

CANADIAN WEEKLY BULLETIN monts is the

INFORMATION DIVISION . DEPARTMENT OF EXTERNAL AFFAIRS . OTTAWA, CANADA

Vol. 17 No. 50 of letter blow doublest the

anted villages at that respect on most yearfully being mode loved to the continuous continuous and the continuous at the continuous at the continuous at our contenuous at the continuous at our contenuous at the lateral onal Court of Instine generally

| Charter, its to maintain international poace and | ments of the International Court of Justice generally |
|--|--|
| notice of the control | ENTS page and a service of the street of the |
| conditions and the maintenance of peace, there can | |
| | re made the drawn a stauda so Moirusionau. |
| The High Price of Feder. | Status Talada Pari 12 tackli 3 of ni normaloger Jeenson |
| Canada's Nuclear-Power Strong for Trouble Pays | 是一种的一种,我们就是一个一种的一种,我们就是一种的一种,我们就是一种的一种。 |
| in the state of th | will be the proundwark for a practical approach to the questions which have pievenled the United Na- |
| value requirement avaious are per payothon of watcherovily. The operators are well platter with | tions from bringing order and spelling tino for linen- |
| The state of the s | |

are concerned, member sistes that have desidated to "Delegations will recall that the working Group CE OF PEACE has REALD to bear bear seen that yeq.

Resolution of the silteenth be safed to study heathods of On December 3, Brigadier J.H. Price, the Canadian representative on the Fifth Committee of the United Nations General Assembly, introduced drafts of two resolutions dealing with the financing of the world organization. Referring to the item under which the two resolutions would be debated, Brigadier Price observed that "we are here presented with this Committee's most challenging opportunity to assist the United Nations to move toward a firmer foundation of orderly financial management". "I need hardly remind this Committee", he said, "of the extent to which the attempts to achieve an equitable and workable method of meeting the sometimes heavy costs of peace keeping have been hampered by differences of view on the basic legal aspects of the matter. These differences have, in large measure, been responsible for the unsatisfactory situation in which reliance on ad hoc arrangements has led the Organization further and further into serious financial difficulty".

operations, the United Nations may be faced egain

This emphasis on the urgent need to find a more suitable way of financing the peace-keeping tasks of the United Nations was maintained throughout Brigadier Price's address, which continued as follows:

"When the Working Group of Fifteen on the Examination of Administrative and Budgetary Procedures met in 1961, it soon found that it, too, could make little progress in the absence of common understanding of the legal relation between the costs of Peace keeping and Article 17 (2) of the Charter. Accordingly, the Working Group recommended that owing to their doubts about the legality of linearing the guidance of the International Court of Justice was an essential preliminary to the United Nations finding a satisfactory way out of its financial dilemma, it is to be the United Nations to turn its cial affaire. So far agreecest financial difficulties reputation of the International Court of Justice and

LEGAL GUIDANCE SOUGHT

"Subsequently, at the sixteenth session of the General Assembly, discussion in the Fifth Committee confirmed that little could be accomplished in regard to the financing of peace-keeping activities in the absence of authoritative legal guidance. Accordingly, the Delegations of Brazil, Britain, Cameroun, Canada, Denmark, Japan, Liberia, Pakistan, Sweden and the United States tabled a draft resolution, which was adopted as Resolution 1731 (XVI). By this decision, the Secretary-General was asked to request an advisory opinion from the International Court of Justice as to whether the costs of the United Nations operations in the Middle East and the Congo constituted expenses of the organization within the meaning of Article 17, Paragraph 2, of the Charter.

"In response to the General Assembly's request, transmitted by the Secretary-General, the Court considered this question during the spring and summer of this year in the light of the oral and written statements of a number of governments and all the relevant documents. On July 20, the Court handed down its advisory opinion, which, to quote it in summary, found that 'the expenses authorized in the General Assembly resolutions ... relating to the United Nations operations in the Congo...(and) the UNEF...constituted "expenses of the organization" within

(Over)