There's no winking at poor articles, or poor service, or poor values. The people who have shown so much good will to us may rest assured that they shall have the very best of everything that is possible to provide in assortments, value and service all the year round.

The whole store is bristling with bargains in spring goods, and we find it difficult to dwell on the attractions of any department in particular. But rest assured if there's anything you want we have it-that's if you don't want poor stuff.
