Interesting Point Raised In the Impersonation Case

Martin Ouinn Cannot Now Be Prosecuted.

In the police court this morning, the case of Martin Quinn, charged with perjury and impersonation was booked for hearing. However, both Mr. Mc-Killop and Mr. J. M. McEvoy had work to do in connection with the assize court, and could only remain for short time. It was, therefore, decided that the case should be adjourned until Friday, especially as the crown witnesses were not all on hand. Mr. McEvoy, however, said that in the meantime he wished to submit, fo the court's consideration, that charge of impersonation could not ightly be tried at all, considering the ircumstances. The crime, he explained is unknown to the common law and the special statute, which provides for the offense, did not cover the circumstances of the present case. The only method of procedure provided for was for the scrutineers and returning officer to de tect the alleged impersonator redhanded, and to swear out an information against him immediately. In the present instance, the alleged impersonation had not been noticed at the time it is said to have been committed by are not excelled. They have been made those in the polling booth, and it was not until some time after election day George Morris is the complainant.

Counsel for Defense Holds That that any action was taken. Counsel for defense, therefore, submitted that no further proceedings could be taken. Mr. McKillop raised the question whether because, if as alleged, there was only one method of procedure, no other method of action could be taken against the accused? The court remarked that, all events, there could be no such tions as Mr. McEvoy had ind proceeding against the acc charge of perjury. The Liberals of East Middlesex are much amused at the tone of Mr. George Neely's speech, made at the convention which on Thursday last nominated him as the candidate for the Provincial senting him with two handsome chairs House. On that occasion, in accepting gation Sunday morning in stating that probably it would be well for some of the surprise for the principal took by the Free Press to have said: "Let us avoid personalities or indulgence in hard terms or names. Don't let us be too hard on the rank and file of the Liberal party. They are not to blame for the disgraces that have erept into their midst. Since my name has been mentioned in connection with this nomination, several Liberal friends f mine have promised me their support if I was your choice and have signified their intention of voting for me. Let us not offend these friends; they are hanging their heads in shame, at the ections of their leaders, and are going to show their condemnation at the earliest opportunity." Liberals are not forhowever, of the bitter which Mr. Neely made at the Conservative convention which nominated Capt. Robson on Dec. 28, 1899. On that occasion, according to the Free Press, Mr. Neely, after the reference to the leath of a prominent member of the party, said: "But they must forget sorrow and turn their attention to their opponents. He was going to say their worthy opthy. They did not fight fairly. A cruel war was being fought in South Africa. British soldiers were fighting under a tropical sun. And for what? For little less cause than was being perpetrated n Ontario. (Applause.) He then went on to say that loug- north as North Bay, Thirty-four chapters had been reviewed and 46 new ones had been formed, this latter number beating the United States by one Ten probation chapters had also been formed. Huron diocese, said the speaker, had the honor of having the only college chapter and also the largest number of chapters for its size. Moreover, the city of London was the only city in Canada which had a chapter in each parish. The work of the brotherhood, said the speaker, although very successful so far, was just in its initial stage, and the speaker exhorted the members to remain faithful to their vows of prayer and service, for the success of the whole organization rested upon the work of each individual member. The speaker closed by referring to the reports submitted by each of the local chapters, commenting upon each one
