Sutton's Body Found. Was There Foul Play?

A message was received in town from Sydney last night saying that the body of the missing man, John Sutton, of this city, had been found near the Bruce wharf at Sydney floating on the water. The discovery was made in the afternoon as the s.s. Tyrian was backing out from the pier. Our despatch from North Sydney today also gives some further particulars, including an incident that reflects credit on the Mayor of Sydney for his humane and charitable act. The report of Sutton being missing appeared exclusively in the Telegram a few days ago. His wife, who is working at Jackman's tailoring department, was so upset by reading the report of the fact that her husband was missing that she was unable to come down to work for two days. The deceased left St. John's about 78 months ago for Canada to seek employment. He drifted out to Alaska and went to Nome, where it is supposed he made considerable money. His wife had not heard from him since he left home and did not expect that he would return. Besides her own support she has two small children to provide for. The Sydney despatch would indicate that there had been foul play. It is as follows:

NORTH SYDNEY, N.S., July 19. The mysterious disappearance of John T. Sutton, belonging to St. John's, who was returning home from Nome, Alaska, some 12 days ago, caused much anxiety among his friends here yesterday. The Mayor took up a subscription with the result that Tucker Tread made a thorough search for the supposed drowned man, but to no avail, and friends had to come to the conclusion that he had met foul play. Particularly probable did the last solution seem to be very likely, as he had a large sum of money during the day of his disappearance. This afternoon, however, as the steamer Tyrian was backing out of her berth, a body was seen to rise from below the steamer's propeller and on investigation was found to be that of John T. Sutton.

The Anglo Burglary.

Police officers Noseworthy and Byrne arrested J. Lindstrom, 38, machinist, New Gover Street, and A. Noonan, 38, clerk, King's Road, last night at their homes and took them to the lockup. They are charged with entering the office of the Anglo-American Telegraph Co. Monday night and stealing therefrom a sum of $315. The report of this affair was published exclusively in the Telegram yesterday. The police believe they have the men who did the deed and that they have evidence sufficient to convict them. They will be brought before the Court on a preliminary hearing to-day. The police deserve great credit for the promptitude and ardour with which they are investigating the deed.

Sociable at British Hall

St. Patrick's Amusement Club will have a sociable at the British Hall on the 27th in aid of the Fund for completing the St. Patrick's Church. The Ladies committee will cater on the occasion. It is expected that the event will be a success.

MINARD'S LIMENT CURES DISTEMPER.

We Say, No!

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—Kindly allow me through the medium of your paper to express my opinion and the sentiment of a large number of taxpayers on the subject advanced by "Citizen" in last evening's issue. I heartily concur with "Citizen" in one respect, that is, the summer is slipping away. Therefore no radical change should be made this season. Our City Fathers should be given time and opportunity to procure and sample the advice of other citizens on this subject, and after careful consideration of the pros and cons of the proposed change, give their decision.

The City Fathers will and must decide. If we are to recognize them as fathers, they in return must be just and kind to their children. There are scores of boys and girls who, during their vacation, are endeavoring to augment the small income of a widowed mother and trying to help support their smaller sisters and brothers, and who in return seek recompense in attending the band concerts periodically furnished at the expense of the city and through the generosity of some of the brigades and navy hands. Are those future taxpayers and those who are past their labor to be deprived and debarrated from a two hours' pleasure by the imposition of an entrance fee? We say no! The rights of a liberty-loving people must not be usurped by any one individual. I hope that wise counsel will prevail among our City Fathers and the proposed change be rejected. In a subsequent letter I shall submit for consideration a form of change, if a change has to be made, without infringing on the rights of any one.

Yours truly, E. K.

Bled to Death.

The young man Leo Moore, who had his arm terribly lacerated, and whose death at Bell Island the Telegram exclusively reported, was a married man and had a wife and three children. He had bled to death practically before the doctors reached him. The main artery and all the veins in his left arm were severed when he jumped through the window and when the physicians arrived it was found impossible to get these veins to secure them. He was a fine type of manhood and was considered to be a splendid workman.

Notes From Harbor Grace.

Mr. L. Chafe is making some improvements to his pretty residence on Victoria Street. A very handsome glass porch is being put up by Mr. James Simms, carpenter. A concrete wall and steps have just been put in by Messrs. John and Raymond Downing. When completed the residence will be one of the prettiest in town.

Messrs. J. and R. Downing have lately taken the contract to paint the Harbor Grace Boot and Shoe Factory.

The time for the Guy celebration is drawing near and great preparations are being made; but there is just one thing to our mind that should not be forgotten, and that is a light at the top of Garland Street and another in the centre. This street is now wholly used by cabmen and others going to and coming from the railway station, and it would be a poor last view of our beautiful town were visitors to arrive on a dark night. What a dreary place they would think Harbor Grace was to be sure. Let us have more lights, if only for the celebration.

A football match was played in Shannon Park last evening between an eleven from Carbonear and a Harbor Grace team. The result was a victory for the former team by one goal to none. Better luck next time, Harbor Grace!

Mr. H. W. Thomey, the popular cabman, returned from St. John's on Saturday last with a very fine looking horse for his work. Mr. Thomey is now ready for the Guy celebration, and expects to have his share of the cab driving, at least.

A number of ladies and gentlemen intend going out by to-morrow morning's train to Peddleton, where the party will go in camp for a couple of days. Quite a number of family excursion parties, are spoken of as going to the above place shortly, and the only drawback to pleasure is the danger in boarding the train at night. We hope Conductor Lee, who is always on the alert for the comfort of the passengers, will represent to the Reid Co. the need of a suitable platform. We believe that only for the carefulness of the genial conductor accidents would have occurred there ere this.

