

I'VE GOT

H.P. SAUCE

— the Sauce made from Choicest Oriental Fruits and Spices—the Sauce that makes the commonplace, old fare as tempting as the best.

"It's made in England, but, thank goodness, you can get it here."

Local Stores sell it.

Why Who's Who.

BY H. L. RANN.

It is a great handicap in the race of life to be born without a nickname or a name which can be nicked by vox populi. Some names are nicked more than others, as for example our Theodore, who is called everything from Rosenfelt to the czar of Russia. President Taft never had a nick-name that got him anything, and it is one of Albert B. Beveridge's life that he can't be nicknamed without calling him "Bertie."

Worse off than any of these, however, is Governor Woodrow Wilson, whose parents were serious people and did not propose to have his front name juggled with by posterity. There has been only one public attempt to nickname Governor Wilson, and that was the other day, when an enthusiastic listener called him "Woody." for this offence he was promptly sat upon by the grand jury.

Some people pronounce the final syllable of the governor's first name with an "o" as in "row," while others use the "o" as in "row." If everybody in this country who has tried to pronounce this name without contracting lock jaw should vote for the governor next month, Theodore and William will look like the last pallid remains of a church supper.

Woodrow (pronounce it as you darn please) is a thoughtful man and took great care to be born in Virginia, which produces presidents and leaf tobacco with great vigor and impartiality. For several years his principal industry was graduating from college. Every once in a while he would think of some college which he had overlooked, and then go out and graduate from it while he was fresh in his mind. In this way he accumulated a large collection of Latin degrees, which he would now be willing to trade for a good horse and buggy.

When he ran out of colleges, Woodrow dashed off an American history which a vindictive opposition is now using as a campaign document. In 1910 the people of New Jersey decided that Woodrow had had enough schooling, so they made him governor. Woodrow made a very tart governor, and discouraged the malefactors of great wealth to such an extent that they began to call him "professor."

Woodrow has never sought office with promises or cash, but relies wholly upon a drive-well flow of pure English and a square jaw. He would never be mistaken for a matinee idol, but his character, his moderation and his kindness are good to look upon.

Charge of Discrimination.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—Permit me the use of some of your valuable space to ask those interested in Government circles why it is that Mr. Eli Whiteway, who has the work of looking after sick people arriving by trains and steamers does not deal squarely by cab drivers. It has been noticed that Mr. Whiteway has certain favorite cabbies and these only will be employed. The same applies to Mr. W. Churchill of the Board of Works Department. We all pay taxes and in this connection instead of discrimination all should be given a square deal. Neither political affiliation or personal consideration should be determining factors in the employment of any class in government service. Hoping that this little hint may have the desired effect, and with thanks in anticipation of publication. I am,
Yours,
JEHU.

McMurdo's Store News.

SATURDAY, Oct. 26, '12.
Do not forget that we now have in stock both sizes of Sanatogen, $1 and $2.50. The large size is decidedly the more economical, since it contains five times as much as the dollar package. Sanatogen is a brain and nerve food of great value, and has assisted in the restoration to health of many convalescents and weak and delicate persons. It is generally recommended by the medical profession.
A line of Chamois Skins has recently been added to our stock of these invaluable articles. These consist of some specially large ones for automobiles and fine metal work. The prices are $1.20 and $1.50. Also some Face Skins of Kid, very useful for the toilet. Prices, 15, 25 and 30c.

THE SCOTCH SABBATH.
One Sunday the American boarder, returning from a walk, found the windows of her room, which she had left open, tightly closed.
"O, Mrs. MacLachlan, I don't like my room to get stuffy," she said, when she came downstairs again.
"I like plenty of fresh air."
"Your room will n' get stuffy in on day," said her landlady, firmly.
"Twas never our custom, miss, to hae fresh air rooshin' about the house on the Sabbath."
