BY-LAW MATTERS
Several by-law reports against citizens were taken up by the police magistrates this morning. William Daley was reported for going beyond the rail at the I. C. R. depot in soliciting passengers. Policeman Smith's evidence was denied by Daley. He was given time to summon witnesses. Philip Towson was reported in a like case, but on a different occasion. This case will come up again this afternoon.
George W. Slocum was reported for not sounding his automobile horn at the corner of Sydney and Waterloo streets. He was fined $10.
Daniel Doherty, reported for going beyond the rail at the station, was told that he would be fined the full amount, $20. He pleaded guilty.
J. Eldon Wilson was before the court on two charges, that of leaving his car standing in Germain street between 12 o'clock and 12:45 p.m. without any lights and also with driving around the square at

Many friends learned with regret of the death of Wilfred Shannon which occurred on Monday night after a lingering illness. Although he had been in poor health for some time the end was unexpected. Caskill, Little River, is aunt and James T. Shannon of Providence, R.I., an uncle.

SUCCESSFUL SEASON
On Tuesday evening the young ladies' class of the Victoria street Baptist church held its annual meeting at the home of Miss Wheaton, Metcalf street. The season just closed has been one of marked success for the class. The treasurer's report shows a deposit of $80 in the bank. The class voted to make a contribution to the Women's Missionary Society of the Victoria street church, and also a contribution to charity—either in their own church or some institution of the city. The officers for the season of 1916-1917 are: President, Mrs. E. H. Fiewelling (teacher of class); 1st vice-president, Eda Wheaton; 2nd vice-president, Hazel Reicker; secretary, Hilda Webb; treasurer, Jennie Starkey; auditors, Grace Fiewelling and Belle Vanward. On Thursday evening, Nov. 9, the class will hold a concert under the management of Miss Bertie Campbell. At the close of the session the hostess served delightful refreshments.

IS FINED $50 FOR SUPPLYING DRINK TO SOLDIERS
In the police court this morning Samuel Levine was charged with supplying liquor to soldiers in uniform. He pleaded not guilty. The policeman said that he had seen Levine hand a parcel to a soldier near the Christmas parcels depot of the King Edward Hotel last year. He had sold two bottles to the defendant yesterday afternoon. Two bottles were found in the parcel. The court imposed the full penalty of $50.
Winifred Hampton was remanded on a charge of drunkenness and refusing to pay for a meal in Robert Henderson restaurant in Market Square.
William Leonard, for being drunk in Main street and driving a motor car, was fined $5 for the first charge and $10 on the second.
Russel Kierstead, charged with theft of an overcoat from George Nutter, in Kings county, pleaded guilty, and also with the theft of trousers and shoes from the Warner mill in Chesley street. The evidence will be submitted this afternoon in this case. The coat was recovered by Detectives Barrett and Briggs.
Several other prisoners charged with drunkenness were before the court. Some were fined and some were remanded.

HEARS INDIRECTLY THAT SON IS ALIVE
Pte. Herman Ryan Was Reported Dead of Wounds
That Was Six Months Ago—Now Comrade Writes Home That He Has Seen Him in England, Just Out of the Hospital
To receive official word from Ottawa that a son had died of wounds, and then six months afterwards, indirectly find out that he was still alive, was the experience of Mrs. J. Sheehan of 8 St. Paul street with regard to her son, Private Herman Ryan, twenty-two years old. At the outbreak of the war he was among the first to don the uniform and crossed to England with the first contingent as a member of the 12th battalion, and was later transferred to the 14th, with which unit he was fighting on May 7, 1916, when he was supposed to have been struck by the fatal bullet.
The last letter received by the mother was written in April, about three weeks prior to the date of his being wounded. The word that Private Ryan was still alive and looking fairly well was received through Mrs. G. C. Pierce of Mill street, who had received a letter from her son, Private Howard Pierce, formerly of the 110th battalion, saying that he had met Private Ryan in England, and that he had just come out of hospital, and although badly scarred, yet was looking fairly well, and that he expected to return to Canada at an early date.
Private Ryan was in the employ of the Royal Hotel prior to going overseas and has many friends in the city who will be greatly overjoyed to hear of this news.

