

The Poet's Corner

For the Signal. Parody. "Ye Bangs and Brags."
Ye bangs and brags o' bonnie blondes
How can ye look so fresh and fair.

For the Signal. Christmas. The sun has set, the night comes on
The shepherds all keep watch,
The stars peep forth now, one by one,

A little while a bright light
Is shining all around;
Another star has come to sight
Right over the shepherds' ground.

Its light beams down upon the men,
It moves as if to say,
"Come follow me ye favoured ones,
You'll see your Lord to-day."

They rise and follow its commands,
There's joy in every face,
It moves along; lo! now it stands:
This is the favoured place!

The inn is crowded, there's no room,
And Mary is a stranger;
Her time has come, our Lord is born,
And lying in a manger.

Oh! blessed, happy, Christmas morn,
We love to welcome thee,
"For unto us a child is born,
Who made salvation free."

Fun and Fancy.

Rev. Dr. Hall said that every blade of grass was a sermon. The next day he was amusing himself by clipping his lawn, when a parishioner said: "That's right, doctor, cut your sermons short."

The Rev. John Brown, of Haddington, was in the habit of proposing on festive occasions a certain young lady as his toast. Having abandoned the practice, he was asked for a reason.

"Write carefully," says De Quincy. "You can never tell how much good your work may accomplish." No truer words were ever spoken.

"Any good shooting on your farm?" asked the hunter of a farmer. "Splendid," replied the agriculturist.

Charles Fox and his friend Mr. Hare, both much inebriated by duns, were together in a house, when, seeing some shabby men about the door, they were afraid they were bailiffs in search of one of them.

It was in an Ellis Street restaurant, the other night, that a waiter was apologizing to a guest for the dilapidated state of his napkin.

The Railway syndicate Will Control the Country.

Well, I might venture to say that it is a practical surrender of the future government and control of that country to a plutocracy of private individuals, and will soon produce such a feeling of hostility in the minds of all the inhabitants of that country that they will be driven to seek, in some new state of political existence, a remedy for their grievances.

FELLOWS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF

HYPO-PHOSPHITES

FOR THE RELIEF AND CURE OF WASTING DISEASES,

Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, General Debility, Brain Exhaustion, Chronic Constipation, Chronic Diarrhoea, Dyspepsia, or Loss of Nervous Power. It is unequalled in the treatment of Palpitation of the Heart, Trembling of the Hands and Limbs, Loss of Appetite, Energy or Memory.

Endued with vigor, gentleness and subtility, owing to the exquisite harmony of its ingredients, akin to pure blood itself. Its taste is pleasant, and its effects per se most beneficial.

Its most apparent effect is to increase the appetite. It assists digestion, and causes the food to assimilate properly—thus the system is nourished. It also, by its tonic action on the digestive organs, induces more copious and regular evacuations.

The rapidity with which patients take on flesh while under the influence of the Syrup, of itself indicates that no other preparation can be better adapted to help and nourish the constitution, and hence be more efficacious in all depression of spirits, shaking or trembling of the hands or body, cough, shortness of breath, or consumptive habit. The nerves and muscles become strengthened, and the blood purified.

READ WHAT THE INVENTOR, MR. FELLOWS, HAS TO SAY ABOUT HIS SYRUP OF THE HYPOPHOSPHITES.

In the summer of 1864, I was suddenly effected by a copious expectoration of mucopurulent matter. I had been declining in health for some months, and, being exceedingly nervous, the symptoms caused alarm.

During 1864 and 1865 my chest was examined by ten first class physicians, some of whom pronounced the case Bronchitis; some, not wishing to cause alarm, or unwilling to venture an opinion, gave no decision; some stated unequivocally that I had Tubercular Disease of the Lungs, and located the trouble where the pains were felt.

By professional advice, I used, in turn, horse-back exercise, country life, eggs and ale in the morning, tonics, Bourbon whiskey, cod-liver oil, electricity, tar, and various inhalants, but the trouble increased. Expectoration became more profuse and offensive. Night-sweats set in. Cold chills, diarrhoea, dyspepsia, cough, blood-streaked expectorations, loss of sleep, loss of appetite, loss of memory, loss of ambition, accompanied by general prostration, showed themselves.

Under the microscope the blood was found to contain but a small portion of vitalized corpuscles; the heart's action was feeble; the pulse intermittent; the stomach could not digest properly, so that flatulency and acidity was the result. Finding the symptoms indicated Consumption, I determined to use every effort to stay its progress, and, if possible, to cure it.

I selected the most powerful tonics and moderators, and combined them with the vital constituents of the human body. For months I endeavored to amalgamate them before my efforts were crowned with success. I cannot speak too plainly or too strongly of the effects produced, and the benefits I received from the composition.

At first my appetite increased; the expectoration became easy, digestion better; the feces became more copious and less frequent; cold chills ceased; night-sweats lessened; I gained in weight; the larking cough left me; refreshing sleep returned; my spirits became buoyant; the mind active and vigorous.

I continued taking the Syrup month after month; but owing to the damp, foggy climate of St. John, my recovery was necessarily slow, although I could observe a gradual return of strength for three years, during which time I continued taking the remedy. My present weight is one hundred and eighty-eight, being thirty-eight above my usual. I have no symptoms left denoting disease.

The only notable sign during twelve months was the expectation. Now that has stopped, and I consider myself well. The reader may ask, How do you know your difficulty to have proceeded from alveolar or tubercular lung? I answer, In the most certain of all modes for ascertaining. In March last I coughed from the right lung a piece of PHOSPHATE OF LIME, half the size of a pea, which could have come from no other place, and which the highest authority in Lung Diseases (Laennec) states is the result of tubercle, which has been cured.

Added to this, I had the lenden colored, purulent, blood-streaked expectoration, and the opinion of one of the best diagnosticians in the country. I believe I have experienced all the symptoms incident to the two first stages of Consumption, and have successfully combated them, so that I do not despair of any case where there is left sufficient lung-tissue to build upon. I can only add that the more my recovery is considered of increased sales would never induce me to publish this report, but a sincere sympathy for the poor Consumptive, with whose misfortune I believe it villainy to trifle.

Respectfully, JAMES I. FELLOWS, Inventor of Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

SEND FOR A PAMPHLET. PERRY DAVIS & SON & LAWRENCE, Agents for the Dominion of Canada, MONTREAL.

SUBSTITUTES! The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out."

"But have another article just as good, if not better," which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer; and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.

For SUDDEN COLDS NEURALGIC, RHEUMATIC AND ALL OTHER PAINS IN ANY PART OF THE BODY, PERRY DAVIS' PAIN-KILLER IS UNEQUALLED. IT CURES ALMOST INSTANTLY.

The PAIN-KILLER is put up in 25 and 50 cent bottles, retaining 25 and 50 cents respectively,—large bottles are therefore cheaper.
