Another Eye-Opener From Watchman

Morris and Morrison Shown Up in Their True Light.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—The "rafters rang" with high faluting speeches on Agriculture when Morris assumed power, we had big expectations which proved an excuse for incompetents like Downey and Devereaux to draw thousands of dollars from the people, every thing was going with a bang. But lo, what do we see in the Trade Review to-day, nothing less than a notice from the Agricultural Board that owing to the failure in crops there will be no exhibition held this year.

Would anyone wonder that providence has taught us a lesson, taught us to use our intelligence in selecting our rulers, for by their extravagance they seem to have brought a curse on the country. And why should it be otherwise, how can we expect better luck? When men like the Minister of Justice are looked upon as nothing more than baseless land grabbers. What can we expect when the Government condones such pilfering and warns him with a wink of the eye, not to do it again? What prosperity can we look for, when the Premier of the country keeps such an individual in his executive. Whereas if he desired to keep the standard of justice high in the opinion of the people he would fire Morrison from the position of Minister of Justice immediately. But he is afraid to say boo to Morrison because he is afraid he will put the Protestant people of this country against him. But I can tell Morris that the Protestant people of this country stand for justice though the heavens fall. Morris and Morrison are galling Catholics and Protestants alike, it is the game of "you scratch me and I'll scratch you," and they think by appealing to the people in a religious appeal that they will manage to carry the country again. But the schoolmaster is abroad and the people have their eyes opened. There is about as much religion in Morris or Morrison as there is in a timber deal. Therefore I warn both Morris and Morrison that that kind of a game is over and thank God we have become enlightened enough not to be swayed by appeals to our religious feelings. They say that Sir Robert Bond never went around among the people like Morris and think they can arouse sympathy for Morris and hatred for Bond, or that score. But the people are asking themselves what good are we receiving from the codder in general. They know that Sir Robert Bond could never play the part of a hoaxer and was and is too much of a straight forward man for that. And the Morris's jumping-jack excursions may count for something with the giddy ones of a district, the men of good common sense place the proper value on it and look upon it as an insult to their intelligence. What the people of the north should do is to ask him a few straight questions when he arrives amongst them. Ask him why we have to pay forty cents duty on every dollar's worth of dry goods we purchase. Ask him why we have to pay a dollar and a half duty on a barrel of pork. Ask him why we have to pay a dollar duty on a barrel of beef. Ask him why we have to pay thirty three cents duty on a dollar's worth of tea on biscuits and still the two bakeries in town can pay Rennie thousands of dollars to keep his bakery closed up. Ask him why we have to pay three and a half cents duty on every pound of butter coming into the country in order to protect men who contribute to his election expenses. Ask him what he has done to improve the condition of the Lunatic Asylum and the Poor House. Those are only a few of the questions to hurl at Morris and hurl them at him and at him and make him answer them. Ask him how much money he drew from the chest for the past three years. Arriving in your settlement with a nice smile and promising anything from a needle to an anchor is not good enough. We in St. John's know that game and we warn the men of the north to beware of the slimy politician of the How are you and How are all the Home brand. Morris and Morrison are playing a desperate game, and it is up to every honest man that loves his country to spurn them on every side.

Yours truly,

WATCHMAN.

LOST HIS TICKET.—On Saturday night a well dressed man, who was in a stupor from alcohol, went down in Baldr's Cove and fell asleep. Later he was found by the police in an incapable condition and escorted to the police station for safe keeping.

Visiting the Wilhelmina.

Yesterday hundreds of people visited the S. S. Wilhelmnia which is on Dry Dock. Permanent repairs to her will cost, it is estimated, approximately $50,000.00. As already alluded to in the Telegram the ship has been stripped of all her moveable fittings, her engines have been injured. This work was done by parties who boarded her for salvage while she was beached at St. Mary's, but who had no right whatever to do so and the case will finish in the courts.

Nfld. Man Devoured by Bear in Woods at Ingonish.

While on His Way to Work Twelve Days Ago He is Believed to Have Met Horrible Death—No Tidings of Him Has Been Heard.

Missing from his home at North Bay, Ingonish, Victoria County, and believed to have been devoured by a bear, is the belief of the people of Ingonish concerning the fate of a young man named Barnes, who disappeared from his home on Friday, August 23rd, just twelve days ago today.

Barnes, who is a young man of about thirty-five years of age, went to Ingonish from some part of Newfoundland about 6 or 7 years ago, and a few years later married a Miss Hardy, of North Bay, where she resides with their two small children. Some eighteen months ago, it is said, the unfortunate young man showed signs of mental aberration, but was always able to attend to his work, which was generally about the fishing grounds or in the factories. For the past year or so he was employed by Mr. J. K. McLeod, and on the day on which he disappeared he had worked the whole of the forenoon in the latter's employ. When the noon hour came Barnes walked to his home, about a mile distant, and after partaking of his dinner, he left on return to the factory. To his wife and children he seemed as usual, and there was nothing to denote that anything unusual was wrong.

However, that was the last seen of the young man. That he has met an untimely death there is not the slightest doubt, and that he is the victim of one of the ravenous bears that are said to invest the woods in Victoria county is the general belief of the oldest inhabitants of the place. This feeling is strengthened by the fact that Sam Jackson, of Ingonish, one of the oldest and best trappers in Cape Breton, while in the woods on the day the unfortunate man left home, was startled by the strange sounds which he heard coming from a spot in the forest that would be traversed by Barnes on his way to work. These sounds, it is said, resembled very much those of the bear, and the accompanying noises heard by the veteran trapper were of such a kind that Mr. Jackson was greatly unnerved, so much so, indeed, that he was compelled to take to his bed for several days.

A searching party was instituted when the news of Barnes' disappearance went out, but despite the most vigilant hunt no tidings of the man has since been heard, and it is now conceded by all that the poor fellow was overtaken by one of the above forest denizens, and being unarmed and unable to successfully battle for his life, he died in the attempt.—North Sydney Herald, Sept. 4, 1912.

Brutally Treated

Saturday night two Norwegian seamen, belonging to the whaler Lloyden, who were celebrating, were attacked by several "townies" on Bowring's and brutally treated. The seamen were kicked and pumelled unmercifully and it was a pity that some police officers, who are much in evidence generally when wanted, were not around to give these would-be fighters their just deserts.
