hood and Youth.

This favorite sport of childhood and youth is of French origin and very high antiquity, having been introduced into England in the train of the Norman Maillard," was that of a brave war-rior, the memory of whose exploits still lives in the chronicles of the middle ages. In the year 999 Liege reckoned among its valiant chiefs one Jean Colin. He acquired the name of Maillard from his chosen weapon being a mailet, wherewith in fight he used to crush his opponents. In one of the feuds which were of perpetual recurrence in those times he encountered the Count de Lourain in a pitched battle, and, so runs the story, in the first onset Colin Maillard lost both his eyes. He ordered his esquire to take him into the thickest of the fight, and, furiously brandishing his mallet, did such fearful execution that victory soon declared itself for him.

When Robert of France heard of these feats at arms he lavished favor and honors upon Colin, and so great was the fame of the exploit that it was commemorated in the pantominic representations that formed part of the rude dramatic performances of the age. By degrees the children learned to act it for themselves, and it took the form of a familiar sport.

The blindfolded pursuer as, with bandaged eyes and extended hands, he gropes for a victim to pounce upon seems in some degree to repeat the action of Colin Maillard, the tradition of which is also traceable in the name, is a delight to the eye, and a joy to the palate. BOTTLED AT THE SPRINGS

GAELS WANT FREEDOM

SCOTS IN LONDON HEAR HAR-ANGUE AGAINST GOVERNMENT.

Country Sick of the Union and Would Throw Off the Brutal English Yoke -Fiery Orator Says Gaels Are In Danger of Being Crushed-Scotland Wants a Nation's Freedom-Anglicized Scotsmen No Use to Gaels.

The Gaels in London met recently in solemn conclave to discuss the fu-ture of "Gaeldom," which is Gaelic ture of "Gaeldom," which is Gaello for Scotland.

There were two score of them, of whom nearly half were "bonnie lassies," and they gathered in the fine old Scots Corporation Hall in Crane court, Fleet street, where, beneath the massive royal arms, such phrases were hurled about as "feudal system of the Sassenach," and "hideous fabric of a foreign power."

Mr. Gillies, a Gael who has crossed the Tweed, read a paper in English on the Gaelic movement, in which, with a gravity worthy of Bernard Shaw, he scarified his brother "Anglicized Scots," bitterly lamented the "denationalization" of the modern Highlander, and made a fierce appead for the revival of the Gaelic language, the re-Gaelicization of Scotland and the throwing off of the brutal linglish yoke.

the re-Gaelicization of Scotland and the throwing off of the brutal Raglish yoke.

He referred with dreadful scorn to a newspaper which had ventured to make fun of the Gaelic movement. But he was just as scornful of the Scottish newspapers—for rather, the English papers published in Scotland," as he called them.

He lashed those "Anglicized Scotsmen" who, he said, take only a sentimental interest in the Gaelic movement, and give it "spasmodic and unreliable" aid. He declared that the people in Scotland who do not speak Gaelic are only fit to be called "North Britons," and are "on a par with the Chinese soldiers at Weihaiwei, who used mongrel pidgin English."

The English Government, composed of Anglicized Scotsmen, were no use to the Gaels, and would crush the Gaels out, imprison or deport them, if they thought they were in earnest. The Gaelic language is, he added, the "secret power" by which Gaeldom would forge the weapons which would "break into as many fragments as a potter's vessel the hideous fabric of a foreign power."

"Scotsmen are sick of the union and wish to be free," he cried, and he looked forward to the time when they would achieve the national independence for which Bruce fought and Wallace died.

WIARTON RIOTING CASE

Mrs. Thomas on Trial at Assizes For Manslaughter.

Three of the Raiders Put Back For Sentence—Woman Says She Fired Revolver to Frighten Only - Did Not Intend to Shoot Gilbert - Attacked by Crowd of Thirty-Some Were Masked.

Walkerton, Sept. 18.—The evidence in the Wiarton rioting case came to a close yesterday afternoon. Robert Lancaster was discharged, the other three withdrew their plea of not guilty. They were remanded for sentence till to-day. Detective Reburn worked up the evidence and had the case in good shape. They were defended by H. G. Tucker of Owen Sound.

