BIBLE THOUGHT — FOR TODAY —

Bible Thoughts memorized, will prove a priceless heritage in after years.

THE GLAD AWAKENING.—As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy likeness.—Psalm 17: 15.

Make the visiting auto parties welcome to town. They are profitable visitors.

Facts, figures and statistics are available in almost every industry to prove that business generally is gathering momentum.

Why worry? Just as the country is being threatened with a coal famine Canadian astronomers have discovered two new suns.

We progress only by right motives and faithful service, and retrograde by wrong motives and inferior work. If all men realized this, there could not be an inferior article made, for no man would daily hew away his own character if he realized what he was doing.

Monday, August 7, is Glencoe's civic holiday. As yet there are no "doings" announced. It is suggested that the day be just a holiday for the citizens to entertain themselves as they see fit. Most of us are dead tired of public functions where a holiday is commercialized.

Bachelors and spinsters make up the larger part of those who in their old age are obliged to depend on the town or state for support. Figures show that of men who have a trade only one in a hundred thousand has to go to the poorhouse and that of men with a college education the proportion is smaller still.

With the threatened shortage of coal becoming a more serious matter every day, the Government should not lose any time in taking steps to supply the country with a fuel substitute. If oil is found to be a profitable fuel to use on ocean vessels, it would seem not unreasonable that an oil burner for stoves and furnaces might be made and marketed for those desiring to try it out.

Soda water fountain owners and confectionery stores who dispose of drinks over their counters must not be bottling works establishments must pay a license fee of $2 and turn over 5 per cent. sales tax to the excise authorities. This order came into effect July 1. Under this latter regulation, purveyors of soft drinks of their own make who sell at summer resorts are held liable.

This is the season of the year when the number of automobile fatalities at railroad crossings begin to mount up. A suggestion has been made that at least 100 feet on each side of a railroad crossing a bump in the road about eight or ten inches high be constructed. This would compel the driver of the motor car to slow up. It would also be a warning to him that he was approaching a railroad crossing. These safety bumps could be built from the same material as the highway and would last for years.

LIVING TOO MUCH ON THE PRODUCERS

The president of the American Association of Manufacturers, John E. Edgerton, has put his finger on one of the main social and economic evils of today. Speaking frankly, he declared to the association that there were too many parasites living on those who do the hard work of producing.

"High priced hotels, theatres, ball parks and other camping grounds of amusement and non-production are enlarging their capacities to accommodate the ever-increasing army of refugees from the storms of life. Golf clubs, cigar factories, jewelry establishments, walking cane emporiums, pet dog kennels, canary bird dispensaries and bootlegging joints are flourishing as never before. Every street and highway throughout the land is teeming with automobiles that are burning expensive gasoline in the presence of self-imposed idleness. And all this time the coasts of north, south, east and west are teeming with multitudes of the weary—the constructive forces of society with marvellously increased demand on them are at this moment suffering from the lack of adequate nourishment."

One of the reasons for the excess of luxury and craving for high living, on the one side, and the hard conditions of life on the other, is the unequal share of profit taken by producer and distributor. The distributing interests, highly organized, often get more out of the consumer than the creator of the product. This is notoriously true. There are too many middlemen, agents, commission takers and others between the original producer and the public. Mr. Edgerton continues:

"When you add to this excess of distributors the countless number of others whose duty it is to reform, regulate, inspect, denounce, tax, plunder and otherwise live upon those who are trying to produce something it will not be difficult to discover the principal factor in the continuing high cost of living."

These conditions are fairly well recognized, but the question is: What can be done to remedy them? Can middlemen be legislated out of business, or can the taxers, regulators, inspectors and plain rake-off interests be compelled to go into hard work for a living? The individualist system rather ridicules any such idea. A good deal of urban life is based on complex middlemen interest of one kind and another. The farmers seem to have been the chief sufferers, and railway freight rates in particular have been their chief distribution burden. The whole question will bear study, from an economic point of view, but before sound remedial measures are possible, that study will have to be more comprehensive than any yet put before the public.—Mail & Empire.