CORRESPONDENT. Harbor Grace, July 19, '10.

Seaman Arrested.

Yesterday afternoon some Scotch seamen who came here on the Scotia, by the run, were half tipsy on Water Street. One of them was going about trying to sell bed clothes and blankets, and the police arrested them for drunkenness, and also on suspicion that the material might have been stolen. At Crossbie's it was found that the men were paid off from the ship, and as they found their own bedding, the clothing was theirs.

Good Salmon Fishing.

Mr. Caines and five others who were with him at Phinset's Falls arrived here by last night's train, having secured 60 salmon between them. After recent rains there is too much water in the river for successful work.

Messrs. P. C. O'Driscoll, F. J. Morris, D. Barron and Martin White are having fine sport.

First New Fish.

Quite a quantity of new fish caught this summer is stored at Torbay, Outer Cove, Pouch Cove, Flatrock and Logy Bay. It would have been shipped to the city by "steamers" on Monday, but the weather was too damp to send it along. A deal of it will come to hand the first fine day.

Dinna Forget.

Friends are reminded that the garden party at Mount Dorset held by the ladies of the Presbyterian Church takes place this afternoon, weather permitting. The ladies have made careful preparation and all hope they will be vouchsafed a fine afternoon. Should the weather be too inclement for an outdoor gathering, it is decided that the event will be held in the Presbyterian Hall. A specially good programme is prepared by Miss Strang. The train will leave for Waterford Bridge at 4 p.m., returning at 8 p.m.

Train Notes.

By the Bruce express at 6 p.m. yesterday there went Mr. Stephens, Rev. W. T. D. Dunn, wife and family, Rev. Mr. Willey, Miss Brown, Miss Whiteaway, James Moores and about fifty second class.

The local arrived at 9.25 last night bringing Mr. Bremner, Mrs. Cotter, Mrs. Wood, Rev. Dr. Whalen, E. Davey, H. Blentis, Rev. J. Ashley, Mr. Caines and party and 20 others.

Interesting Occasion.

Employees of Messrs. Archibald Brothers Present the Senior Partner With a Handsome Gift.

The employees of Messrs. Archibald Bros., Ltd., had been secretly at work for a week or so collecting and arranging for a suitable gift to convey their hearty congratulations, in a concrete form, to one of their employers, Mr. H. H. Archibald, B.Sc., and his wife, on the event of their wedding, and to wish them much pleasure in the many years it is hoped will follow.

Their efforts in this direction proved to be a splendid success. They collected a sum of money amongst themselves and spent it in a hall stand, which is a very handsome and serviceable piece of furniture.

At closing time on Monday evening all the employees met in one of the spacious rooms of the factory and produced from his hiding place this present.

Mr. Archibald was sent for and told that he was wanted upstairs in the factory, where he went, and was not a little surprised at the sight that confronted him.

All the men, boys and young ladies were standing apparently waiting for something. It is very probable that at this stage he began to feel that he was in for some kind of a serenade or other.

However, whether this is so or not, he did not have long to wait, for the employees, represented by Mr. G. G. Christian, undertook to enlighten him.

Mr. Christian extended to Mr. Archibald the sentiments of the employees in some very well chosen words; and in spite of the fact that he looks on himself as a novice in the art of speech-making, his remarks were very well rendered indeed. He touched on everything that he felt would show Mr. Archibald the kindly feelings and good fellowship that existed between his employees and their employers. He laid special stress on the loyalty and interest of everyone to the concern; pointing out the genuine and determined efforts of each and all to make the products of their factory and tannery the very best possible.

Then came the presentation of the very beautiful hall stand, which has been mentioned before; he closed his remarks with some very sincere wishes for the happiness of the wedded couple, asking Mr. Archibald to convey the same to his wife.

Mr. Archibald, though altogether taken by surprise, handled the situation very well indeed.

He began by telling them that he was completely taken by surprise, as he said he had not the faintest idea that anything of this kind was afoot. He then thanked them on behalf of himself and his wife. He spoke at some length on the relations of employers and employees and vice versa, showing his audience the value of everyone pulling together with the one aim of building up their business, for, as he pointed out, the possibilities of the concern rested as much with the help as with the heads. In this connection he pointed out the advantages accruing to the town by the joint help of every citizen to build up business; and in particular he showed that as they, the managers and help, applied themselves to the shoe business, so they were putting their energy into the building up of their town. He told them, then, that the managers were very anxious to make the work easy and enjoyable, for said he "a man spends most of his time working, and if that time is not pleasurable, then a man spends most of his life without pleasure."

Mr. Archibald then went into the history of his concern, starting with a concise but very attractive history of his father (the great pioneer of shoemaking with modern machinery in Newfoundland), before the establishment of this business. He showed how his father came to Harbor Grace in his teens and started at the cobbler's bench, which in the short time of 15 years by his skill and determination developed into the splendid business he left behind him when he died at the very early age of 33 years. He went on to follow the concern through the years that have elapsed between that time and the present, showing forth the many changes in the shoe and leather industry during that period. His father, no doubt, had the very best machines that were in being in his day, and asserted that now he and his brothers as their father's successors felt it their duty to make, and have succeeded in making, their plant in this connection second to none in America for the class of work they are doing.

He went into the development of the concern since his connection with it and pointed out what they all had already known, namely, the very rapid strides that have been made; saying that the present output of the factory and tannery is the very largest in their line regularly manufactured in the town. After again enlisting the continued good feelings from the employees, he closed his remarks by reiterating his thanks for the unexpected kindness, and told them that they were just as good at keeping secrets as he was himself—H. G. Standard.

BEGIN EARLIER.—Before the match concluded last night it was almost too dark for spectators to see the players or the ball. The League should start the matches earlier.
