Bishop Baldwin Preaches a Brilliant but Practical Sermon.

Interesting Reminiscences-The Church In Early Days-The Early Ministers of St. Paul's-Special Musical Services-Sermens by Principal Miller, city, and Bishop Sweatman, of Toronto.

The chimes of new St. Paul's rang out a merry and cheery welcome in the bright, clear air of yesterday morning to the vast thongs who were crowding to participate in the matin service of praise on the restoration of the cathedral. Scarcely had the bells stopped pealing when, led by the sweet-voiced choir of 70 voices, a congregation of nearly 2,000 people joined. heartily in the words:

We love the place. O God, Wherein thine honor dwells.

And so St. Paul's was reopened. It was impossible to get near the doors at church time in the morning, and hundreds were content to stand in the aisles inside, while the hallway leading into the synod hall held quite a small congregation. The scene was repeated in the afternoon and at night many were present before the verger opened the doors. At 6:30 the tide had turned, and hundreds upon hundreds turned away, finding it impossible even to get in. Pretty as the edifice looks from the interior in day light with the sun streaming through the cathedral windows, it is none the less pretty when viewed from the outside after dark, with the vast incandescent glow illuminating the place and showing up in oold relief every inch of the 4,000 feet of colored glass contained in the building.

The clergymen present were: Right Rev. M. S. Baldwin, D.D., Bishop of Huron; Right Rev. Lord Bishop Sweatman, Toronto; Dean Innes, Canon J. B. Richardson, Canon J. W. P. Smith, Canon Davis, city; Canon W. A. Young, Simcoe; Principal Miller, Huron College; Prof. Andras, Huron College; Rev. J. O. Crisp, curate; Rev. J. P. Cullen, Brantford; Rev. Jacobs, Sarnia; Rev. R. Hicks, Simcoe (formerly curate at St. Paul's), and Rev.

W. E. Scott, Ridgetown. The service was divided among the visiting clergy, and the sermon was preached by the Bishop of Huron, who chose as his text, II. Timothy, ii., 19: "Nevertheless, the foundations of God standeth sure, having this seal; the Lord knoweth them that are his. And let everyone that nameth the name of Christ depart from iniquity." HISTORICAL RESUME. The bishop, in beginning, referred to London's early history, beginning at the time when Gov. Simcoe first explored this section in 1793. In part, he said: "In 1812 war broke out between England and the United States, which further retarded progress and helped still more to put back settlement and immigration. From a book published in 1836 we learn that the township of London was settled in 1818, and the town was laid out in 1826 by the crown. The first house built in this place was in the fall of 1827. Turning now to that which most deep y interests us on the present occasion, the history of our own church, I might say that the first clergyman who ever ministered to the members of the Church of England in this locality was the Rev. E. N. Bosworth, who, as far back as 1829, was located here, and serving the few and scattered members of the flock. The remains of his widow are buried in St. Paul's Churchyard. In 1832 the Rev. Benjamiu Cronyn arrived on his way to Adelaide, to which he had been appointed by the then governor. After holding services here on the Sunday, a deputation from the congregation waited on him, begging him to remain with them as their ergyman, for they were at the time atterly without any spiritual guide. Consenting to this, he first conducted services in an old frame school house upon the court house square. In 1835 it was found necessary to erect a more commodious building, and upon the site of the present church a frame church erected, facing towards the south. It is thus described in a book published in 1836: 'The Episcopalian Church, if we except the spire, which is neatest churches in the Province.' It was destroyed by fire on Ash Wednesday, 1844. In 1856 this parish and that of St. Johns, London township, were created rectories, and Mr. Cronyn was appointed rector of them both by a patent from the crown. St. John's, London towship, he resigned in 1842, and that of St. Paul's in 1866. The foundation stone of the present building was laid with great ceremony-the military turning out in force and firing a salute of 24 guns—by the Rev. John Strong, bishop of Toronto, on St. John the Baptist Day, June 24, 1845. The architect employed was Mr. Thomas, of Toronto. The material-that is, the brickwork-was made and burned on the ground where the old frame church had stood. The edifice was completed and opened for divine service in 1846. On July 8, 1857, in this church the first Episcopalian election in Canada took place, when Dr. Cronvn was elected Bishop of Huron and proceeded to England for consecration by the Archbishop of Canterbury. He received the Queen's patent creating the Diocese of Huron and appointing him bishop thereof-probably the last patentover issued directly by the Crown of Great Britain to a colony possessing responsible government. On the resignation of the rectory of St. Paul's by the bishop in 1866 the Very Rev. Dean Helimuth was appointed to the vacant position. During his administration the old chancel was pulled down and a new one built. The organ was removed from the galleries and placed in the chancel and Bishop Cronyn Hall, so long used for diocesan and parochial purposes erected in its present position. On July 19, 1871, the Very Rev. Dean Hellmuth was elected in this church coadjutor Bishop of Huron with the title Bishop of Northey. On the death of Bishop Cronyn, Sept. 2, 1871, Bishop Hellmuth resigned the rectory of St.

