are thus in all 815 regularly recognized centres of Christian work, (having connected with them 28,260 families and 50,702 communicants) whence the seed is being scattered over the field).

II. The LABOURERS. They consist of 329 Pastors, being an increase of 14 over preceding year; 33 Probationers, 116 Missionaries, (ordained, student, catechist), 1,987 Elders, 3,091 Deacons or Managers, and 4,094 Sabbath School Teachers. The workers thus consist of (1) a band of 478 educated and trained men who devote their whole time to gospel ministrations; (2) a band of 9,172 men and women, part only of whose time is given to ruling, or to finance, or to instruction of the young.

III. SUSTENTATION. For the support of settled Pastors there has been contributed during the year $237,901.25, an increase over last year of $15,619.51, giving an average stipend of over $700 to each pastor.

IV. RESULTS. These it is difficult to weigh or number. The following results are however on the surface. There have been added to the church by baptism 4,703, by profession of faith or certificate 5,847. In Sabbath Schools 35,020 have been under instruction, and 9,269 in Bible Classes. The gospel has been preached to 141,190 hearers, the sacrament of the Supper dispensed to 50,702 communicants. Twenty-one new manses have been erected, and 28 churches, while a total of $619,359.30 has been collected and expended in carrying on, at home and abroad, the Lord's work. It should be remarked that the difference between some of the figures given above and the figures in the appended Summary is owing to our including in the above remarks some reports that came too late for the Statistical Tables.
