

NEVER DESPAIR.—By J. Burdette.
Of what use is thy sigh?
To weep for better things,
Than to weep for worse things?
To weep for better things,
Than to weep for worse things?
To weep for better things,
Than to weep for worse things?

THE SUBLIMITY OF THE HUMAN MIND.
The Sublimity of the human mind, and the power of the intellect, are subjects which have attracted the attention of philosophers and poets alike. The human mind is capable of the most sublime and heroic actions, and is also capable of the most base and ignominious. The power of the intellect is the source of all our knowledge and progress, and it is this power which has made us the most advanced and civilized of all the creatures on the face of the earth.
