

Oh! ask me not to twine a wreath, To place upon thy brow; An - other's hand has plucked the flowers, That should be blooming now. An - other's hand hath strung the wreath, And touched the harp of praise; And won thy beauty, with his kind - With his bewitching lays.

Rit.