Some six or eight suits for divorce are the witnesses called have been sworn, and so far as can be ascertained the inquiry is of the most informal character. If the police force is in the condition it is represented by some to be, a legislative commission should be appointed to investigate it and to recommend to the legislature such changes in the police law as will make it possible to punish severely officers who accept bribes.

HOW IT GROWS.

Some six or eight suits for divorce are pending at Ottawa. Six or eight couples, who a few years ago in all probability billed and cooed in the fashion which has prevailed for many thousands of years and declared that the world would be a howling wilderness so far as they were concerned unless they were permitted to investigate it and to recommend to the legislature such changes in the condicts and trials incident to this mortal existence, now weary of their bonds and would gladly place them selves as wide as the poles assunder. It is lamentable, but such revulsions of feeling are to be expected under certain circumstances and the with his wife.