THE CATHOLIC INSTITUTE
Last evening in the Knights of Columbus' rooms, a meeting of the board of directors of the new Catholic Institute was held. An executive was appointed, consisting of Judge H. O. McInerney, R. O'Brien, George Cunningham, Alfred Dever and J. F. Owens. Several matters of importance were dealt with, including the matter of securing a physical director and the appointment of a permanent secretary, who would devote all his time to the position. There are several instructors in sight, but none has been selected yet.
A schedule of charges was arranged and the fees are—Boys, $1.25; junior members, $2.50; ordinary members, $5; associated members, $8; young men, $5; and business men, $10. Following the meeting all the members viewed the building and it was pronounced a fine, up-to-date and modern gymnasium in every respect. The formal opening will take place with the holding of the annual Cathedral high tea.

The Man In The Street

Without detracting from his admiration for the others, the Man in the Street is willing to admit that the 222nd Battalion is as fine a looking lot of soldiers as St. John has had the pleasure of welcoming.
After reading the report of Professor Prince's lecture last evening we venture to express the hope that St. John people will refrain from wasting any more whales.
The gang who stole a scow and made off with a hundred tons of coal evidently are qualifying for places in the ranks with the other coal barons.
If these gentlemen are still at large it might be a good plan to nail your house down before leaving it unguarded.
But their methods are a bit crude; the high-cost-of-living artists are taking all our money away from us and doing it without the risk of going to jail.

By Easy Stages
He was standing outside a saloon with a wistful expression on his face as he gazed at the array of bottled goods displayed within.
"What's the matter? Haven't you got the price?" asked a friend.
"Yes, I've got the price and I've got the thirst, but I'm not taking anything this evening."
"On the water wagon now?"
"No, as a regular passenger, just for a little ride," was the answer. "You see, I've doped it out this way: I've been averaging half-a-dozen drinks a day and it struck me that I was going to miss that half-dozen when prohibition strikes St. John next May. Well, it's just six months till then so I figured out that if I cut out one a day this month, take one less next month and kept on at that rate, I'd be on the water wagon of my own accord by May and never feel the loss. The idea seems good enough, but I guess I'll have to save one or two of my morning drinks for the evenings."

Their Only Tune
The returned soldier was talking to a member of one of the local patriotic societies and the lady asked him if he got his parcel mail after we had sampled the cakes and the chocolates, we decided to have a little music and we started in, all together, to play 'O Canada' and, do you know those month thing those month organs would play was 'The Watch On the Rhine.'
"What do you mean?" asked the startled lady.
"Well, we didn't know what it meant any more than you do. We tried and tried and another band would those blessed month organs play. Then we began to examine them to find out what was the trouble and we found it. Every last one of them was marked 'Made in Germany.'"

Are We Friendly?
This story is told of a couple of young soldiers who arrived in the city with a battalion from another part of Canada. Evidently they had heard that St. John people are a friendly lot and always ready to welcome the soldiers, and they were prepared to take the city according to its reputation. They were a couple of nice looking boys with honesty and friendliness plainly portrayed on their countenance and they started out to meet the folk.
They were walking down King street and making experiments in friendliness. Two young ladies approached and the boys saluted in a most respectful manner and voiced a mild "hello." The girls glanced at them in a manner befitting surprise and kept on their way.
"That's not so awfully friendly," said one soldier to the other.
"Still they were not downhearted and, as two more young ladies came along, they greeted them in the same way. This time they did not even get a glance.
"That's what I'd call the icy mitt," said Tommy to his pal.
Another group of ladies approached and again the boys attempted to show that they were ready for a display of the famous St. John brand of friendliness, but again the results were discouraging.
"Say," said one to the other, as a possible explanation struck him. "Perhaps you have to be introduced before you're allowed to speak to people in this town."
Where He Fitted
It was quite a different kind of approach which another chap made—and a more interesting reception he met—the other evening. A girl was standing at the corner of Charlotte street waiting for a car or something, when a would-be masher sidled up to her.
"Say, girly," he murmured with a leering grin, "would you like to have my photograph?"
"Your photograph?" queried the girl, who evidently was accustomed to taking care of herself without any aid from the police. "Now, I don't want your photograph; my dog album is full already, and you'd better beat it before the dog-catcher takes you back to your kennel."
