A "SAFETY FIRST" MOVEMENT. The Grand Trunk Railway, adhering to the progressive policy which characterizes that system, announces the inauguration of "A Safety First" movement. Mr. Howard C. Kelley, vice-president, has issued an official circular calling the attention of officers and employees to the "great importance of an organization for the prevention of injuries and damage to property."

Mr. George B. Deane, a highly engaged safety engineer, charged with the duty of putting the movement into effect. He will inspect the lines, terminals and shops, and confer with the various managers on matters pertaining to the safety of the travelling public and employees.

The thoroughness with which the Grand Trunk is going about this particular work is shown by the fact that the safety engineer, assisted by the local officers, will hold "safety meetings" at all important centres on the system, at which practical instruction bearing on safety will be given to employees in all departments. Stereoscopic views of unsafe and safe conditions and practices will be shown and explained, the purpose being to reach and make a lasting impression upon the mind of every employee for the benefit of safety.

Committees composed of officers and employees will be organized on all divisions, terminals and in all important shops, whose duties will be to discover and correct unsafe conditions and practices.

The management of the Grand Trunk has kept in close touch with results obtained on other important systems in the United States, and having concluded after careful consideration, that the movement has great merit, will push along its application with the greatest vigor. "It is our purpose," remarked Vice-President Kelley today, "to extend this highly important work to every branch of the service. Safety is the first and most important consideration in railroad operation, and no effort will be spared to give to every patron and employee of this system the greatest possible protection."

ANARCHY RULED IN TRANSVAAL CAPITAL FOR SEVERAL DAYS

City Engineer Receives Word of Friend Shot During the Rioting.

Reign of Terror Worse Than French Revolution Prevailed at Johannesburg.

City Engineer Ashplant has just received intelligence of the death of Mr. Charles Slade Roberts, a friend of his, in the recent miners' strike on the Transvaal Rand. Mr. Roberts, who was in Johannesburg, was killed by a bullet in the lung. At the time Mr. Ashplant was in the town he was there as an expert on drainage systems, and became acquainted with Mr. Roberts, the two becoming close friends.

The trouble on the Rand was caused by some miners refusing to work the fifty-one-hour week, and demanding one of forty-eight hours. Their demands were not complied with, and they were discharged. Immediately afterwards the unions declared a general strike for the purpose of getting them reinstated. The employers were obdurate and for a few days a condition of anarchy prevailed. The streets of Johannesburg were thronged with miners and natives carrying weapons and shooting at everyone. Burning and looting of many of the houses and stores followed each other in quick succession, many people being injured and some killed by the strikers.

Fearful General Uprising. For some time rumor was busy, a general uprising being feared, the Basuto boys, who work in the mines, being especially hard to keep in check. Railway stations, business premises and clubs were looted and burned in a few hours. Stores were entered, horses cut loose from their conveyances, made to gallop down living lanes that were instantly formed, and all the terrors of a siege were revived. The town was under martial law for a few days, and scenes scarcely equalled in the French reign of terror occurred. Mrs. Fitzgerald, one of the most active sympathizers with the strikers, followed by nearly two hundred men wearing red ribbons, marched into every store in town, and demanded that it be closed, promising all kinds of terrible things for non-compliance.

Terrible Rumors. The closing of the stores caused great apprehension, and the triumph of the anarchistic element seemed complete. Most terrible rumors floated around, one of which was that six thousand men were marching on the town with the intention of blowing up the railway stations.

The Rand club was raided by a large crowd of hooligans, wearing the red ribbon. Everything in the hall was stolen, overcoats, golf sticks and umbrellas being taken and used as weapons. Suddenly the mobs scattered as the sound of hoof beats came to their ears. But not for long. They rallied again and stones, sticks and bullets were coming thick and fast. A man who was the ringleader, stood up and yelled derisively to the soldiers, "Come on; shoot me." No attention was paid to him the first time, but he continued to yell, "Shoot me." The word of command was given, "Fire over his head." The reports of the rifles rang out, and when the smoke cleared away the crowd shouted derisively. The solitary figure in the centre of the roadway yelled again and the officer in charge said, "Let him have it then." The rifles were again raised to the shoulder, and the madman lay in the road with seven bullets in his body. Then pandemonium broke loose. Revolvers were discharged at the troops, and some of the crowd fell back, but not for long. A volley was fired over their heads, but had no effect, so the order was given to fire into them. The shooting was not over their heads this time, and the havoc they great. Men fell on all sides. After

Big Tobacco War

To Start Shortly

[Canadian Press.] London, Aug. 22.—A great tobacco war between the principal British and American companies may begin in London at any moment as the outcome of the threatened "invasion" of England and other European countries by the Tobacco Corporation of America. As one of the heads of a big British concern said last night:

"I believe it is a fact that an American corporation intends to attempt to enter the English field and open up depots on a large scale in rivalry with the Imperial Tobacco Company. Whether the enterprise contemplated will succeed or not is another matter. One of many factors that will have to be reckoned with is the conservatism of the English tobacco consumer."

Condemn Unionists Who Join Militia

[Canadian Press.] Winnipeg, Aug. 22.—Condemning trades unionists who join or belong to Canadian militia, a resolution was passed by the trades and labor council to be sent to the trades congress, and speeches were made in which the soldiers were freely described as "murderers," "assassins" and "scum of the earth."