being read by the present chancellor, Mr. V. Cronyn. "Before concluding this brief outline of the history of this parish I cannot but refer to the eminent services rendered to it by its first rector, George Benjamin Cronyn, the first bishop of this important diocese. It was with the blessing of God on his faithful labors that this parish during a long pastorate of 34 years was built up and made to occupy the prominent position that it does to day. The anthems sung at each service were fitting to the occasion, and rendered in a manner that reflected great credit on every individual member, and especially Mr. George B. Sippi, F.S.Sc., the organist and choir master.

At the Litany service in the afternoon the sermon was preached by Principal Miller, of Huron College. In the evening the Lord Bishop of Toronto delivered the sermon, taking his text from the singularly appropriate line: "The glory of the latter house shall be greater than the former, saith the Lord of Hosts"-Haggai, ii., 9. The address was thoughtful and scholarly, and in it the preacher referred to the splendor of the new building compared with old St. Paul's, with which he was at one time connected. His close and personal affection was intensified by the memories of many hallowed associations when he used to worship and mingle with the members. He wanted the congregation to shun modern innovations and take pattern by the grand old cathedrals of England, and in ritual and music to be like them. The Bishop of Huron received a kindly-worded acknowledgment of worth from the gitted speaker and Dean Innes was also feelingly referred to and his merits

DISASTER AT PETERSEURG.

Fifteen Men Killed by a Powder Explosion,

And Half as Many More Terribly Irjured.

Petersburg, Va., April 8.—Fully fifteen men were killed and half as many more wounded by an explosion of powder in the fireworks factory of Romain Bros., in this city, yesterday afternoon, a few minutes before 3 o'clock. Just prior to the explosion Mr. Charles N. Romain, the senior member of the firm, Mr. John Bland, the senior member of the tobacco manufacturing firm of Bland Bros. & Wright; Capt. James Tosh, a prominent citizen, and Chas. Bland, of the firm of Bland Bros., were engaged in conversation in the office of the fireworks concern. Fire was discovered in an outbuilding and these gentlemen went to the assistance of the employes and tried to extinguish it by throwing buckets of water on it.

An alarm had been turned in and just as Chief Engineer Farley, of the fire department, drove into the yard the explosion occurred. Messrs. John Bland and Charles Romain were killed instantly and their bodies horribly mangled. Both were members of the city council. Chief Engineer Farley was fatally injured and died in two hours. Capt. Tosh's body was burned almost beyond recognition. The other dead Perkins, William Tyler, John T. Harris, Red Graves and five others not identified. Among the wounded are Charles Short, John Wells and several Italians who will probably dic. The loss by fire will reach in Lora, where he labored for nearly 40

The fire started in the building about 5 o'clock. An alarm was turned, in and soon afterward followed by a loud explosion. About fitteen minutes thereafter there was a second explosion. These explosions were distinctly heard for over a mile. The fire originated in the fireworks factory of C. N. Romain & Bro., where powder for whistle bombs was made. The flames were quickly communicated to the other buildings used for the manufacture of fireworks, and there were frequent small explosions. It was reported that there was a large quantity of powder stored-exactly where, no one appears to know-in these buildings, and kept the crowd from venturing too near the fire. On the opposite side of the street from the fireworks building, all of which were frame structures, was the trunk factory of Messrs. Romain Bros., and close by were the large brick tobacco factory of Bland Bros. & Wright and the old whisky distillery now unused. All these buildings, with stock and machinery, were burned to the ground, as also a large quantity of lumber. There were three explosions. The first was a small affair. 'As soon as it occured Messrs. Romain, Bland and Tosh rushed into the drying room, and there the second and fatal explosion occurred and they were killed. A number of girls employed in the fireworks factory escaped just before the second explosion.