Agnes Thomas was then put on trial for manslaughter, charged with shooting Philip Gilbert at Wiarton on Aug. 20. Walter McGibbon, one of the parties in the riot who turned King's evidence, gave testimony covering the facts already known to the public,

James Miller, Robert Lancaster, Dr.

James Miller, Robert Lancaster, Dr. Fisher, Constable Hull and Sadie Lamont, again covered the ground, but developed nothing new.

Mrs. Thomas In Box.

Hon. A. G. Mackay, who defended the prisoner, put his client in the box on her own behalf. Her testimony was interesting and clearly presented. She said: "I got warning that the tent was to be raided. It was fitted up as a dwelling and contained four rooms.

"I bought a revolver for protection, containing five chambers. When the crowd came, Mrs. Lamont went out to the road and I took the revolver from under the pillow. I bought the revolver at 5 o'clock that evening and fixed two chots to tast it. fired two shots to test it. When the crowd came it had three loaded shells and two empty. I put it in my stocking and went out towards the crowd. There were about 25 or 30 of them. I counted about five with blackened faces. Others had their caps pulled down.

down.

Tearing Tent to Pieces.

"Ten or twelve rushed past me, and also past Mrs. Larhont. From that time on I never saw Mr. Gilbert. It was fairly dark where the tent was. When I got back there the tent was down and they were tearing it to pieces. I said "stop." They did not stop, and I took the revolver out of my stocking and fired three shots in the air. I did not shoot at any one, and had no intention of shooting any one.

and had no intention of shooting any one.

Mr. Mackay tangled Witnesses.

Mr. Mackay tangled up the crown witnesses so that they could not tell northeast from southwest. Milton McGibbon testified that Mrs. Thomas fired four shots, and that it was the first shot killed Gilbert. She fired directly at him, he said, and that the fourth shot went into the ground beside himself. He was one of the raiders who went there at the instance of Gilbert to destroy the tent. James Miller, another of the raiders, said that it was the last shot that killed Gilbert. Mrs. Thomas fired within ten feet of him and her arm was pointed in his direction. After the last shot he partly straightened up and fell backwards.

The judge's address will be delivered this morning and a verdict may be expected to-day.

THE MODUS VIVENDI.

Comment on Premier Bond's Expression of Disgust.

London, Sept. 18.—(C. A. P.)—The Birmingham Daily Post says: "If Bond had not described the modus vivendi as a 'disgrace to British diplomacy' we should not think it worth while to revert to the subject. It is obviously his purpose to cause as much ill-feeling as he can both locally and imperially."

Third Trial For Murder. Hopewell Cape, N. B., Sept. 18.-

Hopewell Cape, N. B., Sept. 18.—
The third trial of Thomas Collins, charged with the murder of Miss MacAulay, cousin of Father MacAulay of New Ireland, N. B., over a year sago, was begun yesterday before Judge Hanington.

A full jury was completed last night after 100 out of 106 talesmen had been examined.

The first jury found Collins guilty, but the Supreme Court decided Judge Gregory's charge was unfair, and a new trial was granted. The second jury disagreed.

Drowned at Walkerville. Drowned at Walkerville.
Windsor, Sept. 18.—Darius Menard, a sailor on the Merchapts' Montreal line steamer City of Ottawa, was drowned off that boat at Walkerville on Monday. Menard was climbing out of a window to reach some staging, when he missed his footing and tell. His home is supposed to be in Montreal. The body was recovered by Fire Chief Drury.

Killed by Fly Wheel. Meard, Sept. 18.—J. C. Rows, son of Reeve Rows of St. Vincent Township, was killed yesterday in the Seaman Kent factory. It is supposed that in working the engine he went too near the flywheel, which struck him on the side of the head.

CIRCUS RIDERS.

They Earn Good Salaries, but Their Careers Are Short. A man horseback rider receives from $75 to $125 a week, and his career as a is short not so much because these men get stiff and lose their agility as because they lose their nerve. Nearly all circus folk marry young, and with their added responsibilities comes a lively sense of danger which they ignored in younger days. A man rider who can-not turn a somersault on a horse can-not command more than $50 a week. A woman rider who can perform this feat gets from $150 to $200 a week if teat gets from $150 to $200 a week if she is a finished rider.

