

of the railing F. which runs around all the walls and uprights. G. Table.

In this library, books are not allowed to go out but in cases of necessity, and then the person who takes them has to give a receipt, which is returned to him when the volumes are brought back.

The further prosecution of the preceding ideas of the structure of the building for a library, according to the claims of our times, ought of course to be left to practical architects.

Sketches of some of the most important Libraries and Museums in Europe and in the United States, with illustrations, will appear in the Journal of Education for Upper Canada, during the current year of 1854.