satisfaction and thanks as to its sterling qualities. A short time ago I became subject to violent coughing fits at night and directly after rising in the morning. I began losing weight, and all my friends cheerfully informed me that I was going into consumption. After taking the 'Dr. Wood's' I am pleased to relate that the cough has entirely disappeared and I have since regained the lost weight. I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. There are many imitations of 'Dr. Wood's' on the market so see that none of these so-called 'pine syrups' are handed out to you when you ask for 'Dr. Wood's'. It has been on the market for twenty-five years, is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, price 25c. and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

DEAR PEOPLE DEAFNESS AND NOISES IN THE HEAD can now be most certainly cured by the newly discovered "French Orleans." This new remedy goes right to the actual seat of the trouble and effects a complete and lasting cure in a few days. One box is ample to cure any ordinary case, and has given almost immediate relief in hundreds of cases which had been considered "hopeless." Mr. D. Borthwick of Dalbeattie, N. B., writes: "Your new remedy, which I received from you some time ago, HAS COMPLETELY CURED MY HEARING, AFTER MORE THAN TWENTY YEARS' DEAFNESS. I will be pleased to recommend it to all my friends." Scores of other equally good reports. Try one box today, which can be forwarded securely packed and post paid to any address upon the receipt of postal or money order for $1. There is nothing better at any price. Address: "ORLEANS" CO., H. T. RICHARDS, Walling Street, Dartford, Kent, Eng. Please mention this paper.

Notice of Inquiry No. 5. For Tuesday, May 15th, 1917. By Mr. Gupill: 1. Is the government aware that the White Head Sea Wall protection on the Island of Grand Manan is in a very critical condition? 2. Is it the intention of the government to proceed with this work as arranged by the former government? 3. When will this much needed work be done? Notice of Inquiry, No. 6. For Tuesday, May 15, 1917. By Mr. Pettit: 1. Does the Government intend to enforce the Act for the suppression of the liquor traffic as passed at the last session of the House in the manner announced by the Hon. Mr. Foster in the public press immediately prior to the general election on the 24th of February last? Notice of Inquiry, No. 7. For Tuesday, May 15, 1917. By Mr. Dickson: 1. Did Mr. Walter E. Foster, of the City of Saint John, on the 30th day of March last, or at any time previous to the 4th day of April last, instruct Mr. A. R. Wetmore, Chief Engineer of the Public Works Department, to write William J. R. Carlen, of the City of Saint John, notifying him that the contract for the building of the Perry Point Bridge, in the County of Kings, was cancelled? 2. Was Mr. Walter E. Foster sworn in as a member of the Executive Council of the Province on said 30th March last, or at a date prior to 4th of April last? If not, what authority did he have to issue such instructions? 3. Is the said Walter E. Foster the same person who contested the County of Saint John on February the 24th and was not elected by the people?

Notice of Inquiry No. 5. For Tuesday, May 15th, 1917. By Mr. Gupill: 1. Is the government aware that the White Head Sea Wall protection on the Island of Grand Manan is in a very critical condition? 2. Is it the intention of the government to proceed with this work as arranged by the former government? 3. When will this much needed work be done? Notice of Inquiry, No. 6. For Tuesday, May 15, 1917. By Mr. Pettit: 1. Does the Government intend to enforce the Act for the suppression of the liquor traffic as passed at the last session of the House in the manner announced by the Hon. Mr. Foster in the public press immediately prior to the general election on the 24th of February last? Notice of Inquiry, No. 7. For Tuesday, May 15, 1917. By Mr. Dickson: 1. Did Mr. Walter E. Foster, of the City of Saint John, on the 30th day of March last, or at any time previous to the 4th day of April last, instruct Mr. A. R. Wetmore, Chief Engineer of the Public Works Department, to write William J. R. Carlen, of the City of Saint John, notifying him that the contract for the building of the Perry Point Bridge, in the County of Kings, was cancelled? 2. Was Mr. Walter E. Foster sworn in as a member of the Executive Council of the Province on said 30th March last, or at a date prior to 4th of April last? If not, what authority did he have to issue such instructions? 3. Is the said Walter E. Foster the same person who contested the County of Saint John on February the 24th and was not elected by the people?

Notice of Inquiry No. 5. For Tuesday, May 15th, 1917. By Mr. Gupill: 1. Is the government aware that the White Head Sea Wall protection on the Island of Grand Manan is in a very critical condition? 2. Is it the intention of the government to proceed with this work as arranged by the former government? 3. When will this much needed work be done? Notice of Inquiry, No. 6. For Tuesday, May 15, 1917. By Mr. Pettit: 1. Does the Government intend to enforce the Act for the suppression of the liquor traffic as passed at the last session of the House in the manner announced by the Hon. Mr. Foster in the public press immediately prior to the general election on the 24th of February last? Notice of Inquiry, No. 7. For Tuesday, May 15, 1917. By Mr. Dickson: 1. Did Mr. Walter E. Foster, of the City of Saint John, on the 30th day of March last, or at any time previous to the 4th day of April last, instruct Mr. A. R. Wetmore, Chief Engineer of the Public Works Department, to write William J. R. Carlen, of the City of Saint John, notifying him that the contract for the building of the Perry Point Bridge, in the County of Kings, was cancelled? 2. Was Mr. Walter E. Foster sworn in as a member of the Executive Council of the Province on said 30th March last, or at a date prior to 4th of April last? If not, what authority did he have to issue such instructions? 3. Is the said Walter E. Foster the same person who contested the County of Saint John on February the 24th and was not elected by the people?

Will Hold Them to

Prior to the election of 1914, the then opposition had been going up and down the province using all methods creditable and others in an effort to get hold of the power and today at a result of honor and privilege of government, but they also made many promises as to what they would do when they got into power. Promises must now be kept. People throughout the province look anxiously at the speaker's honor, the honor of the province, some indication of what the government's programme was in its constructive legislation and assurance that all classes of people do what they can for the province and no sign of any such thing. Previous speakers who filled the duty which he was filling had frequently made a mark that the speech was interesting and more remarkable than what it omitted than for what it contained, but never in the history of the province had a speaker which was so barren in matter, public interest and relating to the advancement of the province as the speaker yesterday. True, there is in some things with which we would agree as for example the reference to His Royal Highness of Connaught who a few months retired from the position of general of the dominion after that office with the greatest dignity. It was with extreme regret that everyone learned that after his return to England he had lost his wife. The honorable gentleman from New Brunswick who had moved the address yesterday had informed us that he had not much use for royal burials and that a governor-general had performed the duties of his office in a way that one could successfully criticize. The speaker showed the truth of the mark that "blood will tell." The monarchial system of which the Duke of Devonshire was the greatest test the world had ever seen was still standing, it was representative of that system which had brought the province into the world with the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His Majesty, person of the Duke of Devonshire, who had been his personal friend to meet the Duke personally and found him to be a man of high and with a wide knowledge of the country and he took great interest in learning conditions in all provinces. The Great War. Another reference to the count was to the effect that the count standing in the shadow of a great Duke of Devonshire was the greatest of duties with the greatest of honor had been followed by another representative of His