This isn't much when all the disadvantages of the calling are taken into consideration, but it should be remembered that all the expenses are paid, including the care, feeding and of course the transportation of their horses. All they have to provide is their expenses are paid, including the care, feeding and of course the transportation of their horses. All they have to provide is clothes do not constitute much of a factor, and the women nearly always make their own, except those provided by the management.

French Rags High Priced. A collector of rags offered the man-ager of a large boarding house a certain price for a bag of wornout linen.

"These rags are worth more than that," said the shrewd landlord. "I run several houses in this neighbor-hood, and all are occupied exclusively by French guests."

The dealer apparently considered that remark sufficiently explanatory.

He cast a hasty glance upon the con-tents of the bag, then raised the prica. "And he could well afford to raise it, too," said the landlord. "Even at that rate he will make money off the things. French rags the world over bring a higher price than any other. The reason why? French people wear a bet-ter quality of linea and their castoff garments are in demand by all manuturers of high grade paper."

The Congregation Smiled.
Two country clergymen had agreed to exchange pulpits on a certain date. One of them made the following solemn announcement to his congregation on the Sabbath previous to the event: "My dear brethren and sisters, I have the pleasure of stating that on next Sunday morning the Rev. Zacharlah B. Day will preach for you. Let us now sing two verses of hymn No. 489, "That. Awful Day Will Surely Come."

And it took him some time to discover why the congregation smiled.

The First Boat.
At first when a man wanted to cros a deep stream he was compelled to swim across. But man at best is a poor swimmer, and it was not long be-fore he invented a better method of traveling on water. A log drifting in a stream furnished the hint. By resting his body upon the log and plashing with his hands and feet he found he could move along faster and easier. Thus the log was the first boat and the human arm was the first oar.—S. E. Forman in St. Nicholas.

To Hang a Skirt.

A good way to have a skirt for one-self is to sew up seams, press nicely, baste tucks or plaits in place, put on baste tucks or plaits in place, put on band, then fold skirt in half and lay on table and take a finished skirt which hangs correctly and lay over same, putting a basting or row of pins around bottom edge to show where to turn up new skirt—an easy and satisfactory way. To put in sleeve correctly fold armhole, having center fold one inch back of shoulder seam, and where the half comes join under seam of sleeve. This always insures a perfect st. A REALISTIC ACT.

Amusing Story of Joseph Jefferson as Rip Van Winkle. While he was playing Rip Van Winkle at Chicago Joseph Jefferson once went to the theater very much exhausted by a long day's fishing on the lake. As the curtain rose on the third act it disclosed the white haired Rip still deep in his twenty years' nap. Five, ten, twenty minutes passed, and he did not awaken. The audience began to get impatient and the prompter uneasy. The great actor doubtless knew what he was about, but this was carrying the realistic business too far. The fact was that all this time Jefferson was really sleeping the sleep of the just, or, rather, of the fisherman who had sat eight hours in the sun. Finally the gallery became uproarious, and one of the "gods" wanted to know if there was going to be "nineteen years more of this snooze business!"

At this point Jefferson began to snore. This decided the prompter, who opened a small trap beneath the stage and began to prod Rip from below. The fagged comedian fumbled in his pocket for an imaginary railway ticket and muttered drowsily, "Going right hrough, 'ductor." dience was transfixed with amazement. dience was transaixed with amazement, when all at once Jefferson sat up with a loud shriek, evidently in agony. The exasperated prompter had jabbed him with a pin. Consciousness of the situation came to him, and the play went on after that with a rush.

Getting an Opening.

A man had a story about a gun which he delivered himself of upon all occasions. At a dinner party one evening he writhed in his chair for over an hour, waiting for a chance to intro duce his story, but no opportunity presented itself. Finally he slipped a coin into the hand of a waiter and whispered:

"When you leave the room again slam the door." The waiter slammed the door as directed, and the man sprang to his feet,

"What's that noise—a gun?"
"Oh, no!" resumed his host. "It was nly the door."

with the exclamation:

"Ah, I see! Well, speaking of guns reminds me of a little story," etc.— Liverpool Mercury. Sun, Moon and Tides.
