BOTH DOOMED.

OTAWA, June 28.—One who moves among the followers of the Government here can easily ascertain that they are weakening on Sir Hector Lengevia. Many admit that it will be impossible to refute the testimony given by Murphy or Friday when it is supported by documentary proofs. Sir Hector's statement in Parliament that he received no money for his own use or advantage is now being recalled, and it is expected that Sir Hector will say that he received to money for his own use or advantage is now being recalled, and it is expected that Sir Hector will say that he received no money for his own use or advantage is now being recalled, and it is expected that Sir Hector will say that he received no money for his own use or advantage is now being recalled, and it is expected that Sir Hector will say that he received no money for his own use or advantage is now being recalled, and it is expected that Sir Hector will say that he received no money for his own use or advantage is now being recalled, and it is expected that Sir Hector will say that he received no money for his own use or advantage is now being recalled, and it is expected that Sir Hector will say that he received no money for his own use or advantage is now being recalled, and it is expected that Sir Hector will say that he received no money for his own uses or advantage is now being recalled, and it is expected that Sir Hector will say that he received no form the shoulders of the whole Conservation. The Minister of Public Works Con-Sir Hector Secures Another Ten Thousand Dollars. OTTAWA, June 27.—The developments in the McGreevy-Langevin scandal, of which I briefly telegraphed you yesterday, grow more sensational as the investigation directly proceeds. Yesterday's evidence directly implicated with the control of the contr Sir Hector Langevin, his son and son-in-law—a regular family compact, according law—a regular family compact, according to the chief witness, to profit by the money filched from the public purse through the connivance of those in authority.

Owen Murphy, the financial partner of Larkin, Connolly & Co., swears that Nicholas Connolly paid $5,000 to Mr. Laforce Langevin, Sir Hector's son, who was employed as a boss at the Quebec harbor works, and $5,000 more to Sir Hector himself. The money paid to the son was intended for the father, who had apparently asked by letter for $10,000.

In the course of the examination, Mr. Geoffriou asked the witness: "Now, will you explain the nature of the charge which appears in exhibit L 5, under the heading "Graving dock, November, 1887, $10,000?" A.—That is a $10,000 I gave to Sir Hector Langevin myself.

The bishop of Toronto held an ordination service at St. James' Cathedral yesterday morning. The point of special interest in connection with it was that Mr. H. C. Dixon, long one of the most prominent Anglican lay workers of the city, was one of the candidates, and was duly ordained into the ministry. Mr. Dixon will continue his business, and will receive no remuneration from the church. He is the first in the Diocese of Toronto to receive ordination under such circumstances. Capais.

WORK AND WAGES.

Witness was asked about an item for $1,000 in the statement. He said: "The date is Aug. 3, but that is not right. These dates are all wrong. I think the suditors will account for this. Mr. Thos.
