The Cosy Corner For Boys and Girls

Well, boys and girls, how did you like the story about Tippy? There are still a few of those cards which Tippy wrote to any people who liked the book and wanted to help the Red Cross society, which works among the wounded horses on the battlefield, so if any of you who forgot all about asking for one would like to see how well Tippy can write in you, will send to the editor of the Cosy Corner, care Evening Province you may still have a card.

This week I am going to tell you about a dog which my brother used to have when he was small. The dog's name was Jack, and he was just the same age as my brother, whom we used to call the Kid. When the Kid was a wee baby Jack came to live with us, and he was just a round ball of fur which could hardly balance itself on four tiny legs when he wanted to lap up his milk. But Jack grew more quickly than the Kid, for he was a collie, and you know they are big bushy dogs. When the Kid was big enough to run around and play, Jack was always with him, and when he got tired as small boys sometimes do, he used to tell Jack to get up in a big arm chair, then he would put his hand in his mouth and off to sleep both of them would go. If Jack woke up first you may be sure he never moved or disturbed the Kid in any way until the nap was finished.

Things went on in this way until the Kid was five or six years old, and then two things happened. Another dog came to join the family circle, and Jack began to develop some bad habits. The new dog was a little wiry terrier called Patch, because he was white with dark patches. It may have been because Jack was jealous of having another dog come to play with his chum, or it may have been because Jack was a little bit of a mischief maker. The burden of an imperial ally also falls as heavily upon our Canadian Red Cross as upon our troops.

CANADIAN RED CROSS ASSISTANCE TO ALLIES

The Canadian Red Cross, acting through the British Red Cross, has rendered many important services to the wounded of the allied armies in Belgium, Serbia, France, Montenegro, Italy and the Dardanelles. The work in Belgium and France is in charge of the Anglo-French Hospital Committee. Its hospital units now number 22. These units are working in many places from Adinkerque in Belgium to Commercy in the Vosges. There are several hospitals on the coast, at Fecamp, at Troport and the Hospital du Chateau at St. Malo. One of the most important of these hospitals is the King Albert I Hospital at Rouen which is intended for Belgian wounded, and can accommodate 1,000 patients at a time.

A Poem You Ought to Know

Why Fear to Die? (By Sir Philip Sidney) Since Nature's work is good, and death doth serve As Nature's work: Why should we fear to die? Since fear is vain but when it may preserve: Why should we fear that which we cannot fly? Fear is more pain than is the pain it fears. Disarming human minds of native might: While each conceit an ugly figure bears, Which were not ill, well viewed in reason's light. Our only eyes which dimmed with a passion he, And scarce discern the dawn of coming day, Let them be cleared, and now begin to see. Our life is but a step in dusty way. Then let us hold the bliss of peaceful mind. Since this we feel, great loss we cannot find.

JOINT MEETING OF FRENCH CHAMBER AND BRITISH HOUSE

London, Dec. 10.—Attention is being directed toward a movement for closer co-operation between the British and French houses of parliament by a conference held at the House of Commons Thursday between Franklin Loucheur, vice-president of the foreign affairs committee of the chamber of deputies, and the British government whip, John W. Gulland, and other members of the Commons, to discuss the possibility of a joint meeting of the House of Commons and the French Chamber of Deputies. It is understood no decision was reached. The newspapers regard such a plan unlikely of fulfillment on account of practical difficulties, but says that some method of co-operation is likely to result from the conference.

HOKE SMITH TWISTING BRITISH LION'S TALE

Washington, Dec. 10.—Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia, in an address in the senate today, called on congress to insist that Britain cease interference with neutral commerce. He declared that protests by the American state department has been met with increased lawlessness and tramping upon neutral rights, British merchants and shippers are profiting greatly, he asserted by exporting the very character of goods seized when shipped from the United States to neutral countries.

18 POUNDS OF BLOOD

is the average quantity in a healthy adult, but it is the quality of the blood that determines our strength to resist sickness. With weak blood we find cold hands and chilly feet; in children an aversion to study, and in adults rheumatic tendencies. In changing seasons get abundant fresh air and take Scott's Emulsion after meals, because Scott's Emulsion is a rich blood-food that will increase the quality of the blood while it warms the body and helps carry off the impurities. When multitudes of people are to-day taking Scott's Emulsion to avert winter sickness, and are giving it to their children, you should not neglect its benefits. Look out for Scott's Emulsion, Toronto, Ont. 13-35

The Amusement World

Last evening at the Regina Theatre the Eckhardt Players produced one of the most enjoyable plays that they have presented to the theatre patrons for some considerable time. The vehicle of their success was "The Rosary," one of the most powerful and delightful of the present day dramas. There is an appeal, and quality of human understanding in this play that immediately wins the hearts of the audience, and last night's production was no exception to the rule, for a crowded house greeted the performance with enthusiasm. Sparkling comedy effects are wonderfully blended with some of the most passionate scenes that dramatic art can conceive, and the whole tended to build a play that will live in the minds of all those who witnessed its production last evening at the Regina Theatre for a considerable time.

CHAPLIN TO APPEAR IN A COMEDY "THRILLER"

The next great Mesany-Chaplin comedy in two acts might almost be called a "thriller," so filled is it with intense action. But why Charles Chaplin has injected the dramatic element into the comedy he never for a moment loses sight of the fact that he is amusing the public.

In every scene the Chaplin antics predominate and when one prepares himself to be thrilled, he is suddenly jolted into an uproar of laughter, which is all the more spontaneous and hilarious because of the unexpectedness of the turn of affairs. In fact, it is this series of surprises, next to Chaplin's personality, that makes the photoplay exceptionally funny. He prepares his spectator for an intense scene, then suddenly, like a thunderbolt, turns the trick into a most grotesque situation. In the play, Chaplin occupies the exalted position of assistant cook. The owner of the vessel and captain plot to blow it up to get the insurance. The owner's daughter, hearing of the plot and not knowing that her father has concocted it, hides herself on board.

She is discovered by the captain and made, who binds and gag her and cast her into the hold. Chaplin, ever on the lookout to rescue beautiful maidens in distress, releases her. The captain and mate scuttle all the small boats except one, light a bomb and prepare to blow it up to get the insurance. The owner's daughter, hearing of the plot and not knowing that her father has concocted it, hides herself on board.

CYRIL MAUDE MAIL ORDER LIST OPENS DEC. 15

The announcement of the coming of Mr. Cyril Maude and "Grumpy" to the Regina Theatre on Dec. 14 and 15, is one that has aroused an unusual degree of enthusiasm among the patrons of that theatre, and already there has been an important demand for reservations of seats for the performances. On this account Manager Groves has decided to commence the mail order sale of tickets on Dec. 15. The reserved seats, at the prices of 50c, $1.00, $1.50 and $2.00, can be booked by mail order on that date, if accompanied by remittance. Also a self addressed stamped envelope should be enclosed for the return of the tickets; compliance with this request is just as essential as is the enclosing of the value of the seats. Mr. Maude, who is one of England's most noted actors, and one who has probably during his long and enviable career, in London, played as wide a range of parts as any actor of the present day, has been particularly fortunate in giving to the public some of the best known character parts of the past twenty years. Among these there has been no greater triumph for him than his present role of "Grumpy," which has served him steadily for two seasons in the States and one in London. As impersonated by Mr. Maude, the aged London barometer is given a quaintness and charm, quite unlike anything that has been done before. The play is essentially a comedy, but has a detective-like flavor and admits of sufficient thrills to satisfy an audience with melodramatic cravings.
