ONE OF MURRAY'S "PROHIBITIONISTS"
The Easiest Way To End Dandruff
 There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon, apply it at night when retiring, use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.
 By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.
 You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

SELF-COOKING UMBRELLAS
 Man Who Owned One Tells What They Are Like
 "Rainstorms having interfered with battles," remarks a contemporary philosopher, "the next brilliant invention will be a self-cooking umbrella."
 Such is the fame of some of the brilliant inventions. They strike upon a startled world, have their little heyday of novelty and popularity, and are quickly forgotten by the next generation. Self-cooking umbrellas were quite a fad not so many years ago. Perhaps they are still on the market, but we do not remember to have seen one for eight or ten years. We ourselves had one of the things in the day of them, and were rather proud of it. It was a great device for a one-armed man or for a combatant with one arm full of parcels. Pressing a spring in the handle with the thumb or one finger would raise the umbrella with a precipitate violence that the thing an object of terror to any dog, cat or horse that might be within a radius of a dozen feet.
 The chief trouble with this patent umbrella was that, once open, it inclined to stay so. Closing it was a job that required both hands and considerable effort, owing to the stubborn resistance of the self-raising motive force. Nonchalantly springing open one day as we were emerging from a doorway, we came within a half inch of demolishing an eye for a respectable old lady, and so we gave up carrying it as it seemed to belong in the class of dangerous weapons.—Providence Journal.
 He Helped.
 On the new brakeman's first run there was a very steep grade. The engineer always had more or less trouble to get up this grade, but this time he came near sticking altogether. Eventually, however, he reached the top.
 Looking out of cab, the engineer saw the new brakeman and said, with a sigh of relief:
 "We sure did," assented the new brakeman, "and if I hadn't put on the brake we'd have slipped back!"

The permanent residence of Frank McInnis, at present engineer for the water and sewerage department here, at 21 Falmouth street, Dorchester, Mass., was entered recently by burglars and ransacked from top to bottom. Mrs. McInnis left last evening for Boston.

A lamp exploded in the home owned and occupied by John Wilkes, White street, last evening about eleven o'clock and caused a fire which did damage to the extent of $200. Mr. Wilkes, in attempting to put out the fire, was badly burned about the hands and arms. He was removed to the General Public Hospital. The loss is covered by insurance.

A runaway horse lately tearing up King street last evening caused no little excitement and also gave rise to an exhibition of soldierly pluck on the part of Ptes. J. L. Hayes and J. R. Wright of the 28th battalion. The soldiers, who were passing the time, dashed boldly out into the street and stopped the frightened animal.

Another charge has grown out of the raid made by the local police on last Sunday evening. It is now awaiting to be tried for the alleged theft of nearly two hundred effects from Tom Shen, the star witness in the case against the twenty-five Chinese charged with being inmates of a gambling house and also against the proprietor of the house for selling liquor.

RECENT DEATHS

A. G. McKenzie.
 Andrus G. McKenzie, for many years a well known Boston optometrist, jeweler, and leader among the Scottish clansmen of that vicinity, died on last Monday at his home at 238 Harvard street, Brookline, aged sixty-seven, as a result of a shock brought on by his advanced age.
 Mr. McKenzie was born in New Glasgow, N. S., in 1849, and went to Boston when he was seventeen years old. For ten or twelve years he conducted a jewelry store at 4 Winter street. During that time he became interested in optometry and in 1881 established an office for the practice of this science at 108 Charles street. Because of his age he retired from active work three years ago.

Use Coconut Oil For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.
 Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain unadulterated coconut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.
 Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.
 You can get multifold coconut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

THE MADE-OVER INDIAN.

Big Improvement in the Red Man in Recent Years.
 Not such a great while ago people who lived on the far side of the Missouri River read the works of Cooper as humor. He gave the Indian an air of dignity, a high standing for honor, even an aspect of industry. Trans-Missouri settlers knew Indians. They came in contact with them. Cooper's conception seemed so different from reality that with no effort at all, the reader could make himself believe he was reading satire.
 Now of all the changes which time has wrought in the plains and mountain country none is more marvelous than the alteration of opinion on the subject of Indians. The aborigines have actually come into a new world as regards the white man's attitude toward them. It is no longer considered a worthy simile to speak of the town leader as being "as lazy as an Indian." It is no longer the right and proper thing to be encouraged by the best citizens, to skin Indians at barter, to reduce them to nakedness by trickery. Today it is a crime to kill an Indian. There are men who have not yet reached the stage of grandparentage who remember when the slaughter of Indians was a virtue.
 The great transformation has been brought about by the Indians themselves. They have bettered their living conditions. They have acquired education. Thirty per cent. of all the Indians in the country talk the English language. Even more of them wear the white men's clothes. As property owners, they are to be envied. As workers in the field, railroad laborers, store-keepers, office holders, lawyers, and capitalists they hold their own.
 Some old stages will never be able to read the Leatherstocking tales without laughing. But their children take Cooper in all seriousness. His Indian is real to them.—Toledo Blade.
