"POP" GEERS IS SIXTY-FIVE

"Pop" Geers, the veteran dean of the harness racing game is sixty-five years old. "The Silent Man of Tennessee" had a bad spill in July and had to spend some time in a Cleveland hospital, but he was back at his old tricks last month, steering his steeds to victory and upsetting the dope. "Pop" began to handle the reins back in 1890, when he was known as Ed. and since then the ve-ran Grand Circuit driver is said to have won considerable more than a million dollars in purses. His best season was 1902, when his total was $116,370. The grand old man of the turf deserves all the wealth, honor and glory that have come to him. For throughout his career he has always been strictly on the square.

GRANTING HARVEST
LEAVE TO SOLDIERS
HINDERS TRAINING

Strong Measures Brought to Bear by Military Authorities to Put Stop to Granting Leave.

Special to The Standard.

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—The strongest pressure has been brought by military men not to grant harvest leave to soldiers as it has interfered with training and entailed large expense, but in deference to the urgent request of the west it has been decided to permit further extensions of harvest leave by officers commanding districts to troops not wanted for overseas service, provided actual need exists.

Representations received indicate that high wages are being paid in the west and it has been decided that while further extensions may be granted up to October 2nd, such will be granted with pay or allowances. Numerous complaints have been received that men on leave are not actually employed, and it is hoped that this will be remedied by the conditions attached to further extension.

NEW SUITS FOR TIGERS.

According to members of the Tigers, Pres. Frank Navin has promised each player a $50 suit of clothes the day the club passes Boston and takes first place in the American League this season. This is the time of year that nobby folks lay in their new fall scenery and the boys are holding out on all purchases of this sort. They expect to have their orders in soon, however, with a proviso that the bill be sent to Pres Navin.

GERMAN JUGGLERS IN PERSIA

Mr. Edmund Candler, the British Press representative in Mesopotamia, throws some light on Germany's intrigues in Persia—methods which offer a model, on a small scale, of her political machinery as a whole.

To follow the machinations of Woonckhaus before the war, or the comings and goings of Wassmuss and Neldermeyer during the last 12 months is to read the history of the Government in the individual.
"For a long time Isfahan is the centre of intrigue. On February 4, 1915, Dr. Pugin arrives with a semi-royal escort, and hoists the German and Turkish flags. Before evening the German flag is torn to shreds, but it is soon flying again. In May, the wireless is installed. Protests, orders, ex-postulations, pour in from Teheran, but the Governor-General is dilatory.
It would be a pity to remove this toy.
"For the voice of the War Lord is heard daily in Isfahan speaking with the clear, the tell of colossal disasters to the Slav, the destruction of the British Navy, the failure of the Bank of England, and the extinction of France.

A Dummy Oracle.

"Farther south, Wassmuss has a dummy wireless of his own, and he, too, confers (pretends to confer) with the All Highest in the camp of the simple Tangistanis, drawing sparks with a magnet in the night. Mysterious messages come through. The Protector of Islam has an eye that sees as far as Providence; the Khans sit figuratively on his right-hand; their honored names are on his lips; and the forays of Shakh Hussain and Zair Khidhar assume the proportions of a crusade.

"In the meanwhile, the flag of de-viance has reached Kirman. The townpeople flock to meet the Germans, Kugmeyer and Greisinger, and sacrifice a sheep, and a cow in their honor.

"Later, the tireless Zugmeyer indicates the people to crowd into the Mosque and declare a Jihad—kill all Russians and English. The British subject, Farrukh Shah, is murdered, East." and the murderer, as at Isfahan, takes refuge with the Germans.

Ancient Faiths as War Pawns.

"The events of Isfahan and Kirman were repeated at Yazd and Shiraz and over the greater part of Persia—an assassination, forged proclamations, and spurious Jehads. Both the Christian and Moslem religions were debased for political ends.

"Our own Moslem subjects would have scant respect for Englishmen who proved themselves such easy converts, and profaned Islam with the nummeries of Wassmuss and Neldermeyer appealing to ignorance and fanaticism. The German's Islamic bubble is nearly burst; every month that the war is protracted the mask is the more transparent. No Government that intrigues with religion, cyni-cally playing off sect against sect, will endure a single generation in the
