The Speech and the Regulations.

The Speech from the Throne delivered by His Excellency the Governor at the opening of the Legislature on Wednesday afternoon last, was a most remarkable one. In strong contrast to the length of previous addresses, its brevity did not possess the merit of eloquence, and as for its substance, it was all shell and no kernel. For sheer superficiality it is unequalled. The speech of last year possessed at least the virtue of being informative, in a measure, but that of 1921 does not even outline any policy upon which the Government intend to proceed, and merely placed into the mouth of the King's representative several high-sounding phrases of meaningless value. That His Excellency had no choice but to read it everybody is well aware, but at the least his advisers might have given the Governor something better calculated to interest the people of the Colony than they did. The shallowness of the Government and of the Government's message to the population is exceedingly well exemplified in the Speech from the Throne, but as time goes on a great deal more will have to be told by Ministers than appears in this literary gem of the Squires-Coaker Executive. Farcial in the extreme was the effect of the Speech after its delivery. Auditors turned to one another and queried "what is it all about?" and no one seemed to know. If the object was mystification of the taxpayers then its success is doubtful. If bluff—and it bears that resemblance—then a day of reckoning must come.

The famous—or infamous Fish Regulations, the practical application of which met with "adventitious" difficulties came in for but little notice, and were discussed in a short paragraph, though it is open to question that had the Minister of Marine and Fisheries been home much more would have been said about them, and when he does come there may be a reckoning because of the scant notice which they received from the Government at the opening of the Legislature, no less than their dismissal in such few lines as were given them. But for the mover of the committee to draft the address, in reply, the member for St. Barbe, it is quite possible that no mention whatever would have been made of the Codfish Exportation Act, as other honorable members were obviously inclined to shun any discussion of them whatever. Even the Prime Minister, in his defence of the Speech from the Throne, referred not at all to the Regulations; thus giving the cue to his followers that they must not renege from his lead at subsequent sessions. Fishermen themselves will know how to appreciate the omission. Those members who represent districts in which the application of the Regulations brought financial distress and domestic privation will have something for which to answer, should they return to their present constituents for re-election. Considering the importance attached to these Regulations by the Government it is certainly not in keeping with the professions of good faith to fishermen on the part of honorable members to have permitted a subject of such vast moment to be dismissed so flippantly, whilst another proposed picnic for the Prime Minister occupied twice the space given to a question that vitally affects Newfoundland, and strikes at the very foundations of her chief industry.

Sealing 'Plane Makes Another Flight.

The sealing plane made another flight yesterday afternoon, but though the machine made a radius of over 350 miles no seals were seen. The plane in charge of Messrs. Cotton and Plastow, Wireless Operator Heath and ice observer Capt. N. Keen, left Botwood at 2.20 p.m. and returned to the base at 9 p.m. The plane was in the air 2½ hours, and was almost in sight of the fleet when forced to return owing to darkness setting in. The machine covered nearly 400 miles and reports loose slob ice but no sign of seals. The engines gave every satisfaction and the plane was in wireless communication with Fogo all through the trip.

Delayed by Regulations.

The schr. George A. Wood, with 3,518 quintals codfish, shipped by Messrs. W. & T. Hollett, has sailed from Burn for Pernambuco. The schooner was loaded in January last, but was delayed in sailing because the owners were unable to comply with the Brazilian regulations. These being now lifted, she proceeded without any interference. Considerable loss to the shippers, however, has been entailed, owing to the delay.

Obituary.

MRS. JOHN G. WATERBURY.

Within the very wide circle of her own and her husband's friends, news of the death, in Dr. Mader's hospital, Coburg Road, of Hilda, wife of John G. Waterbury, and eldest daughter of the Rev. H. W. Cunningham, rector of St. George's Church, and Mrs. Cunningham, was received with a sense of shock and with genuine sorrow, for the young wife, scarcely more than a girl in years, was beloved in the sphere in which she moved, and it seems difficult to associate the idea of death with her bright personality.
On March 2, a little son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Waterbury, and three days after his birth alarming and very unusual complications presented themselves. Since that time it has been a fight for her life, which sadly enough was destined to be lost in spite of every effort of medical skill and devoted nursing. She sank rapidly, and for the past two days it has been recognized that no hope of her recovery could be encouraged. As intimated, she entered into rest, leaving an inexpressible gap both in the home of which she was so well loved, and in the various groups devoted to helpful activity in which she was identified.
Mrs. Waterbury, before her marriage was a teacher in the Sunday School of St. George's, her father's church, wherein she may be said to have grown to happy and gracious womanhood, and she has always taken an active part in its varied work, as also in the work of other organizations of the Church of England in the city. The death of a fragile little daughter two years ago was a deep grief to her. Still young and girlish of aspect and in heart, deservedly loved wherever known, she has passed to a sphere in which all the graces which so endeared her to her friends will have a larger scope, but she will be sadly missed here.

There survive her husband for whom the deepest sympathy is expressed, and the infant son above referred to.
The body will be taken from the hospital to Mr. Waterbury's residence on Edward Street, where it will remain until Wednesday evening, when it will be taken to St. George's Church, remaining there for the night. The funeral will take place thence, at 10.30 on Thursday morning, to St. John's Cemetery. There is a request from the family that friends send no flowers.

(The Rev. Mr. Cunningham is a native of Burgoe, and his wife a daughter of the late Rev. W. K. White of Harbor Breton. Many friends in the homeland will sympathize sincerely with the family.)

EXHIBITION OF LOCAL MADE ARTICLES.

