But Royson had found adversity a hard taskmaster. He had learnt early the lesson that a man who takes a leap in the dark should at least jump from a high ground, and when he asked himself what was the definite cause he would prefer against von Kerber his logic was brought to an abrupt halt. In plain English, he depended on a few words in the solicitor's letter, and these, in their turn, were probably inspired by the one-sided statements of the Austrian's avowed enemy, Alfieri. This consideration brought him back to the starting-point in his review of a puzzling situation. Fielding, whoever he might be, had done the right thing in placing his bet before Mr. Fenshawe by letter. It would serve to clear the ground, and give scope for the interference of one who really had no cause of complaint against von Kerber.

"Anyhow," reflected Royson, smiling at the queer manner in which many opposing interests helped to entangle him in a mesh of difficulties, "I need not rush my mess. Let Fenshawe read his letter, and, above all else, let me see the man who is his granddaughter. Then, by happy chance, I may hit on the right line."

When a young man does not want to deprive himself of the company of a nice woman, he may be depended on to argue himself into a state of mind which does not demand such a sacrifice.

At that instant Irene rose and told Captain Stump that she agreed with him—she had no objection to his going to the street was more to her taste than a description of the frocks worn at the last would have suited them had he not noticed that Mrs. Haxton was bending forward in her chair and examining the mixed pile of correspondence on the table. There was no grave significance in the action, because a number of magazines and newspapers were mixed with the letters, and these were more or less common property. But Royson, knowing of the existence of one document of exceeding importance, acted on the principle that if opportunity should remain unutilized that day if it lay in his power. He lit a cigar, wheeled his chair slightly, and sat facing her, at a distance of ten or twelve feet. The opening of the veranda was half as far away on his right and on Mrs. Haxton's left. Through the narrow rails they both could see the opposite pavement, with its dun-colored throng of natives and the gloomy interiors of several small shops, while the white walls and closed-lattice windows of the upper stories seemed to be bleaching vividly in the slanting rays of a fierce afternoon sun.

Mrs. Haxton, apparently giving no heed to Royson, glanced listlessly at the wrappings and postmarks. The task seemed to prove uninteresting. Soon she selected a periodical, and was about to open it when a remark from Irene caught her ear. "That Italian standing in front of the grand-dealer's place seems to be rooted to the ground with astonishment at seeing strangers in the hotel," said the girl, turning her smiling face towards her companion.

"Them Dagoes is impudent pups at times," replied Stump, his red eyes no doubt meeting the man's stare with a fixity that might have disconcerted most sages.

"Does he know you, do you think? I happened to see him coming along the street, and as soon as he saw us he stood stock-still. He has been going up here now for the past two or three minutes."

"I've booted a rare lot of Italians in my time," said Stump. "I wouldn't be a bit surprised if he was some loafer I'd helped across a ship's gangway at Genoa or Naples."

"But captain," laughed Irene, "that man appears to be a superior class."

"Bless yer heart, miss, that's notin'."

ONLY THING THAT HELPED HIS KIDNEYS

British Columbia Likes Gin Pills.
Chilliwack, B.C.
I divide the year about equally working on this ranch and on various logging claims, being consequently entirely dependent on bodily fitness for a living. At times I have suffered like many others in this country from backache and weak kidneys, sometimes to the extent of being laid up for weeks together. Having tried many remedies I have pleasure in stating that your Gin Pills are the only ones from which I have derived any permanent benefit. I had been using them only a short time when the trouble left me, and has not returned since.

CANADIANS IN BOSTON WILL RECEIVE RETURNS

The Canadian and Intercolonial clubs of Boston have arranged for a public meeting at a military aspect, a man whose bearing went far to prove that Stump's general estimate of a great nation was not to be wrong, was certainly very much taken up with the appearance of the two figures leaning over the balcony. But Royson had scarce time to note the appearance of a certain. Her cheeks suddenly became ashen gray, and her tightly compressed lips were bloodless.
"What is it," she said, "of a rose die under certain varieties of chemical light. Her eyes dilated in an alarming way, and lines not visible previously now puckered the corners of her mouth."

John E. McAuley, of Lower Millstream, Kings county, is a councillor of the parish of Studholm and an active Conservative and supporter of George W. Fowler. He is also a member of the Purity League and Temperance Federation of Kings county. Ira Earle is a prominent Liberal in the parish of Kars. He is postmaster at Bellefleur Bay, and for years has tended the scow ferry placed at that point for the convenience of the people.

The following letter from John McAuley to Mr. Earle explains itself and is commended to the attention of those interested: "Lower Millstream, Sept. 23, 1908. "Mr. Ira Earle: "Dear Friend—I am writing you a short letter, I believe for your own benefit, regarding the future. As you know, we are before an election and everything at present points to the Laurier Government going down. Now Ira, let you and I reason together for a moment. First of all, the local government is changed and you are holding a position. Now if you put up a good bluff that you are taking no part, it WILL MAKE YOU SAFE FOR THE OFFICE YOU HOLD FOR THE FUTURE, ALSO IF YOU TAKE ANY ACTIVE PART IN THE COMING ELECTIONS, and as I do conscious believe they go out, YOU WILL LOSE YOUR POST OFFICE AND THE SCOW BOOTH. So Ira, for your own sake do not make any fuss over elections. Now remember, I am not asking you not to vote for your own party, but let no man know how you vote. Than neither party can censure you anyway. As I want to see you hold the Post Office also the scow, please do not give me away as I am registering this letter. If you cannot do anything else, you CAN SHAM SICK FOR A MONTH. I HAVE DECIDED NOT TO MAKE ANY PRICE THIS TIME."
