BASEBALL

Alexander in Class One.

Pitcher Grover Alexander, who, with his battery mate, Catcher Kilmer, was purchased by the Chicago Nationals for $50,000, has been placed in class one of the selective draft.
When Alexander, who is rated as the leading pitcher in the National League, was purchased from the Philadelphia club, it was agreed that if either he or Kilmer was drafted at any time previous to thirty days before the opening of the 1918 season, the transaction for the player taken into the military service would be cancelled.
Alexander had previously advised Charles H. Weeghman, president of the Chicago club, that he expected to be placed in the third class as his aged mother is dependent upon him.

RING.

A Pair of Giants.

New York, Jan. 14.—Should Jess Willard and Fred Fulton ever meet they will be the two tallest and heaviest men that ever came together in a battle for the world's heavyweight championship. Willard will stand 6 feet 7 inches, and will weigh about 300 pounds. Fulton will stand 6 feet 4 inches, and will weigh 215 pounds.

Johnson, who perhaps the two biggest men ever to battle for the heavyweight crown, but compared to Willard and Fulton, Jeffries and Johnson were dwarfs. Jeffries stood 5 feet 6 inches and Johnson 6 feet one-half inch.

BASKET BALL

At the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon the Warriors defeated the Senegals in the Junior A League 2 to 0. The Monarchs were snowed under by the Mohawks 22 to 2 in the Junior B League.

HOCKEY

In the National Hockey League fixture played in Ottawa last evening the Toronto defeated the home team by a score of 4 to 1. Play was ragged throughout.

RAWLING TOPS

SECOND BASEMAN

Brilliant infielder of the Braves at Head of List in National League

Braves infielders made an excellent showing in official fielding averages of the last season, for Rawlings led the second basemen, Maranville was second among the shortstops and Kenethy second on the first basemen. Rawlings nominally led the shortstops but he played so few games in that position, the real leadership belongs to Fletcher of the Giants, with Maranville next in line.

Rawlings played ninety-six games at second base, during which he made 177 put-outs, 200 assists and only eleven errors, giving him a percentage of 977. Some of the credit of his fine showing belongs in a measure to Maranville who handled more than the average shortstop's share of put-outs at second base. For example, Maranville in 145 games is accredited with 841 putouts and 474 assists, as compared with 276 putouts and 869 assists for Fletcher, the shortstop of the Giants. It will be seen that Fletcher had ninety-one more assists than Maranville, but sixty-five fewer putouts. Rawlings had 108 fewer putouts than he had assists whereas Fletcher of Pittsburgh actually had more putouts than assists.

While Fletcher handled the greatest number of chances of any of the shortstops, 841, Maranville's 818 chances gave him a higher percentage per game as he played in nine fewer games than the New York star. Maranville accepted 474 chances per game, as against 537 for Fletcher.
Kenethy was second in the ranks of first basemen, with a percentage of 994, as compared with 998 for Miller of St. Louis. Kenethy took part in 123 games and Miller only 96. Smith was well down in the list of third basemen, with 925 for percentage.
Among the outfielders, Powell ranked highest of the Braves, tied at 976 with Benny Kauff.

Well Said.

"The man who gives in when he is wrong," said the street orator, "is a wise man, but he who gives in when he is right is —"
"Married," said a meek voice in the crowd. — Milestones.

The grandeur of the Sierras of Southern California is given by the camera to a fascinating story of the Peruvian Andes—a story of love and mystification of the days of the Incas, of the Red Prince who loved a beautiful English girl, but who is prevented from confessing his love by a vision of a woman with a baby in her arms, dying by her own hand at the feet of an image of Inti, the Sun God of the Incas.