In four windows of The Royal Stores, Ltd., and in one of the windows of the Martin-Royal Stores, Ltd., local made goods are now being exhibited. These goods consist of men's and boys' clothing, boots and shoes, blankets and wool, biscuits, butter, soap, filled clothing, tobacco products, paints, tinned fish, rabbits and lobsters, brooms, brushes and paper.
Every one of these articles were made in Newfoundland by local industry and compare favourably with the imported equivalent, whilst they can be sold at a considerably lower price. The reason for this is that all raw material can be brought in duty free. For some unaccountable reason, however, there seems to be a prejudice amongst our people towards locally made articles. Why this should be so is hard to say, but it certainly cannot be because of differences in the quality, some of our local articles being a great deal better than foreign made goods selling at the same figure. If the people only realised it, they are doing themselves a great deal of good by encouraging home industries, for not only do they get a good article at a low price but they are also helping to relieve labor troubles, by keeping the factories busy, and furthermore are permitting of more money being circulated throughout the Dominion.
The Royal Stores, Ltd., deserve to be congratulated upon their progressiveness.

Fined Five Cents.

Six men were charged before Judge Morris this morning, in the Civil Court with trespassing on Windsor Lake. Mr. E. Leo Carter, counsel for the Civil Commission, prosecuted, and Mr. W. J. Higgins, K.C., defended. A great deal of argument ensued and several witnesses were examined. The men were not aware whether they were on the pond or not. His Honour ordered each to pay five cents and both parties to pay their own costs.

CIVIL ACTION.—The civil action reported some time ago in the Telegram, in which a tenant entered a claim for $88 for negligence against a landlord, was concluded before Judge Morris this morning when a decision was given for the plaintiff for $88 and 55 cents. Mr. G. W. B. Ayre represented the plaintiff.

Before the Fish Regulations.

The following is taken from a recent Liverpool paper, and is an extract from the Plymouth Weekly Journal of December 14th, 1922:
"This is to give notice that there is a parcel of very good Newfoundland codfish to be sold at Fox Hole (Vauxhall) Quay, in Plymouth, at 8 shillings per hundred weight, or at one penny per pound to those that require a lesser quantity than half hundred."

Nolan Gets Seven Years.

THE FINAL CHAPTER.

"The sentence of the Court is that you, William John Nolan, be imprisoned in the Penitentiary at St. John's for a term of seven years with hard labour."
With this utterance of the Chief Justice, the final chapter in the famous murder trial which after a four day hearing ended at 11.20 p.m. on Thursday of last week with a verdict of "Guilty of manslaughter with a recommendation for the clemency of the Court." For several weeks this case had aroused the keen interest of the people of the island, for it is seldom indeed, in the annals of any country that charges of such a brutal nature have been brought against any man.
A large crowd had assembled in the Supreme Court this morning to hear what sentence would be passed on the defendant. When the prisoner was brought in and placed in the dock he glanced round the Court several times in an uneasy manner. It was difficult to believe that he was the same man who had entered the dock so cheerfully on the opening day of his trial. The severe cross examination had left its traces on his face and the suspense and mental suffering which he must have experienced during the trial was plainly evident by his bearing. Upon being asked if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed on him, Mr. J. G. Higgins, prisoner's counsel, addressed the bench and asked their Lordships to consider the recommendation for mercy and to take the man's illiteracy into consideration also. The prisoner took his sentence impassively and left the Court amidst the gaze of a curious crowd.

Marvel of the Age.

New York.—(Associated Press)—Dr. Alexis Carrel, who is to sail for France soon, will leave at the Rockefeller Institute laboratories one of the most marvelous of the age. It is the heart of a chicken that never lived, although its heart, which was removed from the embryo in 1912, still beats and adds to its tissues in a special container. The organ has been nourished artificially for eight years.
Long before the war Dr. Carrel startled scientists with the announcement that he had kept portions of animals alive as long as months while immersed in a special nutritive solution, and that these portions, after a comparatively short time, surrounded themselves with living cells and grew to more than sixty times their original size.
Dr. Carrel was awarded the Nobel prize in 1912 in recognition of his surgical achievements, notably the transplantation of organs.

SWERSKY-LEVITZ.

At the Blue Puttee Hall, which was transformed into a temporary synagogue for the time being, the celebration of the Hebrew rite of matrimony was performed last night, the contracting parties being Mr. Charles Levitz of St. John's, and Miss Katie Swersky of New Haven, Connecticut, U.S.A. Rabbi E. B. Ehrlich tied the nuptial knot according to the Jewish ritual, in the presence of a large gathering of friends of the principals. The bride was beautifully gowned in white satin and georgette trimmed with pearls, over which was worn a veil, and as a floral offering she carried a bouquet of orange blossoms and white roses. She was attended by Mr. and Mrs. I. F. Perlin, while the groom was supported by Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Gittelson, whilst Mr. S. Freilich acted as Toastmaster and master of ceremonies. After the ceremony the bride and groom entertained more than one hundred guests to supper and following, an enjoyable dance was held, at which the city orchestra furnished the music. The bride and groom who are well known in St. John's and in American cities, where they met many friends, were the recipients of numerous presents, including several cheques. They also received numerous messages from friends living in the U.S.A. and Canada. Quite a romance attaches to the culmination of this interesting event the groom having met the bride, while on a visit from St. John's to New York, in which city the young lady was then domiciled, and from this first meeting developed a sentiment which terminated in marriage. To Mr. and Mrs. Levitz the Telegram extends good wishes for the intensification of all the joy and bliss that wedded life usually brings.

W. C. T. U. Women Made Ship Dry.

New York.—(Associated Press)—How two women, delegates to a W.C.T.U. convention in South America, "spoiled" a perfectly good trip for several of the passengers was told by officers of the ship when they returned here. The women succeeded in putting a stop to the poker playing, and also kept such a supervision over the men that the sale was reduced to a minimum. The men breathed sighs of relief when the women disembarked at a South American port, the officers said.
